Modify Living Things, Control Evolution

Creation of Life New Goal?

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) A scientific leader has proposed that the artificial creation of life itself be set as "a national goal."

★ ★ ★

A rush of knowledge is putting within sight the ability to modify living things and to control evolution, and ultimately to create new or existing forms of life, perhaps new "human" life, said Dr. Charles C. Price, president of the American Chemical Society.

★ ★ ★

"The job can be done—it is merely a matter of time and money," and great effort, he told a general session of the society's national meeting, amplifying his views in an interview.

He said a first result—coming about in perhaps 10 to 20 years — could be ability to achieve "more efficient production of plants and animals, or even species doing things never done before." Or to improve human characteristics.

"I can't imagine that the ability to synthesize (create) new life will not happen within a century or so," he added.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Price suggested the search for such knowledge be organized as a national goal, not unlike the U.S. space program.

The other choice is to let such knowledge and vast powers "come about haphazardly," he said.

But setting it as a national goal—or even possibly as an international goal—"would allow time and opportunity to consider the critical questions of who then might control" life and evolution and for what purposes.

Dr. Price said he outlined his ideas by letters in June to scientific leaders in some government agencies — the Atomic Energy Commission, National Institutes of Health, and National Aeronautics and Space Administration — "who are doing some component work in the bio-sciences" or life sciences.

"They were much interested. In general, the reaction was that the idea should first be considered carefully by the scientific community before being brought to the government.

★ ★ ★

"Success could lead to modified plants and algae for the synthesis of foods, fibers and antibiotics, to improved growth properties of plants and animals, or even to improved characteristics for man himself."

Colwood Sea Lab To Go Up

By BILL STAVDAL

A $2,250,000 oceanographic institute will likely be started in Esquimalt harbor within a year, federal mines and technical surveys minister J. Watson MacNaught announced Monday.

Tenders for a $3,500,000 hydrographic vessel to be based at the institute have already been called, said the minister in Victoria, and another hydrographic-oceanographic ship will be built later.

SITE TOURED

Mr. MacNaught, appointed to his position only two months ago, made the announcement after touring the future site in Colwood, on the west side of Esquimalt Harbor. He was accompanied by David Groos, Victoria's Liberal MP.

The institute will have a staff of 180 to 200 people, said William E. van Steenburgh, deputy minister of mines and technical surveys. An oceanographic group with a staff of 20 now located at Departure Bay in Nanaimo will be moved south and incorporated in the new station.

START IN YEAR

"Within a year, if we get the money, we can start building, said Mr. van Steenburgh.

He estimated that the institute will open in 2½ to three years.

The deputy minister said it will operate in conjunction with the Pacific Naval laboratory, which now conducts research into marine sound transmission for the navy.

COAST GUARD

The institute will also incorporate a hydrographic station now located in the Inner Harbor of Victoria.

A coast guard station will be based at the institute.

"We expect the contracts for a tide-and-current vessel for the West Coast will be let very soon," said Mr. van Steenburgh. It will be about 270 feet long, he added.

Juvenile Ruling Upheld

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Appeal Court ruled Monday that juveniles charged with breaking provincial traffic laws must be tried in juvenile court.

The ruling upholds a Supreme Court decision that quashed a lower-court speeding conviction against a Prince George youth.

The Supreme Court had ruled that the youth, who was 17 at the time, should have been tried in juvenile court under the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act.

Indian Troops Beaten Back By Pakistanis

RAWALPINDI (Reuters)—Indian troops backed by planes, tanks and artillery made several efforts Monday to advance on the hard-fought Sialkot battlefront but Pakistani forces beat them back, a Pakistani government communique claimed.

The communique said the Indians suffered heavy casualties in the sector which they invaded from beyond the Kashmir border last week.

BIGGEST OF WAR

The battle around the town of Sialkot—just south of the 1949 United Nations ceasefire line in the disputed border state of Kashmir—is regarded here as the biggest action of the war. But Pakistani authorities declined to give any fighting details beyond the communique.

"We can say no more than that it is a heavy engagement," an official spokesman said.

MAJOR FORCE

The Pakistanis faced what they estimated to be 50,000 Indian troops, including a full armored division, in the battle.

Experts here have said the outcome of the war could hinge on the Sialkot action because of the heavy loss of tanks and armored equipment to both sides.

Meanwhile, it was announced that Iranian Premier Abbas Hoveida and Turkish Foreign Minister Hassan Isik will fly to Rawalpindi together today to confer with President Mohammed Ayub Khan on military aid.

OFFERS SUPPORT

All three countries are linked in the western-sponsored central treaty organization, and Iran and Turkey have offered support and aid to Pakistan.

Premier Suat Hayri of Turkey announced Saturday that his country would send $5,000,000 worth of Turkish-made arms and ammunition to Pakistan under their existing trade agreement.

UN Mission To Kashmir Needs Help

NEW DELHI (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant's mission to end the fighting between India and Pakistan appeared stymied Monday night and there were signs he would seek help from world powers.

Reports of victories in the field hardened India's stand on its terms for a ceasefire.

Pakistan made similar claims of victory on the western front around Lahore and Sialkot in Pakistan. It showed no willingness to compromise.

SEES RUSSIAN

After meeting here Monday with India's Foreign Minister Swaran Singh, Thant met privately with the Soviet charge d'affaires, Alexei A. Rodionov.

A UN spokesman said Thant and the Russian discussed the possibility of Thant's return to UN headquarters in New York by way of Moscow. While UN officials said this would be only a stop to change planes, there were reports Thant wanted to see Soviet Premier Kosygin.

NEW APPEAL

A short time after Thant met with the Soviet envoy, word reached New Delhi of a new Soviet appeal for an end to the fighting. A Soviet statement carried by the news agency Tass said the Soviet government is seriously alarmed by the hostilities and expressed fear that it might involve the entire world.

The Soviet statement appeared to be aimed at China, which supports Pakistan and once again has raised fears of a renewal of the 1962 border conflict between India and China.

'STAY OUT'

In Washington, U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk advised China to "stay out" of the India-Pakistan conflict.

"I think that there are those who fee' that China is fishing in these troubled waters," Rusk told reporters.

"I think the Soviet attitude has been helpful so far," he added.

Indian officials privately acknowledged that if anything could force an end to the conflict it would be pressure by the Soviet Union and other powers, especially the United States and Britain.

BIG CONTRIBUTIONS

The United States has contributed more than $6,000,000,000 to India's economic development since 1951 and the Soviet Union has poured in more than $1,000,000,000. The U.S. feeds a great portion of India's population and

Long Reign

Norway Rejects Labor

OSLO (AP)—The long - established socialist government, architect of Norway's welfare state, conceded defeat early today in the two-day parliamentary elections.

Premier Einar Gerhardsen, whose Labor party has ruled for 30 years, except for three weeks in 1963, announced his government had fallen several hours after the polls closed.

SENSATION

"We will get quite another political constellation and a situation with the Labor party in opposition," Gerhardsen said in a broadcast.

Gerhardsen's defeat created a sensation in traditionally socialist - minded Scandinavia. Political observers predicted the assumption of power by a middle-of-the-road coalition of the four opposition parties, although the socialists remain Norway's largest single party.

UPSURGE

The socialists fell on an upsurge of right- and left - wing sentiment among Norway's 2,400,000 voters. Incomplete returns indicated they may have lost as many as four seats, more than enough to tumble them from power.

The biggest gains were racked up by the Conservative party, which held 29 seats in the old Parliament, although it was not certain whether it would be able to name the premier in a new coalition.

Other members of the anti-socialist coalition are the Liberals, who held 14 seats in the old Parliament, the Christian People's party, 15, and the Centre party (Agrarians), 16.

'Ready to Fight For 1,000 Years'

RAWALPINDI (Reuters) Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto said Monday night Pakistan is prepared to fight for 1,000 years "to free" Kashmir.

He told correspondents the fighting with India would continue until Pakistan's three-point plan concerning the disputed state is accepted.

Pakistan's plans call for the complete withdrawal of both Indian and Pakistani troops from Kashmir and a plebiscite within three months to determine the area's future.

An Afro - Asian United Nations force would patrol Kashmir during the interim period.

"If India rejects the plan, the conflict will continue," Bhutto said.

NOT NEGOTIABLE

"Our three-point plan is not negotiable," he said. "We know we are a small nation but if need be we will continue to fight to free Kashmir for 1,000 years."

He added: "Our position is that there must be a freely-conducted plebiscite within Kashmir to allow the inhabitants to choose whether the area shall be part of Pakistan or of India."

Meanwhile, in New Delhi, India said Monday Pakistan's proposals for a settlement of the Kashmir dispute are a deliberate attempt to wreck United Nations Secretary - General U Thant's peace mission.

TERMS LISTED

Pakistan's peace terms, announced last Sunday and repeated Monday, call for a complete withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani forces from Kashmir, the stationing of an Afro-Asian security force in the area and a plebiscite in three months.

Half-Cent Refunded To Railway

An error of half a cent has been corrected by the provincial cabinet, and Canadian National Railways is happy again.

The railway recently bought 173,074 gallons of diesel fuel and paid a tax of one cent a gallon called for by a Colored Gasoline Tax Act.

Then a CNR accountant discovered that the railway should only have paid half a cent a gallon, under the Fuel Oil Tax Act.

It took an order-in-council to refund the CNR's $865.37.

Betsy Toll

Dead? No One Knows!

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Ships, planes and divers searched the murky Mississippi River for a missing cargo of poisonous chlorine gas upriver at Baton Rouge Monday as the New Orleans coroner's office laid out cots in a makeshift morgue to handle a mounting hurricane death toll.

Officials urged Baton Rouge's 160,000 inhabitants to stay calm but the Louisiana State capital was tense as the hunt was pursued for the barge, one of many believed swamped by hurricane Betsy last Friday.

Dr. Nicholas Chetta, the coroner here, said bodies of hurri-

Indians Protest Integration Phone Queen for Support

LEBRET, Sask. (CP) — Eight Grade 12 students began a "sit-in" Monday determined to remain in the Indian residential school here until they are assured they and future students will be able to take Grade 12 at the school.

★ ★ ★

They want to finish their high school education at an all-Indian school despite a ruling by the Indian affairs department that they attend integrated high schools.

The students sat in the lounge of the school here Monday night drinking coffee and munching sandwiches supplied by a resident. They said they would stay in the school until they were allowed to register.

Rev. Leonard Cherron, school principal, said he was ordered by the Indian affairs department not to register them.

"We don't object to being integrated but we don't want to be forced into it overnight," one student said.

The department is closing the school gradually, phasing-out a grade each year beginning with Grade 12. It is the only school in Saskatchewan with an entirely Indian population in Grades one to 11.

★ ★ ★

A committee of the protesting students has asked Mr. Pearson and Senator A. H. McDonald of Regina to intervene. A phone call has been placed to Queen Elizabeth on the matter, a spokesman said.

Stop Fighting And We'll Help

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian delegate to the 54th inter-parliamentary conference appealed to India and Pakistan Monday to stop fighting each other and get on with the mutual battle against poverty, ignorance and disease.

"We of the affluent world stand ready to help our Indian and Pakistan friends to fight these enemies—but not to kill men and women," said New Democratic Party MP Colin Cameron.

Mr. Cameron, who has represented the British Columbia riding of Nanaimo-Cowichan-the Islands almost continuously since 1953, intervened in a conference debate on economic development with a strong plea to both donors and recipients to live up to the responsibilities of international development assistance efforts.

British MP Warns: Not Enough Food

Share Wealth or Face Another World War

OTTAWA (UPI)—Delegates from 61 countries were told at the 54th inter-parliamentary conference Monday to "stop using the United Nations as a witch doctor's incantation."

★ ★ ★

Sir Cyril Osborne, British economist, exporter and Conservative Member of Parliament, in what he termed "a practical speech," blasted the delegates for leaning on the UN to solve problems, while insisting on retaining control of their destinies.

He named three points necessary to stave off a third world war: birth control, equitable distribution of the world's wealth, and admission of Red China to the UN.

★ ★ ★

"We must share our wealth or all go down in a bloody third world war," he said later in an interview. "The next world war will be over food."

Osborne thought his 10-minute address before the world gathering of politicians probably fell on deaf ears. "I've attended these conferences for 15 years; I've said the same thing for 15 years."

★ ★ ★

But he felt the western world "will take the action that is necessary" when starvation hits the "have-not" nations "on a massive scale."

Osborne's action evolves around a worldwide abandonment of national interests.

It means:

● A halt to the "terrifying" world population growth rate. He estimated a five-fold increase in food production will be needed to feed the projected world population of 7,000,000,000 at the end of the century. By the year 2035 "there won't be enough to eat."

● A correction of the "maldistribution" of the world's wealth, implemented by "staggering sacrifices" by the rich nations.

★ ★ ★

He noted the poor nations are the world's prime source of raw materials, and said the rich nations should be required to pay "three to four times more" for such raw materials.

As well the rich nations must co-operate among themselves to be in a stronger position to help the poor nations.

★ ★ ★

"This may be unpopular," he said introducing the third proposal—admission of Communist China to the UN. But there will be no solution to world economic and political problems, he said, unless China cane victims from flooded down-river towns are being brought in by boat, truck and plane.

In the confusion that lingered behind the worst storm in the city's history, no one was sure how many persons were dead.

HAM RADIO

Dr. Chetta said: "We are expecting as many as 200 bodies to be brought in . . . in the current load." But even the coroner's office was caught in the confusion of trying to determine the number of actual dead.

The coroner said the estimate was relayed by a ham radio operator from sources in St. Bernard and Plaquemine Parish and preparations to handle the bodies was based on this report.

HIGH TOLL

But officials felt the police reports of bodies flooding the coroner's office—running as high as 400—may contain many duplications that have swelled the figures to an exaggerated level.

President Johnson, after checking with state officials Sunday, said the death toll would run into the hundreds.

SUB HUNTERS

The coroner's office officially has identified only 27 hurricane victims. The office has processed 78 bodies since Betsy struck last Friday, but many remain unidentified.

At Johnson's direction, the U.S. Navy dispatched the destroyer Hyman with submarine-spotting sonar gear to Baton Rouge to press the hunt for the missing barge. Two submarine hunter planes flew in from Norfolk, Va.

DIVERS BUSY

Nineteen navy and 13 army divers made repeated trips beneath the surface to look at objects located by sensitive detection gear.

Centre of the search was a section of the River near downtown Baton Rouge.

The area was closed to river traffic and 100,000 gas masks were being stockpiled. The masks would be distributed if the half-inch-thick steel tanks containing the chlorine began to leak.

White House sources in Washington said the 600 tons of gas would be enough to kill 30,000 to 60,000 persons but the deadly gas posed a threat only if the barge's containers are pierced.

As flood waters gradually receded in greater New Orleans, the danger of disease mounted.

SCHOOL CLOSED

Health authorities hurriedly inoculated more than 400 policemen against tetanus and typhoid. Hundreds of volunteer workers were given shots as they helped handle the stream of refugees and bodies.

The health officials ordered public schools in the area closed indefinitely.

Betsy Kills Josephine

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Josephine the whooping crane died Monday—probably a victim of Hurricane Betsy.

Josephine was one of eight whooping cranes in captivity. Only 50 of the rare birds exist in the world.

★ ★ ★

A noble veteran in the fight to keep her species alive, Josephine had given birth to four birds at the Audubon Park Zoo. Her mate, Crip, survives, along with three female and one male offspring.

Park superintendent William Pohlmann said Josephine and Crip were put in secure quarters when hurricane Betsy swept into New Orleans Thursday. The pair returned to the usual cage the next morning.

But helicopters on reacue missions then flew low over the park and the two whooping cranes became extremely excited, said Pohlmann.

★ ★ ★

Monday morning, the guard who makes the rounds every hour found Josephine dead. An autopsy will be made to determine the exact cause of death.

We Would Help

The developed countries—"we spoiled darlings of fortune"—have a responsibility to share their affluence generously and without political motive, said Mr. Cameron. They must not act like "smart traders out to line our pockets by a shrewd business deal."

But the developing nations have a responsibility, too, he said. If Canadians and other citizens of the "have" countries are to pay higher taxes to aid the "have-nots," they must be sure such assistance reaches its proper goals.

"Those who represent the Africans and Asians must be able to assure us that our workers are not being asked to subsidize military adventures, that their contributions will go toward making children happier and healthier and better educated, not to line the pockets of politicians and generals."

Without mentioning Viet Nam or any other world trouble spot, the NDP member also offered some advice to the United States.

"May I say to my friends and neighbors from the United States that you cannot destroy an idea with physical violence. You can only destroy men and women and children and the means by which they live—and the idea will feed on their bodies."

Mr. Cameron spoke as the 600 delegates from 61 nations turned away from the cold war polemics of last week's general opening debate to concentrate on prospects for improved international economic conditions. With few exceptions, Monday's discussion steered clear of references to Viet Nam, Kashmir and other international political issues.

The basic text before the conference, being held in Canada for the first time, was a draft resolution presented by the inter-parliamentary union's economic and social committee. It called for urgent and large-scale measures to aid the developing nations, steps to remove international trade barriers, support for the proposed United Nations trade and development board, and an assurance from the developed nations that foreign aid will be provided without political, economic or military strings.

Any threat to cut off this economic assistance—military aid already has been stopped by the U.S. and Britain—would bring great pressure on India.

CABINET MEETS

Indian Prime Minister Shastri did not meet Thant Monday, but called into session his full cabinet and later its emergency committee to discuss his meeting with the secretary-general Sunday.

It was clear that a show of compromise by Shastri could seriously jeopardize his political future. Extremist political groups stepped up demands that Pakistan's military power be destroyed.

FRESH GAINS

A New Delhi spokesman said Indian troops made fresh gains in Lahore and Sialkot sectors.

India claimed all the fighting was on Pakistani territory and that Pakistani units had been hard hit. Pakistan claimed, however, its forces routed two Indian infantry divisions and held some Indian territory southwest of the city of Amritsar in Punjab state.

There was no independent confirmation of either claim.

CLAIM AIR RAIDS

India claimed Pakistani planes made many raids on widespread points in India territory.

In Jammu, winter capital in the Indian-controlled sector of Kashmir, nine civilians were reported killed in an air raid. Five cities in India's Punjab state were reported hit, and far to the southwest in Gujarat state Pakistani raiders were said to have struck Jamnagar airport.

It was reported in distant Bombay on the west coast that two B-57 bombers of the Pakistani Air Force were seen flying in from the Arabian Sea. Air raid sirens howled several times during the day.

Glaucoma Damage Permanent, But Early Treatment Helps

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person have a "simple form" of glaucoma, in an early stage, and after using drops prescribed by the optometrist, discontinue treatment and never again need it?"

Or is the saying true that "once you have glaucoma you always will have it?"—P.G.S.

First of all, I can't think of many conditions which can be treated with a guarantee that you will never have any more trouble.

With glaucoma, which is an insidous thing that creeps up without much warning at first, it is doubly necessary, for safety, to have the eyes pressure-checked periodically.

Second, it is not true that once you have glaucoma you always have it. However, it is true that once the eyes have been affected by the pressure, you can't undo the damage. Rather, it is then necessary to make sure that pressure doesn't develop again.

Glaucoma can be detected in early, mild form, but its treatment is never simple.

By the way, did you miswrite when you referred to an optometrist? An ophthalmologist should be prescribing drops or other medication.

★ ★ ★

Dear Dr. Molner: Should a 20-month-old baby be given a raw egg every day? I have read that the white is harmful.

— Mrs .E .A.

There's no reason to avoid the white of the egg. However, there can be a hazard in a raw egg, since it can contain germs that produce dysentery.

My advice is to soft-boil the egg, or, if the shell is cracked, to cook it thoroughly.

★ ★ ★

Dear Dr. Molner: When you say there is no cure for mononucleosis, do you mean the patient eventually dies from it?

— Mrs. I. A.

Heavens, no! I mean that infectious mononucleosis, like the common cold, and some other ailments, is a "self-limited" condition. It runs it course and then the patient gets better.

The important thing is to understand what kind of a disease it is so that complications can be prevented.

Only Nature can make a tree.
But Man can build a forest.
The timberlands we manage will yield
40% more wood than Nature's ever did.

Take our ten-year forestry program. In logged and thinly treed areas, we'll be planting forty million new seedlings. In crowded spots, we'll thin the trees to provide space for faster growth. (The thinnings? They'll be used too: sold to world markets as pulp and paper.) And as always, we'll be waging the endless war against the enemies of the forest. Preventing fire, controlling insects and disease. The lands we manage under this intensive program are growing up to 40% more wood per acre than Nature's forests. Growing it faster, too – by as much as ten years. Unselfish? Hardly. We hope to be harvesting and marketing our products when your children and theirs are looking to the forest industry for their livelihood. Let's say it's just good business. An agreement between MB&PR and your grandchildren.

'Unions Attempting to Push Pension Bill on Companies'

VANCOUVER (CP) — An insurance actuary said Monday union negotiators are seeking by one means or another to have employers pay for workers' contributions to the Canada pension plan.

R. C. Dowsett of the Crown Life Insurance Company of Toronto, was participating in a panel discussion on the pension plan at the annual convention of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants.

AGAINST IT

He said employers have found that union negotiators seek to add the Canada plan to private existing pension plans. The employers were strongly against such integration.

"If the add-on approach is taken, the union negotiators will not give the employer credit, at the bargaining table, for making a larger contribution to employee welfare plans even although employer contributions to previously adopted plans remain undiminished and the additional Canada plan employer contributions must be paid."

EMPLOYERS PUSHED

He said that union claims that the employer contribution is like a corporation tax can be answered that worker contributions are like income taxes.

"However, this does not stop union negotiators from inluding an extra four cents an hour mentally in the wage increase demands. Employers have been pushed to give substantial wage increases this year."

WARNS DELEGATES

In other matters the convention displayed some preoccupation with computers, with the keynote speaker warning that all delegates are rapidly becoming obsolete.

Prof. Thomas L. Whistler, professor of industrial relations at the University of Chicago, said computors, properyl used, will mean "middle-and upper-level management will no longer be needed. The professor whose knowledge is out of date, will no longer comprehend some research pape rhis students turn in," he said.

"It will make some reluctant, including the nuclear physicists who don't understand how one builds computer control into their experimental apparatus; the management consultant offering their clients wisdom valid in pre-computer days but worse than useless now."

A computer moved into an organization would result in changes in organization structure and in management jobs and skills. It would shrink the levels and numbers of management and change departmental boundaries.

RESISTENCE

"Management . . . will shift from problem - solving, from "putting out the fires," to becoming a process of creative interrogation with the computer to furnish the answers."

Naturally computerization of the company would meet resistance, particularly from those who would be effected he said.

Convict Names Rivard

LAREDO, Tex. (CP)—Lucien Rivard and three other Canadians charged with conspiracy in a huge narcotics smuggling operation heard a self-styled fellow conspirator tell a jury Monday they were all in the narcotics "business" together.

The witness at the first day of their trial in this Texas-Mexico border city was Joseph Michel Caron, 36, a former Montreal waiter who was trapped by border guards here in 1963 with about $33,000,000 worth of heroin stuffed in the panels and seats of a car heading from Mexico City to Montreal.

FORTUNE

Caron, serving 10 years in a U.S. penitentiary for smuggling in the cache, testified shortly after border officials wheeled in the compact fortune done up in plastic bags weighing a total 76 pounds and identified it as pure heroin.

The four prisoners listened to Caron stoically but at one point—as he told of his first meeting with defendant Joseph Raymond Jones of Montreal—Jones toppled to the floor with a clatter as he lurched too far over in his swivel-back chair. Guards quickly straightened him up unharmed.

CONSPIRACY

Jones, a 28-year-old salesman; Julien Gagnon, alias Jerry Massey, another salesman; and Charles Emile Groleau, described by the prosecution Wednesday as "executive officer" to alleged kingpin Rivard, make up the remaining Montrealers charged with Rivard in an alleged four-country smuggling conspiracy.

When Caron was asked whether he had had "business relations" with the group, the short, pale prisoner replied; "Yes, smuggling narcotics."

Further Drug Charges?

TORONTO (CP) — RCMP in Toronto and Montreal said Monday they expect to make more arrests in connection with a drug racket that already has netted at least 23 suspects in the two cities.

★ ★ ★

An RCMP spokesman here said the force has "warrants out for a number more."

"They're . . . difficult to locate," he said.

"Some are believed to be in the Toronto area; others may not be."

In Montreal, RCMP were looking for at least two more persons since five were arrested Saturday.

★ ★ ★

All suspects were arrested after RCMP in Montreal picked up and charged Joseph Rosario (Willie) Lamy, 44.

Mounties in Toronto simultaneously made eight arrests, charged another seven already in the Don Jail and Monday charged another man.

Lamy's arrest triggered the others.

"As soon as we had Lamy, we moved in on the others," said Superintendent J. R. Carriere, head of the RCMP C division in Quebec.

Lamy testified at the Dorion inquiry into corruption in high government places that he gave Marie Rivard $20,000 as she tried to raise $60,000 bail for her husband Lucien awaiting extradition to the United States on narcotics charges. Rivard's trial started Monday in Laredo, Tex.

Vanishing Authority

IT BEGINS to appear that settlement of disputes on a larger scale than the recent Greek-Turkish collision in Cyprus is beyond the capacity of the United Nations.

The trouble, of course, lies in the fact that without unanimity in the Assembly, intervention, except at the conference level, is pretty well out of the question.

The world saw this same unhappy state of affairs during the lifetime of the League of Nations, when repeated failures even to use sanctions against such aggressive designs as those of Japan in Manchuria and Italy in Abyssinia undermined the world body to the extent that it ultimately collapsed of its own inertia.

The usefulness of the United Nations has been proved, however, in such minor difficulties as those in Cyprus; and there was undoubtedly some success in the Congo, although ultimately frustrated by the refusal of certain member nations to accept any part of the cost of peace-keeping operations.

It is not possible to point with any pride to the United Nations' effort in Korea, a police action in which the United States was predominantly engaged, along with the South Korean forces, and little more than token support from other members of the international body.

Over the last decade, in particular, the authority of the United Nations has been progressively undermined. It must be admitted that Britain and France, by their explosive reaction to Egypt's seizure of the Suez Canal, helped in this process.

But since then France and Russia have persistently refused to fulfill their financial obligations to the UN, impeding its function, and denigrating its principles. Many of the new member-states have made it plain they regard the organization purely as an instrument in power politics, owing to it neither obedience nor loyalty.

The United States in its own hemisphere and in the Far East no longer troubles to refer to the United Nations before acting unilaterally in crisis.

The United Nations, in fact, like its dead predecessor, the League of Nations, is becoming less and less a symbol of collective security but more of collective guilt.

It is small wonder that, although they may listen, the heads of state in Pakistan and India are unlikely to be moved by the appeals of that dedicated and persevering man, Mr. U Thant, the United Nations secretary-general.

The weight of something more than conscience, something more than friendly advice, something more than humanitarian considerations is needed to check the use of arms. It is not enough to shake an admonitory finger.

'Phoney' Situation

THE NDP LEADER, Mr. Douglas, says the prime minister's statement that he needs a majority mandate at this time to carry on is a "phoney." As the past two years have shown the government has been in no danger of defeat because of its minority position. And Mr. Pearson's claim of having accomplished many fine things is in itself a denial of his election excuse.

Certainly a large group of university students across the country has reason to think the situation is phoney—those who by the technicality of the Elections Act will be disenfranchised. Incidentally many another Canadian voter, who may not be able through weather conditions to get to the polls in November, is apt to suffer the same fate.

Mr. Pearson says he is sorry about the predicament of the students who will lose their votes, and well he might be. It is a poor circumstance that would penalize a young man or woman just because they are attending university.

The Elections Act provides that students wishing to vote away from home must be in residence at their universities when election writs are issued. But if the latter in effect jumps the gun on university registration, as currently it does, how can the students possibly be in residence?

Nor is it rational that they can break their studies to return home and put themselves in the Elections Act clear; many of them couldn't afford to do so in any case.

One presumes, however, that a way out of the dilemma will be found and that the affected students won't be thus unfairly deprived of their voting privilege. Mr. Pearson at least has referred the matter to the justice department to see what can be done. He could do no less.

Acts are acts but interpretation of them is what often counts. Students in the process of acquiring university residence should be construed as having done so within the prescribed period, the intent proving the validity of their status.

Unhealthy Hysteria

ONE NEED NOT be a spoil-sport or inimical to the musical fashions that capture the appeal of the young generation to view with dismay the screaming orgies that accompany the performances of leading pop groups. The Beatles certainly started something.

The latest program in San Francisco of this Liverpool quartette which set the guitar world astir with its beat music, to be quickly followed by other similar aggregations, can only be viewed with some apprehensiveness as to the effect of unrestrained emotion on adolescent youngsters.

Some 17,000 hysterical young people went into the now customary frenzy that greets the Beatles and their like, with half a hundred girls being carried out in a state of exhaustion, and another 30 injured as they crushed forward to touch their idols. If there was a joker in the situation it was that they screamed so hard and so loud that the offerings of the Beatles couldn't be heard. The latter might as well have stood silent as mummies.

It is not the mature teen-agers who go into delirium when these pop groups appear before them but youngsters of more tender years, some of them not even into their teens. The performance becomes a feverish ferment on the part of the audience which can only be detrimental to the healthy growth of the youthful mind. What their parents think or do about this situation there doesn't seem to be much evidence.

One sympathizes with the police forces trying to keep a minimum of order in such circumstances, aiming not to penalize but to protect the adolescents from their own hysteria. One of these days, it seems obvious, some city is going to ban the appearance of visiting groups like the Beatles on the legitimate ground that they are the begetters of disturbances of the peace.

Wanted: Bilingual Tutor Computer

By RICHARD JACKSON
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

THERE'S a federal government job going here in the national capital, and if you're the man or woman for it, then you can just about write your own ticket.

All those glorious federal civil service fringe benefits . . .

. . . job security unmatched anywhere in the nation . . .

. . . good, reasonable hours leaving plenty of time for recreation and leisure . . .

. . . the country's best and most generous superannuation, paying 70 per cent of salary calculated on your 10 best earning years . . .

. . . humanly elastic sick leave . . .

And, if you fill the enormously exacting specifications, maybe anything from $20,000 to $25,000 or even better a year, to boot.

The job?

Computer tutor.

Qualifications?

Thorough mastery of engineering sciences in the computer field and extraordinary linguistic talent.

The job?

To program a high speed digital computer for English and French.

It's a computerized world, isn't it?

And a bilingual country, n'est-ce pas?

They've got computers now that can write poetry, correct high school exams (although not very well, it turns out), calculate income tax (yours and everyone else's), play chess and fly satellites.

But not one that can translate English into French or French into English.

Down at the National Research Council here they have a computer that COULD do the job and they have an ambitious plan for rapid—20,000 words an hour—machine translation.

All they need is the mathematical scientist with the necessary linquistic wizardry to properly program it.

★ ★ ★

Dr. K. F. Tupper, vice-president of the NRC, for six months has been scouring the world for this extremely specialized combined skill, still hasn't found the talent to make the computer bilingual, but isn't giving up yet.

It's been possible, for nearly 10 years now, to electronically switch English into French.

But the translation has been too loose and the computer needs a tutor to educate it in the finer points of grammar and syntax.

Trouble is, the international competition for this kind of specialized language-engineering skill is fierce.

For at a recent seminar run by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization it came out that a number of other western industrial nations have ambitious programs of machine translation in the works, and like Canada are shopping around frantically for just such a computer tutor.

The idea here in the capital for using the bilingual computer is to dig into the immense backlog of federal government translation that gets bigger and bigger with each passing day now that everything must be done in two languages.

The clutch came last March when the Canada Pension Plan legislation was stalled in the Commons while Quebec MPs waited for the French translations of the committee hearing and of the bill itself.

The best the translators have been able to do is just try keeping abreast of official government announcements, cabinet statements and other top-drawer documents, while all the lesser material piles up.

Since March, the Research Council has flown in several highly-qualified language-engineers from different parts of the world for interviews and examinations.

But skilled though they might be, none of them has quite measured up to the specialized requirements for tutoring a bilingual computer.

It's no trick to program a computer for simple translation on a word-for-word basis.

What is needed is the skill to program the electronic transposition of entire sentences with all the nuances, from one language to the other, observing highest grammatical style and properly preserving syntax so that a minimum of editing is required. And at 20,000 computerized words, or up, an hour.

Best the translators now do is 500 words an hour. But they're only human, poor things.

Strange Campaign

By OTTO VON HABSBURG
from Bonn

ON Sept. 19, the first major election of this season will take place: the German Federal Republic will renew its Bundestag.

The campaign which precedes this important date is one of the strangest in European parliamentary history. Both major parties use exactly identical slogans. Speeches, pamphlets or posters no longer distinguish what used to be the right and what is no longer the left.

If, despite this, the political struggle is not drowned in universal boredom, it is because the fight which yesterday confronted the parties, today resembles a civil war within each political camp. Numerous Socialist leaders wish the defeat of their won standard-bearer Mayor Willi Brandt. That these feelings are not yet aired outside of secret committee sessions is a last remnant of the traditional iron discipline of the left. Among Christian Democrats, on the other hand, the battle takes place in the open. Former chancellor Conrad Adenauer, Bavarian leader Franz-Joseph Strauss and Speaker Gerstenmaier have publicly differed from their party's official spokesman, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

This bewildering scene dramatizes the deep changes in the German political situation. They are due to economic and social developments, which gradually put an end to the tensions of the past. The Socialists have abandoned their extremist ideas, especially nationalization, and have rallied, though rather late, the majority's foreign policy. Thus the strongest argument in favor of the coalition between Christian Democrats and Liberals has lost its conclusiveness. Consequently the disadvantages of the present formula become more irritating, especially the opportunity it offers the weaker partner to blackmail the stronger.

Till now the idea of a coalition between the two great parties was rejected, since it was feared that this formula would lead almost inevitably to the corruption of the regime. Now a tacit understanding seems to have been reached between the dynamic wings of the Christian Democrats and the Socialists. The common program would be a coalition for a limited time, made primarily to enact an electoral reform. By abolishing proportionate representation and replacing it with the British system, only two parties would remain: the Christian Democrats and the Socialists. Then there would be a true majority and a strong opposition. The regime would function properly.

The interest of the present curious campaign is thus not so much which party will gain or lose a few seats here or there, but the governmental formula after Sept. 19. Hence, the crucial decision will come between those who, like Herr Erhard, want to maintain the present coalition and those who, with Herr Adenauer, Herr Strauss and Socialist leader Herr Wehner, want to renew the German regime by following the examples of Britain and America.

"One Feels Very Lonely . . .

But I Will Do My Duty"

By FRANK GILES from Athens

"ONE feels very lonely, but I was born to the job and will do my duty. My conscience is clear."

Thus the young King of Greece recently described to someone his feelings about the long-drawn-out crisis which still shows no sign of ending.

It has indeed been a testing time for him. At the age of 25 he has had to stand up to highly experienced and, in the case of M. George Papandreou, supremely wily, politicians and the assaults of the Greek press.

Yet, however history may judge his wisdom and his actions, he himself has never faltered in upholding what he conceives to be his constitutional position and the best interests of his country and its institutions.

Watching him arrive one morning at Athens airport from Corfu—thick-set, dark, quick and athletic in his movements as he strode towards the waiting Rolls coupe whose wheel he took himself—one had no sense of the strain which he must be undergoing or of the solitary and final responsibility from which he can never escape.

Perhaps this is because as he himself has said he was born to the job: his father, King Paul, used, as an essential part of the young prince's training, to make him attend royal audiences and councils; with the result that when he succeeded 18 months ago as King Constantine he had little to learn of the forms and proceduure of constitutional monarchy.

Only experience was lacking, and the opportunity for that was not long delayed.

There are of course two sides to every story, and where Greek politics are concerned there are usually about eight.

But in this present crisis one definite side has been that of the king, and so far as I have been able from palace sources to understand his attitude, his prime motives have been to shield the army from politics and the baleful influence of politicians. This again is an instinct of his upbringing for it was King Paul's conviction that with its unhappy history of political involvement, the Greek army, after the war and the subsequent civil war, must be kept out of politics.

Up to now, that policy has been successful. It was because King Constatine felt very strongly that M. Papandreou's assumption of the ministry of defence would call it into question that he refused his assent.

Whether the king was constitutionally correct in so doing is a point of dispute for Greeks. In any case M. Papandreou resigned and the crisis came out into the open.

The king felt like this because of the way in which the name of M. Papandreou's son Andreas had been associated (whether rightly or wrongly it was not for the palace to say) in the recently uncovered charges of conspiracy within the army.

How could his father, with any semblance of propriety, assume the responsibility for the defence department just when investigations into the alleged conspiracies were under way?

"The army would have been in an uproar," was how the king put it to someone at the time.

All this is water under the bridge now, but it does help explain why the king acted as he did and why he does not regret having done so.

Although he will not accept M. Papandreou as prime minister, he remains on good terms with the old man. Even through all the bitterness of the last few weeks, these two, divided in age by more than 50 years, have intermittently pleased one another, both delighting in their efforts to outflank or outmanoeuvre the other.

What the king will do now in view of reported prospects of early elections under a government led by M. Panayotis Kanellopoulos, the leader of the right wing group, remains to be seen. Hitherto he has been vigorously opposed to the idea of elections on the grounds that were they to be held in such circumstances the results would be chaos and perhaps civil strife. He may yet prove to be right. But equally it will be very difficult for him in these new conditions to refuse elections.

King Constantine himself is reported by those who see him habitually to be serene and unworried. Rightly or wrongly, he does not appear to believe that the regime—meaning his own throne—is in danger. He does believe—and here there would be few to dispute him—that what Greeks in the vast majority want is stability, and one does not need to be a monarchist to know that the best symbol and guarantee of that stability is the crown.

There is one other, personal, point on which the young king, according to my informants, feels strongly. That is the now-familiar attacks from the extreme left wing against Queen Frederika, his mother. He resents them both for the insult to her and for the assumption that he himself is so little fitted for the task of kingship that he has to depend upon his mother for advice.

There is not one word of truth, according to the court, in the idea that Queen Frederika is exerting political influence over her son. From all that I have been able to learn this denial can be accepted at its full face value: this young sovereign has a will and a mind all his own, and apart from obvious professional advice his decisions are the product of that mind and will. If he and his country come through their present trials more or less unscatched, much of the credit will go to the king. If the outcome is less happy, then some of the blame will presumably fall upon him. In that event his reply would probably be that already quoted:

"I have done my duty."

Arms Race Finish May Be Disaster

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IN THE LURID light of the spreading war between India and Pakistan the American policy of providing desperately poor countries with modern arms is seen in all its tragic consequences.

That policy began with John Foster Dulles as Secretary of State in the wishful '50s.

But in one form or another the policy has continued down to the present. Secretary of Defence Robert S. McNamara recently awarded the Meritorious Civilian Service medal to the man who is, in effect, the Pentagon's chief arms salesman. He is Henry J. Cuss Jr., deputy assistant secretary for international affairs. Mr. McNamara said in his citation:

"As an international negotiator he has assisted in a unique fashion to develop the military export sales program and other significant international logistic efforts . . ."

Mr. Dulles labored under the illusion that Pakistan could be a bastion of anti-communism in Asia and the Middle East. Enrolled in two dubious Dulles pacts, CENTO and SEATO, Pakistan began to get American arms aid that continuing down into 1965 has added up to an estimated $1.5 billion. These are the Patton and Sherman tanks and the F-104 jets being used against India. While the arms were free, and even spare parts were furnished without charge, the maintenance of complex weapons in underdeveloped countries is a severe drain on skilled manpower.

One of the first consequences of the Pakistan arms buildup was a shock wave of fear throughout India. For the Indians understood, if Mr. Dulles did not, that Pakistan's goal was Kashmir with its 80 per Moslem population. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru had refused to allow a plebiscite in Kashmir and the frustration of the Pakistanis built up, along with their army and air force.

Mr. Nehru's government began shopping for arms from Britain and Russia as Mr. Dulles and Vice-President Richard M. Nixon lectured Mr. Nehru on the evils of neutralism. Both Britain and Russia sold some advanced weapons, including Soviet MiG jets. This was the situation when Red China launched an attack across the Himalayan border in the fall of 1962. The United States began an immediate military aid effort in small arms and logistic materiel. But this was taken by Pakistan as treachery, betrayal of an ally in SEATO, in behalf of an enemy bent on war and conquest.

In New Delhi last November this reporter learned how the Indian shopping list had grown. The Soviet Union was prepared to furnish not only the MiGs but a plant to build them on long-term credit. There was talk of buying two submarines from the British. And the pressure was growing to make a nuclear device and explode it as proof that India's nuclear capacity was at least as great as China's.

At that point the Indian defence budget had climbed to $1.8 billion a year. Put alongside the $50 billion of the American defence budget this seems tiny. But in a country struggling by democratic means to develop a modern industrial economy, with a food shortage eased only by massive shipments of foreign grain, it is a fearful drain on urgently-needed resources and foreign exchange.

American arms are being currently sold on credit to 24 countries in addition to major sales to NATO powers. Of this total 15 are in the under-developed category in Latin America, the Middle East and Africa. Included are Chile, Brazil and Argentina, currently struggling to overcome economic crises. Another 56 countries get much smaller amounts, some merely maps or special services. Other nations go directly to arms manufacturers in the United States and pay cash on the barrelhead.

The effect of an arms buildup in one country is almost invariably to stir fear in a next-door neighbor. In this way the arms race—often in obsolescent or second-class weapons—is a contagion that spreads through the underdeveloped world. Officials directly concerned with the future development and the economic stability of the underdeveloped countries have long been convinced that no real progress is possible so long as the arms race continues.

U.S. authorities say that putting arms on a sales-credit basis, rather than as an aid giveaway, is in itself a restraint, since if a government must raise the money and submit a military budget for approval there may be second thoughts about big arms purchases. Another point the Pentagon makes is that if the United States does not sell the arms some other country will.

Population Explosion

Elephant Problem

From a Special Correspondent in Nairobi

AFRICA is growing too cramped for the elephant population and Kenya may soon feel compelled to slaughter thousands of them.

As humans convert more and more land into arable or ranching country to provide food, animals are finding fewer sanctuaries, apart from those set aside by legislation. Because elephants are the largest land animals in the world, and also the least adaptable, they are suffering more than smaller species of game, which have been able to change their diet and habitat.

Yet the elephants have been able to hold their own, and in some places have recently been on the increase. As a result too many elephants are being squeezed into shrinking tracts of land.

The problem has reached crisis point in Kenya, where the largest game reserve in the world, the 8,000-square mile Tsavo Park, cannot contain its existing population of elephants.

Four years ago, after disastrous floods had followed harrowing drought, the National Parks authorities in Kenya called in the services of the Royal Navy for an unusual mission. Whirlwind helicopters from HMS Bulwark spent a fortnight hovering above elephant herds while their crews counted the animals and recorded their migration movements, after they had liberally sprayed the various herds with differing colors of identifying paint.

The results of this aerial census shocked the parks authorities. Instead of the 10,000 elephants they expected to find in the park and along its boundaries, the count was 15,000.

An elephant requires two square miles of territory in which to live normally and breed. Shut them up in less and the probability is that they will raise no more young, and bad-tempered ones in the herd are liable to kill.

Simple arithmetic shows there is not enough room, even in the vast Tsavo Park, for 15,000 elephants, considering it also contains some 1,200 rhinos, 6,000 buffaloes and hundreds of thousands of antelope, wildebeeste and zebras.

Modern science has made it possible to move rhinos considerable distances by the use of "knock-out" drugs.

But even if an adequate dose of the same drug could be used on an elephant, who is going to move 5,000 two-tonners?

Months ago the Kenya government set up a committee, with biologist Dr. Hohamed Hyder in charge, to consider what measures to take over the Tsavo situation. To date no decision has been announced publicly. It is believed, however, that unless Nature is allowed to take its course so that the elephants will begin to die off until the surplus is eliminated over several years, there must be organized, humane killing. And some conservationists fear a massacre is imminent.

Those seeking some compromise are urging renewed culling measures to root out the sick and maimed, so building up a smaller but healthier elephant population. Culling has already been tried on a small scale on the park's northern edge in the Galana River scheme, where an "elephant ranching" experiment was started five years ago.

Game wardens selected the older elephants in the herds and they were shot by African hunters—a number of reformed ex-poachers in government employ. Economically it was reckoned the average elephant carcass was worth about £100 in ivory, skin, dried meat and other items. The money realized from these sales went towards the scheme's running costs.

Now the government is looking for someone with £200,000 to invest in taking out a 10-year lease of two million acres of game country, where they can raise and slaughter elephants alongside herds of cattle ranched on normal lines.

So far there have been no takers, and the future of Tsavo's 15,000 elephants—especially the surplus 5,000—is very uncertain.

Seeing Eye Seadog Test To Find Lost Aquanauts

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — Tuffy, a dolphin with a life-saving purpose, was flown here Monday by helicopter to join Scott Carpenter and nine other Aquanauts of Sealab 2.

The specially trained dolphin was placed in a sling at Pt. Mugu, Calif., 140 miles north of here and accommodating navy personnel splashed water on Tuffy to make him feel at home during the helicopter ride.

SCORPION STING

Upon arrival, Tuffy was transported by truck to the Mother Ship Berkone and placed in a floating pen in the ocean. He will undergo further training today and Wednesday before the Aquanauts start working with him on Thursday.

Carpenter, the second American Astronaut to circle the Earth and the only Aquanaut to stay in Sealab for 30 days, will be one of the divers assigned to test Tuffy's ability under water.

Carpenter Sunday was stung by a scorpion fish as his hand brushed by the poisonous creature. He was not hurt seriously and joined other team members in Monday's diving and scientific chores.

BUZZER CHECK

If Tuffy proves up to the assignment, it may mean a long-range utilization for dolphins and porpoises to be used in underwater research.

Tuffy will be "asked" to help lost divers find their way to safety.

In the specific test, buzzers will be attached to Sealab, 205 feet below the surface and on the Aquanauts. Tuffy will wear a harness with a light line attached.

The supposedly "lost" Aquanaut will sound the buzzer to see if Tuffy—who has no worry about decompression or how long it takes to descend considerable distances in water—can find him.

Tuffy will be given a line to feed the Aquanaut with one end attached to the dolphin's special harness. If all goes as intended, Tuffy will lead the Aquanaut back to Sealab.

Sunday, the first nine Aquanauts returned to the surface after 15 days participating in the major new experiment. They remained in a decompression chamber Monday as part of a 36-hour process because of the extended time below the surface.

Scientists regard the current experiment as one of the most important undertaken by man in his search for ways to conquer the sea. French Aquanauts also have another project involving a smaller craft about 30 feet underwater in the Mediterranean.

CPR at Fault

Appeal Lost

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. Supreme Court on Monday denied an appeal by Canadian Pacific Railway against an $88,000 judgment against the company.

The railway was assessed the damages after an employee lost both legs in a fall from a boxcar eight years ago on B.C. Forest Products Company property in Hammond, B.C.

The CPR said in its appeal the forest company was at fault because of an overhang on a warehouse caused the workman to be brushed off.

The late Mr. Justice H. J. Sullivan said in his written judgment on the original case he found it impossible to imagine B.C. Forest Products would accept the spur lease track if it knew it would be deprived of protection.

Chief Justice Henry I. Bird, in a minority opinion, said he would have allowed the appeal.

Stormy Wedding Ends in Death

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The happiness of a wedding changed to the shock of slaughter early Monday and 38-year-old Tommy Lewis was charged with the fatal stabbing of his bride of less than 10 hours.

Police said Lewis was arrested for the slaying of 32-year-old Octavia Lewis who was found dead in their apartment bedroom after a series of quarrels that began at the wedding reception. She had been stabbed five or six times, homicide detectives reported.

RECEPTION

The (Negro) couple had been married Sunday at 4 p.m. at a private wedding chapel.

The marriage party and the guests, attired in tuxedos and formals, joined in a festive reception at the chapel.

A musical combo played for dancing into the early evening.

According to police, Mrs. Lewis berated her husband when he agreed to pay to keep the musicians overtime. Witnesses said that when she told him she didn't love him, Lewis tried to throttle her but was pulled away by others at the reception.

PATCHED UP

Mrs. Lewis went to her mother's home and was followed there by her husband. They patched things up and went to their apartment in the company of six guests.

Police said the quarrel between the bride and groom broke out anew there and when she threatened to leave, Lewis pulled out a knife and stabbed her.

'Frustration' Chase Dance Stars Press Corps De Ballet

LONDON—Enter avant garde, unorthodox controversial Yvonne Rainer, the 30-year-old modern dancer from New York who specializes in screams, grunts, facial contortions, and spontaneous bounds about the stage. Recently she galvanized a Buffalo, N.Y., audience by dancing nude ("But I was covered in baby oil") with a male partner.

A clutch of London newspaper photographers and reporters mustered for the obligatory interview with Miss Rainer, lithe and restless in tights and low-cut jersey, but she found it a bore. She promptly improvised the "frustration ballet."

Grabbing an armload of cameras and cases, she scampered around a block near Picadilly.

Stuffing cameras and equipment in assorted trash cans and other hiding places, she finally came to rest sitting on the pavement between a car and a wall. She explained: "No one seemed to know what they wanted me to do—so you can say it was a little impromptu ballet entitled 'Frustration'."

Deaconess to Minister

Episcopal Bishop Ordains Woman

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike Monday started the Episcopal Church on a new course by confirming the ministry of Rev. Phyllis Edwards.

In a simple ceremony at Grace Cathedral, Bishop Pike performed the first confirmation of a woman as approved by the Church's House of Bishops last week. Women now are permitted to be ordained into a fourth branch of the ministry.

"This is simply a recognition of fact," Bishop Pike said. "It means that holy orders are no longer limited to members of one sex."

KEY QUESTION

The House of Bishops acted after Bishop Pike said he planned to ordain Mrs. Edwards, who was appointed a deaconess last year. The effect of the House of Bishops' action was to raise the office of deaconess to that of minister.

The key question answered by the bishops, Bishop Pike said, was, "is a person a person?"

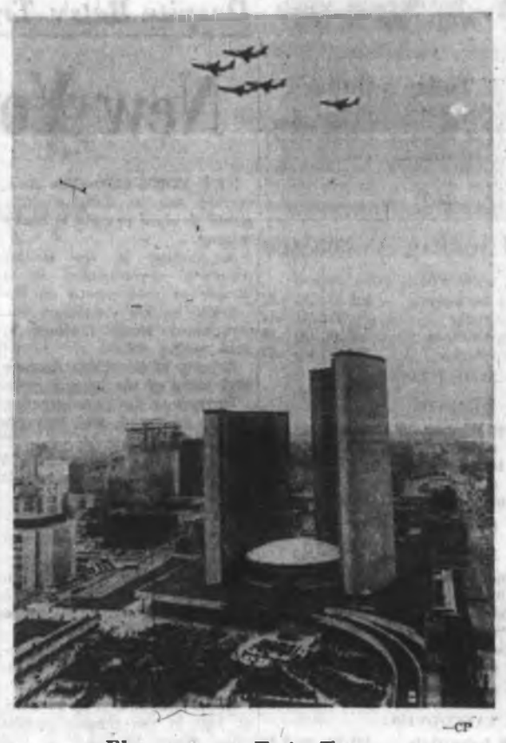

'NO MORE, NO LESS'

Bishop Pike said he hoped for more liberalization of the Church's rules regarding women, but said he planned to abide by the bishops' decisions.

Beefsteak Losing Traditional Job?

SEATTLE (AP) — A Seattle doctor says he's found something better than a beefsteak to treat a black eye.

Dr. Harold Brown told the state medical association convention the substitute is diemthylsulfoxide, a solvent frequently used in the production of synthetic fibres.

Brown said the substance pioneered medically by Dr. Stanley Jacob and Dr. Edward E. Rosenbaum of the University of Oregon, will change a swollen black eye to an unswollen pale yellow eye in 90 minutes.

He said all that's necessary is to apply a solution to the skin around the bruised area.

Toronto City Hall Opens

Sombre Skies but Hopes Bright

TORONTO (CP) — Governor-General Vanier opened Toronto's new city hall Monday while tiny flags shot from rocket guns fluttered over an estimated 15,000 persons assembled under grey, sombre skies.

Eulogies to the $31,000,000, two-tower building came during the opening ceremonies from speakers assembled on a makeshift platform. They included Prime Minister Pearson.

FORMER MAYOR

"This magnificent work has won world-wide acclaim, not only from the architectural and engineering communities, but from every person who appreciates the bold and imaginative," said Mr. Vanier. "It takes its place as one of the triumphs of the Canadian scene."

Nathan Phillips, mayor for eight years until his defeat in 1962, figured prominently in the platform ceremonies, as the man chiefly responsible for the project, first broached 10 years ago and completed amid bitter controversy.

Mayor Philip Givens presented him with a Gold Medal, the city's highest award of merit.

The 12-acre square on which the throng gathered is named after him.

Mr. Pearson said the achievements of erecting the building was almost as exciting as the building itself. But he "shed a nostalgic tear" for the old, black-stone city hall, across the street from the new one.

Two other medals were presented, both by Mayor Givens.

Mrs. Viljo Revell, widow of the Finnish architect who designed the edifice, was presented with a gold neck chain and a gold charm replica of her husband's design.

A gold medallion was presented to the governor-general.

Credit Group Says:

Firms Paying Bills Quicker

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

Canadian business is paying its bills quicker than it did a year ago, according to reports from the Canadian Credit Men's Association.

The CCMA every quarter publishes a schedule of the number of days in which accounts receivable in all industries across Canada remain outstanding. It does not include retail sales.

AVERAGE DROPS

In the quarter ended June 30, the average days outstanding in all industries was down slightly from March 31, exactly the same as at Dec 31, 1964, and almost four days lower than at Sept 30, 1964.

Almost all industries dealing with the construction trade report an improvement over the previous quarter, says CCMA.

The importance of these figures is that when accounts are left unpaid even one day more than normal it can eat seriously into profits.

Quick settling industries are brokerage (11 days), industrial mining and supplies (11.8 days), and tobacco and confections (12.3 days).

Payments are slow in the diamond trade (92.4 days), printing and publishing (63 days), and furniture and floor coverings industry (62.6 days).

QUICK CHANGE-OVER

With a break of only 30 hours, International Minerals and Chemical Corporation Canada Ltd. swung over its potash mill in Saskatchewan to increase production by 25 per cent.

The change-over which involved 75 major jobs was accomplished in record time.

New capacity is 2,000,000 tons a year compared with 1,600,800 tons before the change-over.

Sinking of a second shaft at Esterhazy and a second mill and refinery is now under way and when completed in 1967 will raise IMC potash capacity to 3,500,000 tons a year.

Vanco's contract is in respect of the claims held by Galaxy Copper, Kamloops Copper, Rolling Hills, Copper Makoo Development, Comet Mines Ltd.; Bata Resources, Cons. Negus Mines, Continental Potash, and Western Beaverlodge.

By the agreement Vanco can earn 51 per cent of the profits on any of the various properties of these companies, with rights to purchase a greater interest.

A total of 37 square miles of claims is covered by the agreement.

CONVERTIBLE OFFER

Traders Finance Corporation is planning to market this week 350,000 five per cent cumulative redeemable convertible preferred shares of $30 par.

The $10,500,000 issue was approved recently by shareholders of the company for the purpose of increasing working capital for the company's loan business.

The new shares are to be offered to the public at $28 to yield 5.36 per cent. They will be convertible into two common up to Oct. 1, 1968 and for two common plus $2 cash up to Oct. 1, 1971.

BREAD PROFIT RISES

Canada Bread (Toastmaster) increased its net profit by 24 per cent in the year ended June 26. The $655,441 ($1.95 per common share) compared with $528,606 ($1.53) in the previous year.

Savings Bond Offer Mature in 12 Years

OTTAWA (CP)—The finance department announced Monday terms of new Canada savings bonds dated Nov. 1, 1965, that will provide an average yield of 5.93 per cent per year if held to maturity in 12 years.

The last series of bonds provided a five-per-cent yield if held to maturity in 10 years.

Interest on the new series is payable annually and begins at 4½ per cent for each of the first two years, moves up to five per cent for each of the next six years and rises to 5½ per cent for each of the final four years.

LAST OFFER

The last series provided interest of 4½ per cent for each of the first two years, five per cent for the next five years and 5½ per cent for the final three years.

Any Canadian resident may buy the new bonds. Limit per buyer will be $10,000. The bonds will be issued in denominations ranging from $50 through to $5,000 in coupon form.

The bonds are cashable at any bank in Canada for their full face value plus earned interest.

Sales of last year's series totalled $1,150,000,000.

U.S. Survey

Spending Abroad Increases

WASHINGTON (AP)—American businessmen are expected to spend a record $7,400,000,000 on overseas plants and equipment this year despite a government program to discourage such expenditures, a U.S. commerce department survey showed Monday.

The total is 21 per cent above the $6,100,000,000 U.S. corporations spent on expanding their overseas productive capacity in 1964. The survey indicated a further rise in outlays is likely next year.

LIMIT ASKED

The administration in February asked companies to limit their overseas investments as much as possible as part of the program to reduce the persistent flow of dollars out of the U.S.

Most of the current spending represents commitments which companies made a year ago.

UNDERSTATE

The projections for 1966 show little change from the current year but in past surveys businessmen invariably understated the amount they expected to spend the following year.

Of the $1,300,000,000 increase expected in 1965, more than $500,000,000 will go to Europe. Expenditures in Canada will increase by $300,000,000 and there also will be a rise in outlays in Japan, Australia and a few other countries.

Vatican

Bishop At Council

Most Rev. Remi De Roo, Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria, is not expected home from the fourth session of the second ecumenical council in Rome until early next year.

The bishop arrived in Rome Saturday after conferring with church dignitaries in Toronto and Montreal. The session opens today.

VERY KEEN

Msgr. Michael O'Connell, chancellor of the Victoria diocese, said it was expected the council might continue until January.

"Bishop De Roo is very keen on the council meetings," said Msgr. O'Connell, "and wishes to remain until the session ends."

He has attended every session since he was installed as Bishop of Victoria in December, 1963.

Ecumenical Council

Bishops Await Pope's Speech

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The world's Roman Catholic bishops await Pope Paul's opening speech today to the fourth and final session of the Vatican ecumenical council before debating a controversial draft decree on religious liberty.

The Pope, who has so far refused to identify himself with either the progressive or conservative wings of the council assembly, has sounded a cautious note in recent months when speaking of new ideas in the church.

FALSE OPINIONS

Vatican sources said those speeches only masked his secret worry about the danger that a few theologians might be spreading "false opinions" about the eucharist. The Pontiff issued a 9,000-word encyclical last weekend reaffirming the basic doctrine of the eucharist, which has already been confirmed by the council.

Julius Cardinal Doepfner of Munich, one of the four moderators who take turns as council chairmen, announced Monday that the assembly should finish before Christmas, without any risk of forcing the pace or of "strangling" discussion.

PROCESSION

This morning, Pope Paul is scheduled to walk in procession up the nave of St. Peter's Basilica between the mitred ranks of the Roman Catholic Church's supreme legislative assembly.

All the world's more than 2,000 Roman Catholic bishops will attend the council, unless impeded by health or other valid reasons. Most of them arrived by Monday afternoon, lodging in hotels, convents and monasteries.

At the Basilica's main altar, Pope Paul planned to concelebrate mass with the 20 cardinals and six bishops who hold office in the assembly's directive bodies.

This afternoon, he planned to lead the council fathers on foot in a vast penitential procession in the southern district of Rome. With thousands of Romans and foreign pilgrims, the bishops, singing hymns, will carry sacred relics from the Basilica of the holy cross to St. John Lateran Cathedral.

Wednesday morning, the bronze doors of St. Peter's Basilica will be closed to the press and the public. The bishops will then begin their debates, in Latin.

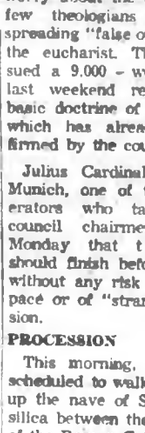

Cardinal Doepfner, in his press conference Monday, outlined the controversial items on the council's long and difficult agenda. He made the following points:

Religious liberty: The "bitterness" caused at the last session, when the conservative minority forced a postponement of a scheduled voting on this document, has disappeared. "The text has been clarified and perfected."

The Jews: New formulation of the draft resolution on Jews and other non-Christians will be such as "to remove every misunderstanding." The text in question says the Jewish people "should never be presented as one rejected, cursed or guilty of deicide (God-killing)."

Birth control and mixed marriages: The pope's commissions are still studying these "particularly complex problems" and need "silence and calm."

NATIONAL FOREST PRODUCTS WEEK
September 12th to 18th, 1965

Even though the flag of France was hoisted over Canada in 1534 it was not until approximately 100 years later that Nicolas Denys made the first shipment of lumber to Europe and it was not until Napoleon closed the Baltic Sea to British trade in 1808, the great export trade between Canada and Britain commenced in earnest. The timber in those days originated in Eastern Canada.

The West Coast opened up rapidly after Cook's voyage to Nootka—west coast of Vancouver Island—in 1778. But it was not until 1832 that B.C.'s first shipment of Douglas Fir was exported—to China—and it was not until the Panama Canal was opened in 1915 that B.C. had access to the great markets of the world on a competitive basis.

In Canada one dollar of every seven originates in the sale of wood products. This is equalled only by agriculture and outranks mining two-to-one. In British Columbia half your dollars come from the Forest Industry.

One year's net growth of new wood in B.C. forests would be more than enough to build a sidewalk—10-ft. wide—to the moon—239,000 miles away.

Wood is an old friend—tried and trusted. It has the secret of growing old gracefully. It also has the secret of eternal youth. Thanks to modern research—and with your continued co-operation in protecting the forests—it is as new as tomorrow.

Symphony Chief Shares Credit In Emmy Award

By BRIAN DOHERTY

Three Trans-Canada tv trips and countless hours of rehearsing slipped into the background Sunday night for Victoria Symphony conductor Otto-Werner Mueller when CBC's opera The Barber of Seville by Rossini won an Emmy award.

Mr. Mueller, who is beginning his third season as the symphony conductor, was musical director of the award-winning opera and all but two of the singers were his students.

The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences' first international award was given to the CBC at ceremonies held simultaneously in New York and Hollywood, Sunday night.

★ ★ ★

Mr. Mueller was forewarned of the opera's success by a telephone call from the east shortly before the ceremony and then sat up to watch the presentations on television.

The opera, produced in French with an all-Canadian cast, will have its first West Coast showing at 6:30 p.m., Sept. 23.

He regarded the award as a victory for Canadian musicians and production.

★ ★ ★

"Putting an opera on television is one of the most difficult tasks that exist. It's much more difficult than a drama or ballet.

"It's an enormous technical task with quite a few pitfalls. You direct with earphones on. You need to rehearse extensively, but not so much as to tire out the voices."

Also associated with the production was Michel Perrault, who was guest conductor with the Victoria Symphony when studying with Mr. Mueller two years ago.

★ ★ ★

The opera was taped in two sessions—which meant two long air trips. The first half of the first act and the finale were filmed in one session with prerecorded sound.

The remainder of the opera was taped live in one session.

"It's not possible to retake because it's too expensive and you can't re-record on account of studio space," said Mr. Mueller.

★ ★ ★

"My one regret is that it couldn't be in color. The costuming was among the best I have seen."

The Emmy is the second award the opera has received. It also won a prize in Switzerland when shown through Europe.

"I'm very happy — exceptionally happy — about the Emmy award."

Next big projects for Mr. Mueller are a trip to Japan in January and a special TV show on Kurst Weill in February

French Plan Space Shot

PARIS (AP) — France hopes to hurl a small space satellite into orbit before the end of the year, officials said Monday. The satellite would be fired by the rocket Diamant from the French research base at Hammaguir in the Sahara. France has successfully fired several rockets into the upper atmosphere to study weather conditions, but not into earth orbit.

Pantomime

Aladdin Reading Tonight

Victoria Theatre Guild's Christmas pantomime, Aladdin, will open at McPherson Playhouse Dec. 6. After one week, production will move to Langham Court Theatre for a further two weeks.

Readings for the pantomime —to be directed by Tony Burton—take place at 8 p.m. today in Langham Court theatre. Victorians of all ages, whether Guild members or not, are invited to test for many available singing and dancing roles.

Broadway Star, Stage Couple Receive Awards

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A new Broadway star and a great stage couple — young Barbra Striesand and veterans Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne—won tributes for their achievements in television at the 17th annual Emmy awards Sunday night.

Dick Van Dyke, a previous Emmy winner, scored again for outstanding individual achievement in the 1964-65 season.

Leonard Bernstein was another repeater for his New York Philharmonic young people's concerts.

BEST PROGRAMS

Named as outstanding program achievements of the season were the Dick Van Dyke Show, The Magnificent Yankee, My Name is Barbra, and What is Sonata Form?, a program by Bernstein.

Already the toast of Broadway, Miss Streisand, 23, proved a top winner in television with her first special, in which only she appeared.

The Lunts portrayed Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wendell Holmes Jr. in The Magnificent Yankee, for Hallmark Hall of Fame.

My name is Barbra scored top honors in the entertainment division with five awards. Magnificent Yankee followed with four.

It was largely a New York show, although the telecast originated at the Hollywood Palladium as well. Programs originating in New York collected 22 Emmies against six for Hollywood.

The Emmy awards saw a victory for one of the season's losers. The Defenders, vanishing from CBS after four years, won two Emmies, for writer David Carp and director Paul Bogart.

LOUVRE WINS AGAIN

The lovely old lady of Paris, The Louvre, became the first star of the Emmy awards telecast. The NBC news special about the great art museum collected awards with astonishing regularity—six in all.

The Louvre, an NBC news special produced by Lucy Jarvis, was hailed an outstanding program achievement in the news, documentary, information and sports field.

The show also won Emmies for direction, writing, editing, cinematography and music.

I, Leonardo da Vinci, a part of the saga of Western man series on ABC, was also named for outstanding program achievement in the same category. The award also went to a woman producer, Helen Jean Rogers. Her co-producer was John H. Secondari.

Commission Stalls Hearings

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism reversed itself Monday and cancelled public hearings because of the election campaign.

The commission announced last Wednesday it would go ahead with hearings later this month in Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton, but these were cancelled Monday.

Three other hearings tentatively scheduled for Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa in October also were postponed until after the Nov. 8 federal election.

The Prairie hearings had been scheduled as follows: Edmonton, Friday and Saturday of this week; Regina, next Monday, and Winnipeg, Sept. 22 and 23.

Government Asks CBC Revise Building Plans

MONTREAL (UPI) — State Secretary Maurice Lamontagne said Monday the federal government has asked the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation to revise its plans for a new building complex to be built in Montreal.

The decision followed on recommendations in the Fowler commission report published last Thursday. The new Montreal offices were to have consolidated CBC's Montreal facilities, now scattered in 16 separate buildings.

Lamontagne told a news conference there was a divergence of views over concept and design of the new building, which was also to contain provisions for color television. The Fowler report, however, recommended introduction of color television be suspended until 1970.

The report suggested modifications of Montreal plans, and envisaged a spending of $50,000,000, a figure $20,000,000 lower than that proposed by CBC.

The government, therefore, has asked the CBC to reconsider their plans and submit new ones as soon as possible.

This decision means construction on the new buildings, which was to have begun Oct. 1 this year, will be delayed. "I think it would be unwise to go ahead with plans which are not in the best interest of us all," Lamontagne said.

World Body Praised

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana, president of the United Nations General Assembly, said Monday that despite ideological and political conflicts in the world, the UN is "a major instrument of peace."

In remarks prepared for the world conference on world peace through law, Quaison-Sackey said:

"Thus, while all these conflicts are going on today, because of the existence of the United Nations there is talk of concilliation, negotiation, arbitration or compromise, and the virtues of inter-dependence.

"The United Nations has become a major instrument of peace."

Royal Winnipeg in London

Lost Scores and Sets Harass Ballet Opening

LONDON (CP) — Show-business headaches hit the Royal Winnipeg Ballet Monday almost as soon as the group arrived here for the Commonwealth arts festival. Its scenery and music went astray.

"It can't be gone far," said general manager Sergei Sawchyn. "It seems to have been delayed between the airport and the theatre."

HAND SITTERS

But the result was that members of the English Chamber Orchestra—which is to accompany the Royal Winnipeg during its four-performance London appearance at the midtown Piccadilly Theatre—sat on their hands for three hours at full pay.

Conductor Carlos Rausch, Argentine-born musical director now in his first season with the Royal Winnipeg, will have to try to make up for the lost time in later rehearsals.

FIRST INVASION

Sawchyn said in an interview the Royal Winnipeg has brought 25 dancers and 10 other personnel for its first invasion of Europe, and he thinks the visit could have important effects on the company's future.

"London has to be acknowledged as one of the leading dance cities in the world, along with New York and Moscow. . . . As goes our reception here, so goes our future in a sense."

If the Canadians can make an impression on the ballet-wise London audiences, their reputations will get a substantial boost.

With only three days left before the Royal Winnipeg opens, however, box office sales were not exactly booming.

CHEAP SEATS

A spokesman for the Piccadilly Theatre said the sales of seats running at about $1.25 and $1.50 were going very well, but demand for the costlier seats was slack.

"Mind you, if the reviews are good Thursday night, we could be sold out easily for the rest of the performances."

BUSY YEAR

Sawchyn said the current visit is the start of a busy year of travelling for the Royal Winnipeg.

About three weeks after it returns from Britain, the company sets out on a 13,000-mile tour of the United States as the first Canadian troupe ever handled by impressario Sol Hurok. And early in the new year there will be a tour through the Caribbean.

"We have no way of knowing what the British audiences will think of us, but we feel they'll find us very typically Canadian. We're doing several works that have been arranged by our official choreographer, Brian Macdonald, a Canadian, and our work is usually regarded as being full of vitality."

The Royal Winnipeg will also appear in Glasgow, Cardiff and Liverpool before returning home.

Two of the dancers with the company are Victoria girls — Sheila Mackinnon and Sandra Begg, both from the Wynne Shaw studio.

Ringo Gets a Son Mother, Boy Fine

LONDON (UPI) — Beatle Ringo Starr is a father. His 19-year-old wife, Maureen, gave birth Monday to a son.

Mother and son were reported in good condition at Queen Charlotte's hospital here.

The 25-year-old drummer for the famous singing group married Maureen, a hairdresser and his longtime sweetheart, early this year.

It was announced this summer that she was expecting. Ringo said then he hoped the child would be a boy.

The telephone switchboard at Queen Charlotte's lighted up with calls from Beatle fans who heard that their sad-faced hero had become a father.

The boy is the second Beatle child. John Lennon and his wife, Cynthia, have a son, Julian.

Beatles Paul McCartney and George Harrison remain bachelors, although periodic rumors say McCartney has secretly married his friend, Jane Asher.

Fatherhood constitutes another milestone for Ringo, formerly Richard Starkey from the Dingle section of Liverpool.

MILLIONAIRE

He is a millionaire, a household word with millions of fans, a movie star (in "A Hard Day's Night" and the recently issued "Help") and achieved another accolade when the honors list of Queen Elizabeth II earlier this year designated him and his fellow singers "Members of the Order of the British Empire."

Woodworkers Clash

VANCOUVER (CP) — A factional clash erupted Monday in a shouting match on the floor of the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) convention here.

The first resolution put to the convention accused western regional president Jack Moore of overstepping his authority in signing a 1963 agreement with B.C. lumber companies that waived a clause in the Labor Relations Act regarding conciliation officers.

The motion, put forward by president Syd Thompson of the IWA's Vancouver local, said: "there seems to be a tendency on the part of regional officers to agree, by unilateral action, with management that certain regulations and sections of the labor act should not apply."

Moore charge Thompson's local with including lies in its resolution and, during a heated exchange, shouted: "We have no way in our constitution of protecting the integrity of regional officers and this convention should lay down some rules that delegates are not going to consider any resolutions based on falsehoods."

University Ties Urged

'Little Conception' Held in West Of Asian Problems

By AL ARNASON

North Americans have little conception of the political and cultural power of the people of Asia, says University of Victoria President Dr. Malcolm Taylor.

The 49-year-old political scientist, who has headed the burgeoning university for the past 10 months, was describing a five-week trip through Asian countries, which he completed a few hours earlier.

COMMUNION

He said it is vital for North America to understand the swelling forces involved in Asian progress, and that much work lies ahead in university-level communion between East and West.

"One cannot help but be impressed by the fact that we in North America and possibly also in Europe have not paid anything like the attention we should to the cultural and political power of Asia.

UNIQUE

"But once you are there you become, immediately, aware of both the uniqueness and the immense time span involved in their culture.

"While we feel our European and North American culture is the model, in almost all these countries they have cultures which are much older than ours and have some values that are, indeed, higher than ours."

CONFERENCE

Dr. Taylor made his tour of universities in Bangkok, Kuala Lumpur, Singapore, Hong Kong, Manila and Honolulu before attending the fourth general conference of the International Association of Universities, in Tokyo.

In order of importance, he listed his secondary impressions of Asia:

● ". . . The effect of their triumph over colonialism; their attempts, as in Malaysia and Indonesia, to establish a viable economy and society that discards colonialism and is truly indigenous."

VAST TASK

This, said Dr. Taylor, is a vast task with seemingly insurmountable problems which directly affect universities.

As an example he described a post-colonial reaction in terms of languages in the Philippines.

LANGUAGES

In order to become educated, a Filipino who speaks a specific dialect other than the recently-decreed national language of the country, Tagalog, must also learn the official language, plus widely-used English and perhaps some now-waning Spanish.

"In some places, the tremendout emphasis on nationalism is decreeing that universities must instruct in the national language."

TEACHERS SHORT

The resulting language problem and difficulty in speedily translating the "enormous flow of knowledge in English" into the native language is enormous.

There are also not enough qualified instructors available to teach in the native language.

GOALS

"If a man is going to become an expert in chemistry, how much time can he devote to two or three languages?" asked Dr. Taylor.

● The fact that ". . . in every country I visited they look on universities as their main factor in achieving their national economic, social and cultural goals.

FAILURES

"Although they are spending vast sums on universities, they are not meeting their needs," he said, adding that failure rates are "quite high" among students.

At the conference, the discussions took three main themes, Dr. Taylor said.

RESPONSIBILITY

● Autonomy of universities, which he said varied greatly from country to country, and ". . . few believed there is such a thing as absolute autonomy and independence. Most delegates conceive it as a relative matter. But all agreed that in addition to the time-honored purpose of seeking truth, a university also has a clear responsibility to the community it serves."

Steak's Out For Bruises

SEATTLE (AP) — A Seattle doctor says he's found something better than a beefsteak to treat a black eye.

Dr. Harold Brown told physicians at the state medical association convention the substitute is dimethylsulfoxide, a solvent frequently used in the production of synthetic fibres.

Brown said the substance will change a swollen black eye to an unswollen pale yellow eye in 90 minutes.

Marines In Biggest Viet Landing

SAIGON (AP) — Thousands more Americans swarmed ashore in South Viet Nam Monday, continuing the biggest single U.S. troop landings of the Viet Nam war.

As the main part of the 20,000 "flying horsemen" of the U.S. army's 1st Cavalry Airmobile division moved up the beach, they were met by helicopters and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

* * *

Lodge shook hands with troops before they boarded the helicopters to be airlifted to secret bases, believed to be in South Viet Nam's central highlands.

"I served with the 1st Cav back in 1930," Lodge told a Sgt. Lesco Loper of Columbus, Ga.

"A little bit before my time, Sir," replied Loper.

* * *

Lodge, a lieutenant in the reserve in those days, was accompanied by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of American forces in Viet Nam.

The arrival by ships of the 1st Cavalry apparently pushed American troop strength in South Viet Nam past President Johnson's announced goal of 125,000. No figures were disclosed but U.S. military authorities announced last week that U.S. troop strength in South Viet Nam had reached the 107,600 mark.

* * *

Advance elements of the 1st Cavalry began landing Sunday at Qui Nhon, 260 miles northeast of Saigon on the South China Sea.

The division, especially trained for guerrilla warfare and using helicopters for mobility, is expected to be deployed in the central highlands.

A spokesman said other U.S. troops are expected to land soon but had been delayed at sea by a typhoon.

Elsewhere in Viet Nam, U.S. military spokesmen reported:

● U.S. war planes kept up bombing of a Mekong Delta area where a Viet Cong guerrilla regiment — normally 2,000 men — was believed encamped 50 miles west of Soc Trang. The planes were trying to hit canals which the Communists might use to escape.

● No air strikes were reported in North Viet Nam, but a military spokesman said this did not necessarily mean none was made.

No Worries in Kansas City

Satchell Paige, author of that famous remark which goes something like "Don't look behind someone may be gaining on you," at least hasn't got that worry as he returns for his second try in major league baseball. Paige, 57, going on 61, is shown as he worked out yesterday for Kansas City Athletics, American League trailers.—(AP)

Streaking Giants Break Away But Late Schedule Is a Dandy

San Francisco Giants moved into the driver's seat in the National League pennant race over the weekend but some tremendously lucky scheduling has set up a final three weeks which could be without precedent in major league baseball history.

Two victories Sunday and another last night, which ran their winning streak to 11 games, have moved the Giants into a two-and-a-half-game lead. They picked up two games on Los Angeles Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds and two and a half on Milwaukee Braves.

TEST TO COME

Giants are now three games better off on the losing side than the Dodgers and have four and five-game edges on the Reds and Braves, respectively, but the schedule gives everyone a chance.

Thirteen of the Giants' remaining 19 games are with the Reds (7) and Braves (6). They have three left with Houston Astros and three with the still dangerous St. Louis Cardinals.

TOUGH ON BRAVES

The Dodgers play the Braves six times; the Reds have five left with Houston and three with New York Mets in addition to the seven with the Giants and three with the Dodgers, and the Braves have four left with the Philadelphia Phillies and three with Astros in addition to the 12 split between the Giants and Dodgers.

MAYS REACHES 500

Yesterday, it was the old firm of Mays and Marichal which kept the San Francisco win streak going.

Marichal held the Astros to a first-inning home run by Jim Wynn while Mays touched off a four-run fourth inning with his 47th homer of the season.

It was Marichal's 22nd win of the season, tying him with Sandy Koufax for the major league lead, and the home run made Mays the fifth player to hit 500 in major league play.

SPAHN HELPED

On Sunday, the Giants took Chicago Cubs, 4-3 and 9-2, with the help of errors in the first game and Warren Spahn in the second.

Errors by Glen Beckert and Ernie Banks helped with a four-run sixth inning which won the opener. Spahn pitched his first complete game for the Giants in the afterpiece, yielding two home runs to rookie John Boccabella. Mays matched Boccabella with a two-run shot.

STUMBLES

While the Giants marched on their pursuers stumbled badly, the Reds and Dodgers each losing once and the Braves twice.

Idle yesterday, the Dodgers slipped at Houston Sunday when pinch-hitter Bob Lillis doubled in the ninth inning and succeeded in breaking a 2-2 tie on a sacrifice bunt followed by a sacrifice fly by Joe Morgan.

Rained out Sunday, the Reds made up their game with Pittsburgh Pirates last night and ran into a solid veteran in Vernon Law.

Law, perhaps the comeback of the season with his 17-9 record, gave up four runs in the first inning and went on to win, 8-4. Willie Stargell and Gene Alley led the Pirate comeback.

Worst of all was what happened to the Braves. Last night, a seventh-inning home run by Clay Dalrymple, who doesn't do those things often, broke a 3-3 tie and gave Philadelphia a 4-3 win.

On Sunday, the Braves had the New York Mets using an untested rookie pitcher named Dick Selma for what seemed a copacetic situation. But Selma whiffed 13, held on until the 10th inning, when singles by Joe Christopher and Charlie Smith around a sacrifice bunt gave him the victory, 1-0.

There was no American League play yesterday and only three games Sunday as rain interfered, but it was enough to hoist the pennant flag a notch or two higher for the series-bound Minnesota Twins.

They reduced their "magic" number to nine as Mudcat Grant made his 19th win a 2-0, four-hit shutout over Boston Red Sox.

Chicago White Sox held second place by besting New York Yankees, 4-1, behind the three-hit pitching of Tommy John. And in Washington, Brant Alyea of the Senators became the first American League rookie to hit a home run on the first major league pitch served him.

Clay-Patterson Bout Reported for Nov. 22

NEW YORK (AP)—A title fight between heavyweight champion Cassius Clay and former champion Floyd Patterson in Las Vegas, Nov. 22, probably will be announced here at a press conference Tuesday afternoon.

Harold Conrad, a press agent who has represented Inter-Continental Sports, Inc., said Monday he had called the press conference on behalf of the Louisville group that sponsors Clay.

Conrad said the opponent for Clay, the site and the date will be announced. The opponent, Patterson, and the site, Las Vegas, have been open secrets.

Conrad, apparently representing all the groups involved, said the various parties still held hopes of signing a backup fight between Ernie Terrell, the WBA champion from Chicago, and Canadian champion George Chuvalo of Toronto.

"If we can't make that then we'll try for a match between Terrell and Karl Mildenberger, the German who holds the European title, said Conrad. Last Thursday it was reported from Toronto that Terrell and Chuvalo probably would meet in Toronto next month.

"As far as we know that fight hasn't been made," said Conrad. "We think we have a chance to make it."

Conrad said officials of Inter-Continental, which promoted the Clay-Sonny Liston one-rounder at Lewiston, Me., May 25, and Sports-Vision, which handled the closed circuit television of that controversial fight, also will be present at the press conference.

Forced Switch

Winnipeg Blue Bombers won't have Kenny Ploen at quarterback for at least one game but it could have been worse. Ploen will be able to play, with his right hand in a cast, and will take over as a defensive halfback while Dick Thornton calls signals. X-rays of hand injury suffered Saturday night disclosed there were no broken bones.

Whopping 20% Increase In Exhibition Park Play

VANCOUVER — New racing facilities at Exhibition Park, including a spanking new grandstand and clubhouse, have resulted in a record-shattering thoroughbred racing season in Vancouver.

When the annual meeting closed down yesterday, the mutuel handle was almost 20 per cent above last season's total of $17,458,498. When yesterday's crowd of 6,200 put almost $305,000 through the mutuel windows it brought the season's total to $20,804,115 for an increase of $3,345,617.

MORE PER PERSON

Attendance was also up, but to a much lesser degree. The 1965 attendance of 567,326 was only about 7,000 more than in 1964.

Feature of the last day was still another marathon victory for Dan Bandage, who took over in the stretch to win over the two and one eighth miles distance from Joey Lark and the longshot, Why Him.

The racing scene now shifts to Vancouver Island, where the annual meeting at Sandown Park opens on Saturday. It is scheduled for 16 days, ending on Oct. 16.

Monday's results:

First Race — Claiming, $1,430, for three-year-olds and up, six and one-half furlongs:

Tolicross (Salas)	$6.10	$4.30	$4.10
Turk's Girl (Longo)		6.50	3.80

Jockeys Try Twice To Settle Argument

TORONTO (CP) — Jockeys Hugo Dittfach and Avelino Gomez engaged in two separate fights during Saturday's thoroughbred races at Woodbine race track.

The first fight erupted after the first race in the scales house, where the jockeys are weighed after each race. In the race Dittfach, riding fourth-place Dougs Chop, claimed an interference foul against Probador, ridden by Gomez, in the stretch.

The stewards upheld the protest and disqualified Probador, placing Dougs Chop third.

When the two met in the scales house, Gomez accused Dittfach of bumping him in the stretch. Dittfach was struck on the face and the two wrestled each other to the ground before they were sparated.

They fought again in the jockey's quarters after fists were thrown a second time.

Gomez, 37, reported for the second race with a patch over his cheek where he had been cut. He won the race aboard Fast Answer.

Gomez was fined $100 and suspended for 10 days, the fine for instigating and altercation and the suspension for interfering with Dougs Chop.

Scots Try United In Opening Match

Victoria United has been drawn against the new St. Andrews entry from Vancouver in its season opener at Royal Athletic Park next Saturday.

The match is one of four set next weekend in the first round of the Pacific Coast Soccer League's annual Anderson Cup competition. In other cup matches on the mainland, UBC plays Burnaby (last years Canadians), North Shore faces Firefighters, and Columbus faces New Westminster Royals.

WELL BLOODED

United is hoping for more soccer and less slugging than they got Sunday in Nanaimo.

United won its exhibition game, 2-1, from Nanaimo Carlings, but the match was called eight minutes before time after six players had been thrown out for fighting. The United culprits were Tom Locke, Russ Ball and Ced Robb.

Locke scored once before he left and Jim Jamieson got the other goal.

"It's too bad it had to happen that way," United manager Fred Magee said last night. "They've got a good team and a nice bunch of players. But they've also got a few hotheads."

CUP MATCHES

Cup soccer was also on display in Victoria on Sunday, with four matches in the Victoria and District Soccer League's McGavin Cup competition.

Canadian Scottish whipped Wests of the second division 10-1, getting four goals from Marty Taylor, two from Annis Fisher, and one from John Magee, Stan Wiseman, Roy Hamilton and Ken Hibbert. Jack Malovich scored for Wests.

The first division Wests side blanked Wanderers of the second division 6-0 on two goals by Doug Hill and singles by Pat Mulcahy, John Mather, Howie Anderson and Nelson Crisp.

VETS SCORE

Luckies edged second division Sidney 2-1, with veterans Alec Stewart and Maurice Bunyan supplying the goals. Martin Cooper scored for the losers.

Cliff Newman, John Erdei and Roy St. Denis scored for Gorge in a 3-1 win over Esquimalt. Roy Beckford got the Esquimalt goal.

Rookie Guard With Riders Tops Scoring

Jack Abendschan, rookie import guard who does the placement kicking for Saskatchewan Roughriders, has taken the individual scoring lead in the Western Football Conference.

In at least one more game than any of his rivals, Abendschan has 46 points on 13 converts, nine field goals and six single points. Right behind, with 42 points, is Calgary-fullback Lovell Coleman, who leads in touchdowns with seven.

Reinforced Brooklin Club Trounced in Opener, 11-5

New Westminster 11, Brooklin 5

NEW WESTMINSTER —It was Cliff Sepka who led New Westminster O'Keefe's into the Mann Cup final, and he shows no signs of slowing up.

Sepka scored four goals here last night as O'Keefe's outclassed Brooklin Merchants, 11-5, in the first game of the best-of-seven Mann Cup Canadian senior lacrosse final.

Merchants, who amount to an eastern all-star team, since they have picked up five players from other clubs, were never in this one after the first half. Only some sensational work by goaltender Pat Baker prevented it from becoming a rout.

DUE CREDIT

Baker made 38 stops and drew a standing ovation from the crowd of 3,200 when it was over. O'Keefe's got to him consistently only in the third quarter, when the Brooklin defence caved in completely and New Westminster scored five straight goals.

Sepka, chosen the most-valuable player in the western playoffs, started the third-quarter drive with his third goal at the 48 second mark. One minute later he was back to set up Paul Parnell for the goal that made it 7-3. Then it was Dave Tory, Bill Wilkes and Tory again before Art Burrows replied for Merchants.

Larry Ferguson, eastern scoring champion, got three goals for Brooklin, and Glen Lotton the other.

Tory, Wilkes and Wayne Shuttleworth finished with two goals each for New Westminster, which beat Baker three times on the power play.

Merchants, who arrived Sunday but had no chance for a workout because their equipment didn't get here till late yesterday, appeared to tire quickly last night. After taking 24 shots in the first half, they managed only nine in the second.

Players picked up for the series, which continues Wednesday, are Ferguson, Ken Ruttan and Mann Cup veteran Bobby Allan, all of Peterborough, and Jack Madgett and Bill Castator of Brampton.

SOCCER PRACTICE

Rangers of the Combination Soccer League will practice Wednesday at 6:30 at Vic West Park. Everyone interested is invited.

Kickers Lead In Eastern Scoring Race

As in most football leagues, place-kickers in the Eastern Football Conference are leading in individual scoring.

Hamilton's Don Sutherin has a seven-point bulge over Ottawa's Moe Racine, 38-31. Sutherin has nine converts, nine field goals and two single points while Racine has 14 converts, five goals and two singles.

In contention is Bo Scott, new Ottawa halfback star who has scored five touchdowns.

Fight Group Sets Plans For October

Veteran trainer and manager Bert Wilkinson of Victoria has been elected president of the newly-formed Greater Victoria Boxing Association, which hopes to present a fight card some time next month.

Representatives of the four area clubs—London, James Bay, Royal Roads and Navy, elected Wilkinson Sunday. Dr. Jack Cooper was elected vice-president, Fred Fielding, secretary-treasurer, and Stan Glover and Bob Edwards, directors at large.

Champs Keep Tennis Title

Jack Lowe and Bill Quillian of Seattle retained their Pacific Northwest Invitational doubles championship Sunday, beating Steve Hopps and Tom Gorman of Seattle, 6-2, 6-2, in the final at Victoria Racquets Club.

Ray Aldeguer and Ted Smythe of the host club beat clubmates Roger Skillings and Rod Harvey, 6-3, 7-5, in the flights final.

Turnouts Clinch AFL Security

(From AP reports)

Hard on the heels of a rich television contract which assured the American Football League of financial solvency has come increased attendance which leaves no doubt but that the National League has a strong rival.

The AFL opened its season last weekend with the eight clubs all playing once, and the highlight was the largest single crowd in league history and the largest opening gate in the six years since the league started play.

Largest single crowd was in Houston on Sunday, 52,260 fans showing up to watch the New York Jets lose a lack-lustre game to the Oilers.

That made it 143,863 for the four games, an average of almost 36,000 a game.

Feature of Sunday's play was the showing of Dick Wood, one of the two quarterbacks released by the Jets, who paid $400,000 and $200,000, respectively, to sign rookies Joe Namath and John Huarte.

BAD GUESS

Wood, dealt to Oakland Raiders, came off the bench to pass for two touchdowns and score one as the Raiders rang up a mild upset in rallying to beat Kansas City Chiefs, 37-10.

Meanwhile, Huarte was on the taxi squad and Namath was on the bench as the Jets took their licking from the Oilers. Holdover Mike Taliaferro, judged the best bet by coach Weeb Ewbank, managed to complete only four of 22 passes for 49 yards.

Another Good-Bye

Out to get back in National Hockey League, Andy Hebenton left wife Gail (above) and family early this morning to head for Peterborough and Toronto Maple Leaf training camp. If Andy sticks with Leafs, the family will move east. If not, he will return to play for Victoria Maple Leafs.—(William Boucher)

MONTREAL — Saskatchewan Roughriders did what they had to do over the weekend, and found themselves leading the Western Football Conference.

In a third-place tie with B.C. Lions, three points behind Calgary Stampeders and one behind Winnipeg Blue Bombers, the Riders got their chance with a schedule which called for games against the Eastern trailers, Toronto Argonauts and Montreal Alouettes.

Riders started right with a 28-9 romp over the winless Argos on Friday night but were within 10 seconds of defeat Sunday afternoon before taking the Alouettes, 11-9, to move one point ahead of the Stampeders.

A 14-yard field goal by rookie lineman Jack Abendschan climaxed the come-from-behind victory, which had seemed hopeless when Alouettes went ahead for the second time with two minutes and 39 seconds left to play.

Alouettes got away winging when Bernie Faloney, showing a good touch of old-time class, moved his club 83 yards in 16 plays with fullback J. W. Lockett getting the last yard for the touchdown and Bill Bewley kicking the convert for 7-0 early in the first quarter.

Riders couldn't get anything going against the Montreal defence until the fourth quarter. They picked up a point on a punt by Martin Fabi in the second quarter but started the fourth trailing by 1-8, when Faloney got that back in the third quarter with a punt.

There was less than five minutes left when Ron Lancaster, who had three passes intercepted, got things started by hitting Bill Butler in the end zone.

Abendschan tied it at 8-8 with the convert but at 12:21, Faloney hoisted a 50-yard punt into the Saskatchewan end zone for what seemed to be the winning point. But Lancaster moved his club quickly into Montreal territory on passes and Abendschan put the ball squarely between the uprights.

Miami Club Joins AFL

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — American Football League club owners gave formal approval Monday to a 1966 franchise for Miami, Fla.

The owners returned to executive session with further expansion in 1966 or 1967 believed to be a major item on their agenda.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Most of the area's major golf news these days centres around club championships, and there was plenty of activity on the weekend.

At Royal Colwood, Laurie Kerr topped a record field of 137 with a one-over-par 71 in the qualifying round. Defending champion Ricky Kent also qualified with a 78, as did all those who scored 81 and under.

Second place went to B. Cunningham (73), followed by Roger Ross (75) and Joe Evans and Urban Allan (76).

First round of match play is set for next Sunday.

Art Donaldson, who has been winning all along the line since his reinstatement as an amateur earlier this summer, scored another success at Gorge Vale, finishing as medalist in the qualifying round.

Donaldson was around in 72, Wayne MacDonald in 73 and Cliff Soberg in 74. Total of 170 players went after the championship, vacant since Bill Wakeham moved to Calgary.

Extra holes were needed to break a four-way tie for 16th place among four who shot 80s. D. Joseph took the spot with a birdie two on the second extra hole.

In second round play in the Uplands championship, Bob Hunt beat Jim Reside, Ron Hunt downed Owen Jull, Gord Fellow beat Joe Briggs, Vic Lea took Reg Elliott, Ron Bishop beat Jim Douglas, Dave Jones defeated G. Sommers, Frank Scroggs beat R. Moss, and M. Smith defeated R. Spaven.

Victoria District buttons competitions will start later this month, as soon as club championships are completed.

Holders Dick Munn and Fred Worthington of Cedar Hill are ready to go, and Victoria and Ardmore clubs have challengers waiting. Colwood is actually first in line, but may give up its place if unable to get a team ready owing to the club competition.

First of the winter medal rounds will be played at Uplands Oct. 10, with Munn the holder.

Most golfers are familiar with the most popular of the modern grips, which call for the showing of two knuckles of the left hand.

The problem for many who show the knuckles is what to do with the left thumb. Gordon Money, with whom I played the other day, says you simply tuck it comfortably under the shaft, out of the way.

He assures me that he is getting good results by shifting the thumb from its more usual position down the side of the shaft. It may suit others as well, but it requires a few practice shots to make the alignment alterations the grip requires.

Spokane Gets Russian Club

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—The world championship Russian national hockey team has been tentatively scheduled to play the Spokane Jets here Dec. 18.

Colin Kilburn, coach and general manager of the Jets, said Monday, final approval must come from the Western International League, of which Spokane is a member.

The Russians will be on a two-week tour of Canada and the United States.

Spanish Net Star New U.S. Champion

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — Manuel Santana, the Spanish ace who wrecked U.S. Davis Cup hopes in the inter-zone finals in Barcelona last month, Sunday became the first continental European to win the U.S. men's singles tennis championship in 37 years.

Last continental player to win was France's Henri Cochet, who won in 1928.

Santana's delicate touch and all-court wizardry were too much for South Africa's Cliff Drysdale in the final.

The 27-year-old Spaniard slumped a bit after winning the first set, 6-2. He lost the second, 7-9, and allowed Drysdale to overcome a 1-5 deficit in the third set to get to 5-5.

There, rain interrupted proceeding for 40 minutes. The rest seemed all Santana needed. He ran out the set, 7-5, and ran out the fourth set, 6-1, in just 14 minutes.

It was a barren day for American players. Margaret Smith of Australia regained the ladies' championship, rallying in both sets to defeat Billy Jean Moffitt, 8-6, 7-5.

Miss Smith then teamed with countryman Fred Stolle to win the mixed doubles by defeating Frank Froehling of the U.S. and Judy Tegart of Australia, 6-2, 6-2.

Early Start Made By Toronto Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Punch Imlach, coach and general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, says players who do not go all out at training camp could find themselves in the minors when the regular season opens Oct. 23.

The Leafs, who finished fourth last season and relinquished the Stanley Cup after a three-year reign, open training camp at Peterborough, Ont., Sept. 16.

NEW FACES

Imlach said Friday there will be four, possibly five, new faces in the Leaf lineup when they open the regular season at home against Chicago Black Hawks Oct. 23.

Explaining last year's dismal showing, capped by the Leafs' loss in the semi-finals to Montreal Canadiens, Imlach said that if the club's top players haven't realized it will take a 100-per-cent effort to win in the NHL, then they'll "simply have to be moved out."

But Imlach is optimistic about prospects for a successful season.

"We can't help but be better than last season. We made excellent deals to acquire Marcel Pronovost and Larry Jeffrey from Detroit and Orland Kurtenbach from Boston."

HEAD-HUNTERS

Imlach feels Kurtenbach, acquired for veteran right-winger Ron Stewart, will give the Leafs the "tough, all-purpose forward we've lacked the past few seasons."

Imlach figures that with Kurtenbach at centre, Tim Horton on right wing, Jeffrey on the right side and Pronovost and Bobby Baun as the defencemen, he'll have the toughest squad in the league.

"No other NHL team can place five such hard-nosed types on the ice at the same time. You can bet they won't be intimidated. And, brother, we lacked muscle when we needed it most last spring."

Imlach figures Pronovost has strengthened an already strong defence. His only problem will be cutting down to five defencemen which means veteran Allan Stanley and Kent Douglas will probably fight it out for the fifth spot.

Royal City Juniors Lead Canadian Final

New Westminster 9, Oshawa 6.

OSHAWA—New Westminster Salmonbellies have won the first round of their rematch with Oshawa Green Gaels.

Trounced by the Gaels in five games last season, Salmonbellies stunned the Oshawa club, 9-6, here last night in the first game of their best-of-seven series for the Minto Cup and the Canadian junior lacrosse championship.

SECOND LOSS

It was only the second loss of the season for the Gaels, who had 18 wins and a tie in their 20-game league schedule, then won 11 straight eastern playoff games. Salmonbellies' record now stands at 30-3.

Wayne Goss scored three goals and assisted on two others for New Westminster. Wayne Bellwood and Ken Henry had two each and Ranjit Dillon and Terry Boulton got the others. Dillon, picked up for the series from Victoria Shamrocks, also had two assists.

The Gaels, trying for the third Minto Cup in the club's three-year history, got two goals each from Gaylord Powless and Don Stinson, and one from John Davis and Bob Thompson.

Powless, the 18-year-old Mohawk Indian who was the most-valuable player in last year's series, scored 75 goals in 31 league and playoff games this year.

Salmonbellies trailed by one goal four times in the tight first two periods, but each time they came back to tie, and three straight goals at the start of the third period gave them the edge.

Don Wallis made 36 stops for New Westminster and Merv Marshall 33 for Gaels. Wallis, a rookie, and Marshall, with Gaels since the club was formed, each ended the regular schedule with a goals-against average of only eight per game.

Biggest worry for Salmonbellies as they await Wednesday's second game is the condition of Goss, who had to be helped from the floor in the final period. He was hit under the ribs, and will be checked by a doctor today.

A crowd of 2,429 saw the game.

Player Wins World Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Gary Player, the little South African who wins big tournaments, pocketed top prize of $50,000 in the 'World Series of Golf' Sunday with a three-stroke victory over Masters champion Jack Nicklaus.

Player, who took the lead by matching par Saturday, fired a 35-34—69 on the final round for a 36-hole total of 139 over the Firestone Country Club's 7,180-yard layout.

Player never relinquished his lead in the final round.

He earned a spot in the four-man tournament for major title winners by taking the U.S. Open championship.

SCRAMBLING GOLF

Nicklaus, scrambling most of the day, was within a stroke several times but went one over par on the 13th and 14th holes as Player shot ahead by three strokes with four holes to play.

Nicklaus, who won the first two World Series but didn't qualify in the third, which Tony Lema won last year, shot a final round 36-35—71 for a 142 total, good enough for second money of $15,000.

Peter Thomson, the British Open champion, had 71 and a 144 total, finishing third with $7,500. PGA champion Dave Marr soared to 77 for a 151 total and $5,000.

CLINCHING PUTT

Player was amazingly steady although he left the final outcome in doubt when he took a four on the par-three 15th hole which dropped his lead to two strokes.

But the black-clad South African ended Nicklaus' chances when he rammed in a 50-foot birdie putt on the 17th green.

Another $50,000

Portland Pro Wins Playoff

CALGARY (CP)—Bob Duden of Portland, Ore., battled through two playoff holes Sunday to scoop top prize money of $2,000 in the $12,000 Willow Park pro-amateur golf tournament here.

Duden eliminated Calgary pro Bud Loftus from the three-man playoff on the first extra hole and topped Lyle Crawford of Vancouver on the second.

The three finished with 54-hole totals of 210, three under par.

Loftus went out of the playoff when he missed a six-foot putt. Crawford fell when he missed a 20-inch putt. Crawford collected $1,500 and Loftus $1,000.

East Winners Carry Off Coast Honors

PORTLAND — Oklahoma City Raiders, getting two home runs from shortstop Ernie Fazio and one from Chuck Harrison, won the Pacific Coast Baseball League championship Sunday by defeating Portland Beavers, 8-3.

Victory gave the Eastern Division champions the best-of-seven final, four games to one. They opened with successive 4-3 victories in Oklahoma City, lost the third game in Portland, 0-4, then won, 4-2, on Saturday before Sunday's clinching win.

Argos to Try Another One

TORONTO — Toronto Argonstill winless after seven Canadian Football League games, are going to have to give still another quarterback a chance to see if he can move the club.

Latest signal-calling recruit is Bill Van Burkleo, who can also play as a flanker and a defensive-back. He was cut by Dallas of the NFL.

Oak Bay	4	2	2	121	40	4

Sunday's scores: JBAA 14, Victoria 7; Nanaimo 82, Campbell River 0; Oak Bay 67, Cowichan 0.

Next games: Sunday, 2 p.m.—Mustangs vs. Oak Bay, Carmanson Park; Victoria at Nanaimo; Campbell River at Cowichan.

JBAA Mustangs won their first-place battle, 14-7, from Victoria Hornets, but the most significant thing in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Canadian Football League Sunday was further indication of a terrible imbalance.

While Mustangs and Hornets were struggling at Macdonald Park, Nanaimo Redmen were trouncing the Raiders, 82-0, at Campbell River, and Oak Bay Farmers were whipping Cowichan Timbermen, 67-0, in Duncan.

DIFFERENCE IS BIG

Campbell River and Cowichan have both lost all four of their games without scoring a point. Raiders have yielded 145 and the rookie Cowichan club 189.

Quarterback Dave Hutchings threw two touchdown passes, 18 yards to flanker Bob Lougheed and 20 yards to halfback John Clements, for JBAA's touchdowns as the Mustangs won their fourth straight. Ron Tallis added a convert and a single.

Ken Buckley scored the Hornets' touchdown.

At Duncan, quarterback Bob Wicks got into the Oak Bay lineup for the first time this season and passed for five touchdowns and scored two. Three of the scoring passes went to end Hugh McDonald.

Fullback Dave Young also scored two touchdowns and Doug Daniels, Jim Forward and Terry Ryan got one apiece. Lloyd Murphy kicked seven converts.

At Nanaimo, the defensive team accounted for three touchdowns on interceptions or recovered fumbles, and halfback Lynn Irving scored four more.

Firefighters Easily Reach Soccer Final

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Firefighters roared into the finals of the Canadian soccer championship here Sunday, blanking Winnipeg Scottish, the outclassed Manitoba champions, 7-0.

Firefighters will meet the Eastern champions on the weekend of Sept. 26 and 27 for the Dominion Challenge Cup.

Art Hughes, veteran centre-forward, scored four goals in an outstanding performance before leaving the game midway through the second half. Louis Trischuk scored twice and Don Boyd completed the scoring.

String of Charges Admitted by Youth

Two cars and one office building were the worse off after 18-year-old Norman Kalbfleish broke into Pats Auto Sale, 470 Esquimalt, Sunday.

Kalbfleish, 706 Suffolk, took a radio, then headed with keys to the parking lot where the $395 worth of damage was chalked up.

Court Monday was told he backed one car into the office building and this car rolled into a second.

The youth, who admitted the break-in and theft and wilful damage, was remanded to Sept. 21 for a pre-sentence report.

A 16-year-old boy, also arrested in connection with the break-in, will appear before juvenile authorities.

'KNEW FELLOW'

"I knew the fellow, he knew me," Joseph Bruneau, 1219 Juno, explained his disappearance from the scene of a hit-and-run.

He pleaded guilty, however to failing to remain at the scene of an accident at Rose and Topaz early Sunday, was fined $150 and had his licence suspended.

Magistrate William Ostler, who was told $600 worth of damage was done to the "friend's" car, said knowing the driver was no excuse.

NIGHT BAN

Ralph Edwin Smith, 985 Claremont, won't be able to do any night-time driving for six months as a result of conviction for impaired driving in provincial magistrate's court.

The 6 p.m. to 7 a.m. driving ban was imposed by Magistrate Harold Alder, who also fined Smith $350.

He said he was limiting the ban because of the nature of Smith's job as a salesman.

INNOCENT PLEA

Smith pleaded not guilty. His car had hit a hydro pole on Craigflower in View Royal.

The magistrate rejected an argument that a breathalyser reading might have been affected by blood entering the accused's mouth from a cut lip.

Schedule Too Filling

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Whitmer high school is using data processing this year to set up schedules for students.

But Harvey Davis, assistant superintendent, concedes there are a few bugs to iron out.

For example, one student discovered he had been assigned to seven straight lunch periods during one school day.

"The matter has been corrected," Davis said.

News Strike Threatened

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Newspaper Guild will go on strike against The New York Times Thursday morning unless the newspaper makes an acceptable contract offer by that time, a union spokesman said Monday.

A strike might precipitate a near blackout of newspapers in the city because the publishers Association of New York City has served notice that it will suspend publication of all association papers if the Times cannot publish.

B.A. Oil 'Strike by Weekend'

SASKATOON (CP) — The international representative of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (CLC) said Monday night about 1,000 employees of British American Oil Co. refineries across Canada were expected to strike by the end of this week.

Neil Reimer of Edmonton, said in a telephone interview in Saskatoon that the employees were workers at B.A. plants at Vancouver, Kamloops, and Moose Jaw, Brandon, and Clarkson, Ont., just west of Toronto.

NO TALKS

"No further talks are scheduled with the company at the moment," Mr. Reimer said.

He said the union, which is asking for a wage increase of 55 cents an hour spread over two years, as well as negotiation of automation and job security, originally lifted its strike deadline at the Saskatoon refinery set for Tuesday in order that negotiations could continue.

He said workers went to their jobs Monday to find themselves locked out, and security guards with dogs patrolling the plant.

About 150 workers were affected.

Mr. Reimer said that the strike deadline at the major B.A. refinery at Clarkson, originally set for Friday, had been advanced to 12:01 a.m. Thursday, and he expected other refinery workers would follow.

MAJOR ISSUES

Mr. Reimer said that although the union differed with the company over a proposed wage boost, automation and layoffs were the major issues in the dispute.

"Our workers are being laid off at the rate of about 10 per cent annually," Mr. Reimer said.

He said the company had also talked of closing down some of its western plants. The union wants a year's notice of any intention to close a plant, transferrable security for workers at the rate of a year's seniority at a new plant for every five years' worked, and a joint government, union, company training program to re-train displaced workers for other occupations.

Refinery workers now earn an average $2.75 an hour.

DENIAL

Mie Germann, president of the Saskatoon local, said: "We are locked out and the company is now indicating to us that they are not prepared to negotiate under any circumstances."

Mr. Davidson said the statement was a "complete falsehood" and that "we are open for negotiations at any time."

The volunteers, 13 of whom have been assigned to Kenya for two years, are sponsored by the Canadian universities service overseas.

About 20 others, all French-speaking Canadians, will work in Rwanda, Burundi and Malagasy.

Some people still think electric heating is expensive.

These people don't (They have it.)

LAWRENCE MORRISSEY, Victoria, B.C.
"No maintenance at all. We haven't had to touch it since it was installed. There's been no odour, either. The atmosphere is always clean and fresh."

MRS. G. BOUCHARD, Fort St. John, B.C.
"It's very even heat, with no cool spots, no drafts. I believe electricity is more reliable, too. When we leave the house, there's nothing to worry about."

D. A. PRIOR, Prince George, B.C.
"I like the low cost. We haven't spent a cent for repairs. And it doesn't need as much space, so it's ideal for a no-basement place like ours."

DEREK PARKES, Westbank, B.C.
"I like the thermostat in every room. You can keep the temperature just where you want it. No heat is wasted. We really like it."

MR. & MRS. R. G. STEWART, Ladner, B.C.
"What do we like best about electric heat? Cleanliness. Sure, it's quiet. Takes up less space, too. But most of all, it's the cleanest heat we've ever had."

F. W. STENNER, Gibsons, B.C.
"Complete comfort all through the house. The exact heat we want in each room, because each one is controlled by its own separate thermostat."

At today's low electric rates, over 7,000 B.C. families have learned that electric heating costs little more than ordinary automatic heating systems. But it offers plenty more: (1) Room-by-room temperature control means extra comfort, extra savings. (2) Sunshine-clean electric heat saves drudgery and expense. No dirt, no soot. (3) Equipment is practically maintenance-free. Usually lasts longer, too. (4) Electric heat is easy to live with. Gentle, even heat. Very quiet heat. (5) Compact, too. Simplifies home construction, saves valuable floor space. (6) Resale value? As the trend to all-electric living gains ground, this is the heating system more buyers will be looking for tomorrow. If you're about to build, remodel or extend your home, don't overlook the advantages of electric heating. Ask B.C. Hydro for a heating cost estimate, plus the informative booklet: "Electric Heating Facts." It's free.

Junior Chamber Wants Election Act Changed

Alien Could Be Premier, Jaycees Claim

There are non-Canadians holding elected office in the provincial government, according to the B.C. and Yukon Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The Jaycees, in one of three resolutions presented Monday to the government, claimed that current legislation does not require MLAs to be Canadian citizens, and urged the Elections Act be amended so all MLAs be Canadian either by birth or naturalization.

★ ★ ★

Under present provisions of the act, it would be possible for a person who is not a Canadian citizen either by birth or naturalization to become premier of B.C., according to the Jaycees.

Another resolution asked the government to amend the Municipal Act to permit Sunday sports and entertainment, and the third urged adoption of reflective safety licence plates for motor vehicles.

The Jaycees said the reflective plates are in use in 22 U.S. states and statistics prove they have resulted in the reduction of personal and property damage.

★ ★ ★

With the Jaycees on their visit to the government was the Junior Chamber's international vice-president, Phillippe Abravanel of Switzerland, who is making a three-week tour of his assigned area.

"To have an informal chat with government ministers was a very interesting experience," he said. "I do not think it would happen in Europe."

★ ★ ★

The international vice-president is a lawyer in Switzerland, is married with two children, and speaks French, English and German.

Esquimalt Undecided On Stadium

Esquimalt council wants the intermunicipal committee to decide between the Victoria and Saanich proposals for a centennial stadium project.

But first, it wants to know whether the committee endorses the centennial committee's recommendation that a stadium be the project.

The intermunicipal committee comprises representatives from Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt and Oak Bay.

OAK BAY APPROVES

Oak Bay has approved of the stadium project in principle and will decide later this week on what further action it will take.

Esquimalt council Monday night read both stadium proposals and then tossed the decision to the intermunicipal committee.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele said: "I think it's ridiculous for us to be entering into it at this time."

AUDITORIUM TOO

Coun. Gerald Horne said the centennial committee's decision for a stadium included an indoor sports auditorium, either immediately or in the future.

There was no mention of this in the Victoria proposal, he said.

If the intermunicipal committee favors the stadium project, Esquimalt wants it to appoint a subcommittee to investigate both proposals and then bring recommendations to the four councils.

ASKS FOR CHANGES

Esquimalt also asked for some writing to be done in the Regional Parks District petition.

It wants written into the petition that the maximum levy be half a mill, and that the funds be used solely for the acquisition of the areas.

The Regional Parks Act has a maximum levy of one mill and the funds may be used for acquisition, development and maintenance.

Aldermen (Still) Flummoxed By Playhouse's Restaurant

★ ★ ★

Nick North

Aldermen took a new, hard look at the McPherson Playhouse restaurant situation Monday but came up with no positive answers.

With the help of local restaurateurs, members of the local branch of the Canadian Restaurant Association, they examined the whole situation in a two-hour session and decided to advertise again for an operator, laying down specific terms and conditions.

SOLVENT TENANT

The restaurant association committee was frank in its assessment of the whole future of the civic enterprise and doubted that it would ever be a financial success.

Inasmuch as it was liable to be a subsidized operation they felt that the tenant should be required to provide concrete proof of financial responsibility.

'NOT WALK OUT'

"We are not against a restaurant as such, but we do feel that whoever takes it over should not be in a position to just walk out if the going gets a bit tough," said William Webb, local restaurant association president.

It should be realized, said Nicholas North, Imperial Inn manager, that the restaurant business is a marginal one. Despite what people thought, it required extremely close attention and expert knowledge.

SMALL PROFIT

"We can't see how it can be a success in Centennial Square," Mr. North said.

An optimistic estimate, Mr. North said, was a monthly "take" of $10,000. A good operator might come up with a 10 or 12 per cent profit, which wasn't too attractive a prospect if he was required to make any sort of substantial capital outlay.

Furthermore, he added, there was going to be a selling problem. People who would not dream of complaining to a private operator will be supercritical about "their" restaurant.

The city manager and members of the restaurant association committee will collaborate on a list of specific requirements before City Hall advertises further for an operator.

Customs Check For Beer

Customs and RCMP have been spot-checking boats docking here from the United States since a beer strike dried up nearly all of B.C., but so far no beer has been found.

Attempts to smuggle beer across the border by car have not met with much success, either.

SMUGGLERS CAUGHT

An RCMP spokesman here said several people had been picked up attempting to bring American beer into Canada on the mainland.

Sidney detachment now has in service a 16-foot, 45-horsepower speedboat which is used for routine sea-going business, and will be used in checking visiting yachts.

Navy Padre Conscripted

Navy Chaplain Clifford Waite said Monday he had been approached to stand for the Conservative nomination in Esquimalt-Saanich, but he hadn't volunteered.

However, he said, he would be willing to stand, and if nominated would resign his navy commission.

Bookmaking Case

Three Facing Charges After Weekend Raids

A dog-bitten police matron, an unconscious detective and appearance of three people in city magistrate's court Monday were part of the aftermath of weekend police raids in connection with bookmaking charges.

Charges of illegal recording of bets were laid against Robert Bowden and his wife, Rebecca, 1216 Oxford Street, and Richard Maxwell Flood, 633 Johnson. All pleaded not guilty and were remanded.

★ ★ ★

The police matron, Mrs. Else Elverhoy, was nursing an arm with 11 stitches in it, after an encounter with a dog in the course of a raid on Oxford Street.

The Bowdens were remanded to Oct. 7. Flood was remanded to Sept. 21.

Deputy Police Chief Harry Mercer said Monday that police would be making arrests in any future proceedings against suspected cases of bookmaking. In the past, they have generally issued summonses.

He explained that when arrests are made, it is possible to fingerprint and photograph the people charged.

The session will start at 9 p.m., Sept. 24, at the Club Tango.

Council Hits At Demand Of Ratepayers

Sidney council stepped into the curve thrown at them in the form of a letter by the village ratepayers' association, and slammed it out of the park.

A letter from the association was read at Monday night's council meeting asking to have the village financial statement for 1964 published and requesting that the remaining commissioners resign as they had lost the confidence of the association.

'NO PLEBISCITE'

The association was not in favor of holding a plebiscite on borrowing $225,000 for a major road project until full details were explained to the public, it was stated.

"The 1964 financial statements are accessible in the village office at any time," Commissioner L. R. Christian said.

He suggested the statement could be run through the duplicating machine and, if the members of the association wished, they could distribute them through the village.

Acting village chairman Andries Boas said council had stated many times that before the referendum is put before the people, the whole proposed road program will be explained at a public meeting.

OUT OF ORDER

"No breach of municipal law has been made by the council," said Commissioner Christian. "Therefore the request for resignation is out of order."

Council decided to send a waterfront development plan for the village to the federal government in a bid to have work started on the harbor.

The long-range plans include a breakwater and eventual dredging of Roberts Bay, All Bay, Tsehum Harbor, and the bay in front of the village.

After the dredging and the breakwater have been completed —according to the plans—they would be suitable for mooring of boats, development of beaches, building of parking lots, and waterfront promenades.

Sidney council and the Chamber of Commerce will meet at the end of the month to discuss the waterfront and the buildup of the village business district.

100-Foot Fall Kills Victoria Man

A 23-year-old Victoria man, Dwight Arthur Creamer, fell 100 feet to his death while looking at a waterfall at the head of rugged Indian Arm, at the head of Burrard Inlet, police said Monday.

His body was discovered Sunday at the base of a cliff.

The dead man was born in Wetaskiwin, Alta. An RCMP boat brought the body to North Vancouver.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Creamer, live at 511 Prospect Lake Road, with their other sons, Terry, Warren and Randy, and a daughter, Linda.

Crashes Involve Scores

A day-long siege of fender-bashing on slimy streets Monday sent scores of cars to garages for repairs, but only two people to hospital.

A total of 37 accidents, involving from two to four cars each, occurred in the Greater Victoria area during the rainy session.

TWO INJURED

Treated and released from Royal Jubilee Hospital was Mrs. Sue Lyon, 53, of 2913 Prior, and from St. Joseph's Hospital, Ernest Stowe, 78, of 217 Linden.

Mrs. Lyon was injured when the car she was driving east on Bay was in collision with one driven in the same direction by Mary Ying Wong of 1388 Hillside, which in turn was in collision with one driven by Robert Anderson of 1231 Oakmount.

MOST IN CITY

Mr. Stowe was injured in a collision at Linden and Rockland of cars driven by William Ries of 200 Douglas and Roy Hoult of 628 Dallas.

Police in Victoria investigated 24 accidents; Saanich, nine accidents; Esquimalt, three; and Colwood, one. No accidents were reported in Oak Bay or Sidney.

Publisher Says:

Canadian Papers Take Middle Road

University of Victoria's publications seminar wound up Monday night with an address by Vancouver Sun publisher Stuart Keate at Uplands Golf Club.

Mr. Keate presented the seminarians with a critique of Canadian journalism and newspapers.

Canadian daily newspapers do not run to the excesses of good and bad that the United States and the United Kingdom publications do, he said.

'NO PENNY DREADFULS'

"There are no penny dreadfuls in Canadian publishing."

"The Canadian press gives a calm and level - headed treatment to news, in line with the attitude expected by a calm and balanced nation," he said.

More than 20 would-be journalists plus the University of Victoria student council attended the banquet, which wound up a five-day introduction to the newspaper craft.

SPONSORED JOINTLY

The seminar, sponsored jointly by Victoria Press and the University of Victoria administration and publications department, began Thursday with an address by Colonist publisher R. J. Bower and university Dean of Students Ronald Jeffels.

Professional reporters and editors from the Colonist and the Times lectured and gave practical exercises in gathering and presenting the news.

FIRST YEAR STUDENTS

Students attending the seminar were high school graduates entering their first year in university. The seminar's aim was to recruit a staff for the university's newspaper, the Martlet, and the campus magazine Tryste.

The university was represented at the final banquet by Dean Robert Wallace; publisher W. A. Irwin of the Victoria Daily Times represented Victoria Press.

Saanich Wants Court

Not Backing Down Says Reeve Curtis

Saanich will continue to protest inclusion of the municipality in a central court facility in downtown Victoria, says Reeve High Curtis.

The reeve said Monday he did not know what action he can take to prevent the move, but he is unalterably opposed to it and considers it arbitrary and unfair to Saanich ratepayers.

COURT MOVE

District Magistrate William Ostler has decided to move his court to the central facilities in the newly-renovated Fisgard Street police station, according to a letter to Saanich from the attorney-general's department.

"Saanich asks why and how we should be asked to abandon facilities, only three years old, which work well and serve the municipality well," said the reeve.

ACCEPTS ADVICE

He added that, "Saanich police, prosecutor and our legal advisers agree the best interests of this municipality will be served by retaining a separate court.

"I accept their advice as experienced and capable people in justice administration."

Grit Predicts Landslide Win

Mines and Technical Surveys Minister J. Watson MacNaught predicts an absolute Liberal majority in the House of Commons after ballots are counted Nov. 8.

Here on a three-day visit to attend the conference of provincial mines ministers, he said Monday that he agreed with the estimate of retiring New Democrat MP Douglas Fisher that the Liberals would win 145 seats.

"I don't like to pun, but that may be a conservative estimate," said Mr. MacNaught, member for Prince riding in Prince Edward Island.

WILL GAIN IN B.C.

He said he estimated Liberal candidates would gain "a couple of seats, maybe three" in B.C.

"I expect we will pick up seats in the Prairies," he added. Liberals will gain in Quebec and hold their own in Ontario, he forecast.

Ailing Passenger Ashore

Mackenzie Rejoins Cruise

Warship's Mercy Side-Trip Cut Short

Rushing to perform a mercy service to a passenger on a small boat, HMCS Mackenzie turned back when it was learned the boat made its way into Neah Bay.

The distress message was picked up by four RCN ships on their way to manoeuvres out of San Diego.

They received a message that a small vessel off Cape Flattery had a seriously-ill person on the board, and the Mackenzie with Surgeon Lieut. D. A. Tye was dispatched immediately at 4:10 p.m.

The Coast Guard cutter Ready, which had just finished towing the disabled fish boat Mai-Lie into Bamfield, stood by in case her services were required to transfer the injured person aboard the Mackenzie.

Later reports said an American Coast Guard cutter was in the area, and the Ready went on with her regular chores.

★ ★ ★

The Ready picked up the Mai-Lie one hour and 15 minutes after the vessel, which was crippled with engine trouble, radioed for help.

Bride and Groom Both Teachers

St. Martin's Anglican Church in North Vancouver was the setting for the recent marriage of Gayle Elizabeth Dennis, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Dennis, Woodstock, Ont., to Mr. Barry Donald Saunders, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Idrys Saunders, Victoria.

Standards of yellow and white gladiolus, chrysanthemums and daisies formed the floral setting for the double-ring ceremony performed by Archdeacon T. W. Hall.

Her chapel train was held by a self bow and was edged with scalloped lawn. An illusion net veil misted to her waist from a rosette of matching embroidered lawn. She carried a white prayer book topped with orchids and cascading yellow daisies. Completing her wedding ensemble was a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

Matron of honor, Mrs. William Arab of North Vancouver, and bridesmaid, Miss Doreen Way of Winnipeg were in street-length dresses of yellow batiste over taffeta. They wore yellow and white circlets of daisies in their hajr. They carried white baskets of daisies.

Her shoulder-length veil draped from a cluster of white forget-me-nots, and she carried a cascade bouquet of deep pink roses with stephanotis.

Matron of honor Mrs. Barry Harvey and bridesmaid Miss Judy Lewis, chose gowns of pale pink chiffon over taffeta with matching headpieces. Both carried cascade bouquets of white carnations.

A small sitting area, a place to write notes away from the bustle of the rest of the house, a quiet place to read or knit—these all can be found in a master bedroom that is given a few extra feet of floor space. A generous-size bedroom offers a variety of extras, including lots of storage, a desk, and a sitting and lounging area. A light and bright color scheme, splashed with a cool floral print, helps unify the bedroom. The same scheme can carry over into the bath and the dressing rooms. Here, traditional furniture styles blend with straight-lined built-in bookcases and cabinets that house television and stereo equipment. Few bedrooms are this luxurious in size and furnishings, but any bedroom can have some of these comforts—even if on a somewhat smaller scale. — (Copyright, 1965, Better Homes and Gardens)

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I was cleaning the closets yesday and I ran across an unfamiliar box. I opened it and found an insurance policy on my husband's life. He had named his mother the beneficiary. The policy was in an envelope which had been addressed to a man my husband works with. Apparently he had the policy sent to his friend's home because he didn't want me to know about it.

I believe it is admirable for a man to want to take care of his mother. If my husband had told me about the policy I would not have given it another thought. But I am shocked and hurt that he would sneak around behind my back. Such actions make me lose respect for him.

Should I tell him I found the policy and that I wish he had told me about it or would it be best to leave well enough alone? —SALINAS QUANDRY

Dear Quandary: It is unhealthy to keep resentment buried under several layers of silence. Speak up and clear the air. He'll feel better about it, too.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: I have one of the biggest problems in the world—my sister. She is eight years old and I am 14. I kept hoping the problem would get better, but instead, it's getting worse.

Whenever I have a girl friend over my little sister hangs around, listening to every word we say. The minute my sister shows up the visit is ruined. When I ask her to leave she goes crying to my mother and says I am being mean to her. My mother brings her back and yells, "Is it so terrible to have your own sister in the same room with you? What could you be talking about that is so private?"

I know you are very busy person but I'd certainly appreciate it if you'd find time to help me. Thank you.—DONNA G.

Dear Donna: Your mother is not treating you fairly when she permits your little sister to invade your privacy. Moreover she does your little sister no favor when she allows her to hang around and make a pest of herself. When I receive letters asking for reasons brothers and sisters grow up to dislike each other I say, "Put them all together and they spell Mother."

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the long letter from the girl who was feeling sorry for herself because her fiance kept standing her up for dinners which she lovingly prepared in her apartment. She moaned over the burnt steaks, wilted salads and fallen souffles.

Honestly, Ann, that dame must be awfully soft in the head and she must be a lousy cook, to boot. Who in her right mind would put steaks under a broiler or dressing on a salad before the boy friend shows up? If the gal shoves the souffle in the oven before she sees the whites of his eyeballs she deserves a fallen souffle.

A babe that dumb about cooking is probably dumb about lots of things. No wonder she gets stood up. — NO SYMPATHY FROM HERE.

Dear No Symp: The lady does sound a little out of her tree, now that you mention it. But I do feel sorry for her because the gal is bound to be the loser, either way.

★ ★ ★

Confidential to HEART-BROKEN AND WONDERING WHY: I would say it failed for two reasons. She was crazy about money and he didn't have any.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Matte, 467 Lampson Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Darlene Gail, to Mr. John Warren Ingham, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ingham, 150 Kamloops Avenue. Rain May Aid Anglers in Saanich Inlet

Monday's rain may be just what the doctor ordered to get salmon moving toward Vancouver Island spawning rivers, and Saanich Inlet anglers who plan a big derby this coming Sunday may benefit most of all.

Fishing was less than spectacular in Saanich Inlet, where five separate derbies were held over the weekend, but this rain could put the fish on the move towards Cowichan Bay and other rivers and on their way they often take a swing around Sanich Inlet.

So when the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association holds it's big coho and spring salmon derby Sunday, daybreak until 2 p.m., there may be some big Cowichan Bay springs and coho in the Inlet.

It is a members only derby and this year for the first time VSIAA members may enter springs as well as coho in this derby, which until this year has traditionally been the big coho derby of the year.

The member weighing in the heaviest coho will win a handsome easy chair and a trophy.

The member weighing in the heaviest spring salmon will win a smart hostess chair and the F. D. Nuttal Memorial trophy, up for competition for the first time.

There will be five other fishing prizes in each of the two classes —spring and coho—and numerous other prizes will all be for hidden weights.

Prize presentation will be at the Anglers-Anchorage Marina. Weigh-in stations will be at Halls Boathouse, Brentwood Boat Rentals, Anglers-Anchorage, Gilbert's, and Holder's.

While fishing in this big derby anglers who catch salmon five pounds or heavier will also be able to enter them in the Colonist King Fisherman Contest for hidden weight prizes, a Rome trip for two, a helicopter week end, buttons and trophies.

Farmers Cross Fingers

SYDNEY, N.S.W. (Reuters)—The approach of the southern hemisphere spring in Australia has brought a mixture of hope and despair for farmers and graziers in the drought-stricken eastern part of the country.

Rain in some areas has meant renewed hope, as crops are planted and decimated herds start to recover. But for other areas there is only the prospect of more suffering on top of the hardship already experienced since the current dry spell started last October.

Rainfall is well below average so far this year in New South Wales as a whole, though there have been good falls in the southern part of the state where the wheat crop is well established and livestock in a reasonable condition.

SMALLER CROPS

But the state agricultural department has predicted that, over-all, the wheat crop will be much smaller than last year and oats and barley probably similarly reduced.

In Queensland, where the south and southwest areas are still affected by prolonged drought, the worst area is the Western Downs which supports two-thirds of Queensland's vast sheep flocks and a quarter of its beef cattle.

The water supply position throughout both states is still poor, and in Sydney severe water restrictions have been imposed on the public.

How a dour Scot rebelled against tradition and started to make gin instead of you-know-what.

In 1769, a dour old Scot named Alexander Gordon packed up his money and came to London. Where he built himself a gin distillery, of all things.

His clan was outraged. And vowed never to allow Gordon to set foot in the highlands again.

And the English laughed at him. Until they tasted his gin. Whereupon, they smiled with pleasure.

And then, not only did the English adopt Gordon as one of their own, but swore he was the greatest English gin maker of all time.

Today, Gordon's is the best-selling gin in the world. Because Gordon's descendants are as canny as he was:

Nobody but Gordon's makes Gordon's Gin, no matter where it's made—and it's made in 9 different countries, including Canada.

The exact and original formula is never varied for any reason whatsoever. Ever.

And nobody but Gordon's can approve the finished gin for bottling.

Once bottled, it needs one more approval. Yours.

Distilled in Canada By Tanqueray Gordon & Co. (Canada) Ltd.

TV TALK

By JIM TAYLOR

Behind every television show stands an army of publicity men, churning out information of the most minute detail about the shows and the people involved.

These guys have a theory that unless they give you everything they might miss something. So they go to extremes like these:

"Ray Walston, star of TV's My Favorite Martian, slimmed from 170 pounds down to his normal 150 this summer." Wonderful. How did he get fat in the first place?

"Tom and Dick Smothers usually commute from their Beverly Hills home to the television studios by motorcycle." Fire that PR man. He forgot to say who drives.

"The cast of Beverly Hillbillies has been ordered to stay out of the sun, no more tans or sunburns. The reason: the series is switching to color, and if the actors' skin colors changed from day to day there would have to be new film tests and lighting adjustments."

Oh well, they can always rest in the shade of their money.

"On this model you simply push this button to eject the old picture tube."

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

"Was it my fault the finesse was wrong?" Quite often the answer to this seemingly rhetorical question is a firmly unrhetorical "You bet!" Can you honestly say you wouldn't have taken an unnecessary finesse on this hand?

Desirable though it is to get first strikes on hands like this, not many would try the one spade opening on South's hand. Playing standard American at unfavorable vulnerability, the risk is too great. The reason the actual South player decided to open—and why North didn't get excited and carry him overboard—was that the pair were playing the Schenken system, in which light bids are safe because strong hands (minimum 17 points, including distribution) are opened with the Big Club. Thus, North had no problem since he knew South couldn't have as many as 17 points; he therefore raised quietly to four spades—the correct spot.

Ten tricks would have been duck soup on a normal lie of the cards, but a mean trump distribution gave declarer a slight headache. After West has led the three top hearts and you have ruffed the third round, how do you operate when East shows out on the first round of trumps?

For fancy-free finessers the answer's easy: pull a second trump, hook the club jack—and concede defeat when East produces the queen. South was made of sterner stuff. To learn more about the hand before taking a position, he took three rounds of diamonds, ruffing in dummy, and when West followed suit to all three rounds, declarer tabled his cards. West was marked with three spades, five hearts and at least three diamonds, so he couldn't possibly hold the guarded club queen; therefore declarer cashed the club ace and king and put West on lead with the spade queen, knowing that the enforced heart return would give a ruff-and-cluff and that the club loser would evaporate.

Toronto Thought Likely For John D's Kick-Off

OTTAWA (UPI) — Conservative headquarters will announce Wednesday or Thursday where and when Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker will officially launch the party's Nov. 8 election campaign.

Behind-the-scenes organizers are now torn between Ontario and the west as the kickoff points with Ontario and Toronto the most likely.

Toronto is being favored because it is the province where the Conservatives need gains and also because assurances have been received from Premier John Robarts that he and his provincial election machinery will be behind the federal Conservatives, sources said here Monday.

The weekend organization meeting of the Conservatives was jubilant when it learned of Robart's support, sources said.

KEY ROLE

The closed weekend meeting discussed the itinerary of Diefenbaker, Conservative campaign policy, and organizational structure.

Senator Allister Grosart, 50-year-old former national director of the party, will play a key role once again in the election organization. Grosart was given much of the credit for the Conservative wins of the 1957-58 campaigns.

ON HUSTINGS

Richard Thrasher, present party national director, will leave late this week to run in Essex South, a riding he represented from 1957-62.

The party is also losing national president Dalton Camp and Diefenbaker executive assistant B. T. Richardson to the hustings. Both have already begun campaigns in Toronto ridings.

Remaining party organizers now are trying to determine who will replace these men during the campaign.

Swastikas Go on Sale

LONDON (Reuters) — Controversial Battle of Britain 25th anniversary stamps bearing the design of the Nazi Swastika went on sale Monday.

Flying Elk Aid Research

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—Eight elk calves flown to the University of Guelph this week from Alberta are believed to be the first used by a Canadian university for experimental purposes.

They will be used in the study of a growing disease of deer, moose and elk caused by a roundworm or nematode which affects the central nervous system.

Residence Qualification at UVIC

Some Students May Vote

By GUY STANLEY

Only out-of-town students attending University of Victoria for the first time may be affected by the technicality in the Canada elections act barring students from voting in the coming federal election.

Ray Bryant, electoral returning officer for Victoria, said that it was "up to the student" if he wanted to claim Victoria as his place of residence on the basis of having lived here while attending University of Victoria last year.

LOCAL DECISION

"No instructions regarding the enumeration of students have been issued by the Victoria returning office," Mr. Bryant said.

"It's not up to us, It's up to the enumerators to decide whether a student is a resident."

The Canada Elections Act requires university students studying away from their home constituencies to be registered at the away-from-home institution by the date of issue of the election writs before they can claim the university town as their ordinary residence and thus be enumerated there.

Election writs came down Wednesday, before registration had begun at Victoria. The students who cannot return home may be disfranchised.

OTHER SECTION

But by claiming normal residence in Victoria, the students would come under another section of the act.

For other than students, the act requires a person to be "ordinarily resident for 12 months preceding the issuance of writs" to be eligible for enumeration, according to Mr. Bryant.

"But there are a great many exceptions.

"We have issued special instructions to enumerators covering every one of these exceptions except students.

"However, I would say that students who claimed ordinary residence in another town would be out of luck in getting on the lists here," said Mr. Bryant.

University of Victoria student council president Paul Williamson, himself an out-of-towner who feels he may be affected by the act, commented, "I'm going to advise students to have their names put on the list."

INTERPRETATION

"As far as I'm concerned, if students are at university they will be here for half a year and can be considered as residents. But that's just a personal interpretation."

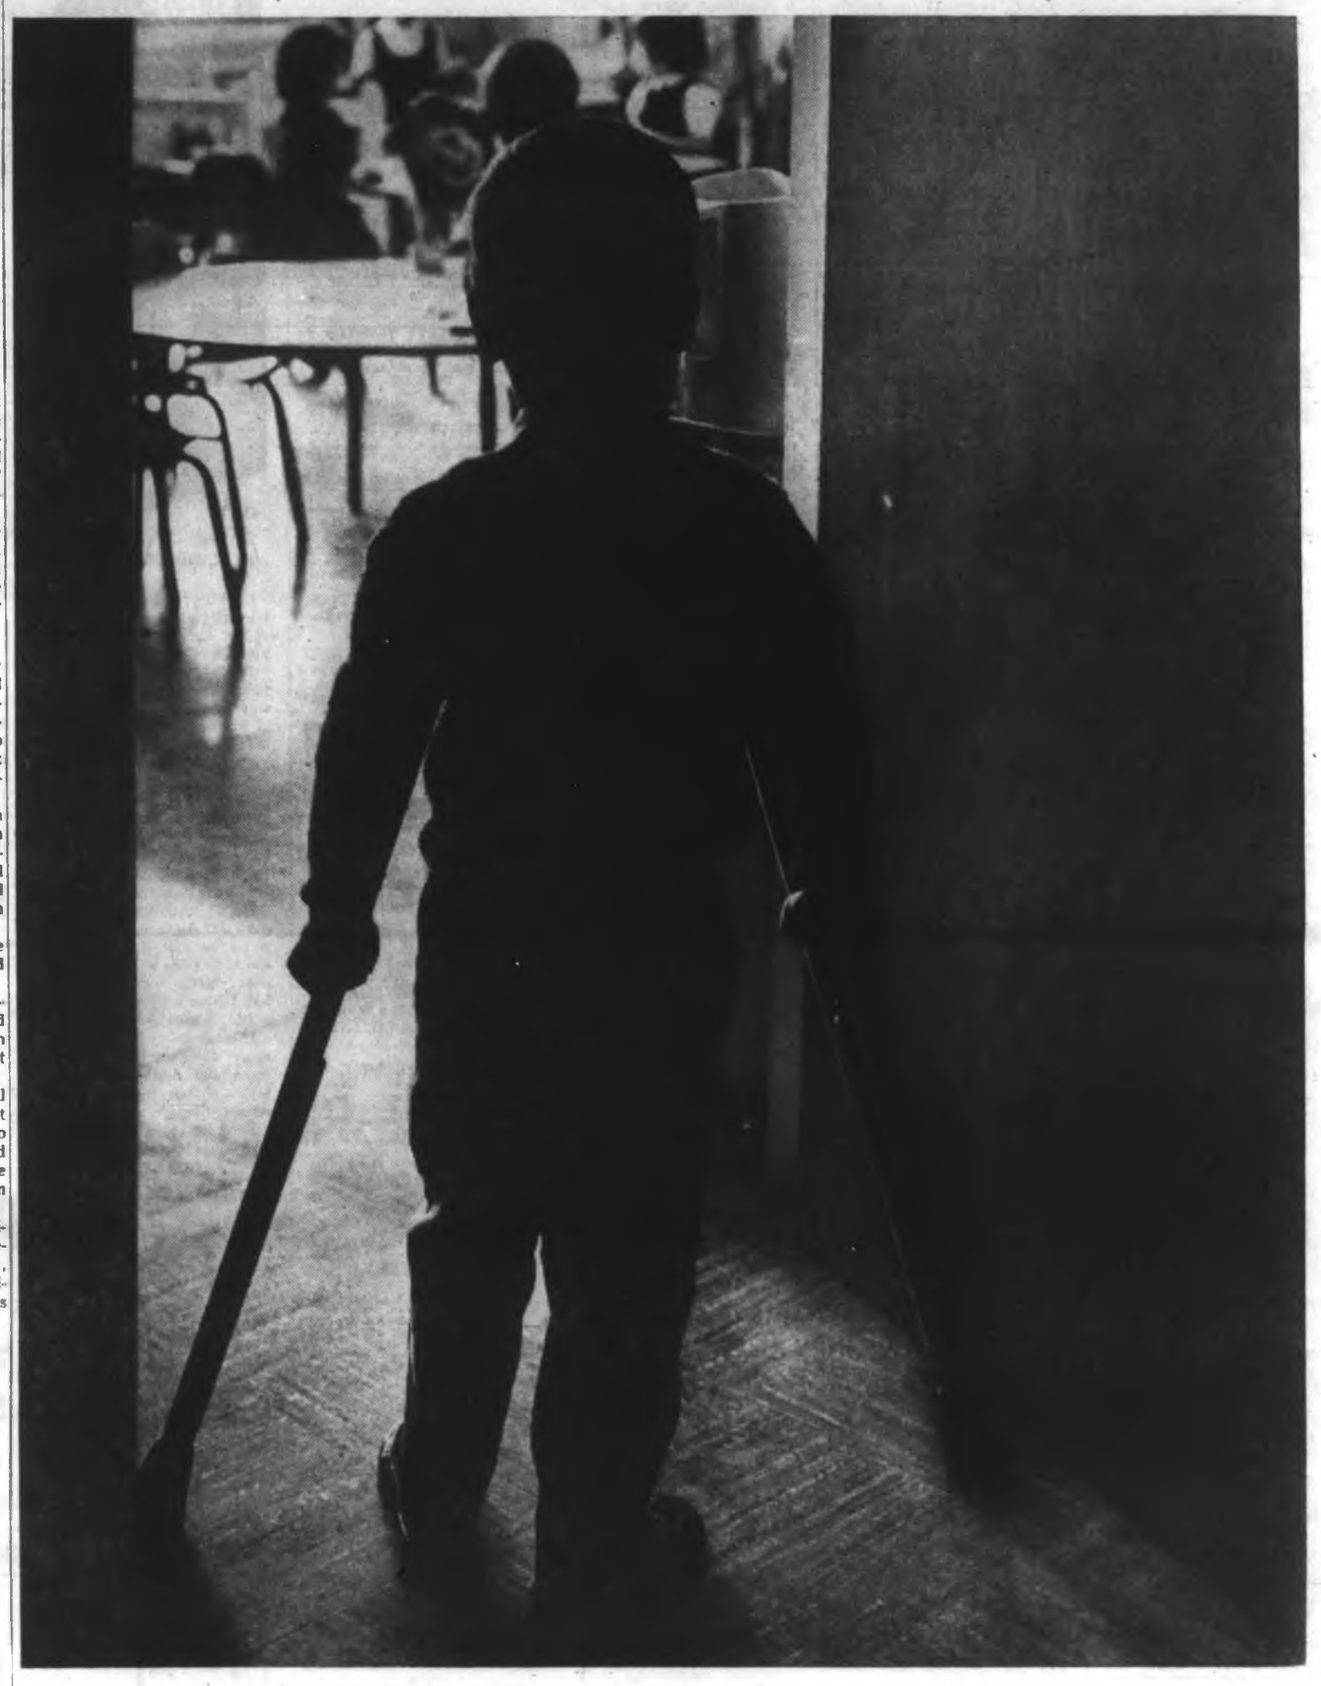

"Copies of the voters' list will be drawn up and mailed to every voter after enumeration is completed," said Mr. Bryant.

"Any dissatisfactions come up before the revisions officer."

"Should an eligible student find his name not on the list or an ineligible one be included, it can be changed at revisions," he said.

Enumeration will take place from Sept. 20 to 25. The revisions officer will hear complaints from Oct. 21 to 23.

Nelson Castonguay, the chief electoral officer, said Monday he will not comment on a statement by Peter Braun, vice-president of the UBC students, who said students who have placed a deposit with the university during the summer months to reserve accommodation may meet the residence requirements of the Canada Elections Act.

Forest Test

Birdlife Survives Chemical Spraying

FREDERICTON (CP)—Preliminary indications are that this year's aerial spraying of New Brunswick forests with the chemical phosphamidon has had no ill effects on birdlife.

The chemical was introduced in 1963 along salmon streams after DDT was found to have caused a high mortality rate among young salmon.

It proved effective against the spruce budworm and didn't harm the fish but did kill birds in 1963 and again last year.

LOW CONCENTRATION

This year phosphamidon was sprayed in lower concentrations and, in conjunction with a penetrating agent, Invadine JFC, produced faster absorption by foliage so that the birds were exposed to the chemical for a shorter time.

"At low dosages the budworm spray will not harm the birds," says Dr. C. D. Fowlie, head of the biology department at Toronto's York University who led a research team studying the effects of the chemical.

He found that direct spraying of the birds with phosphamidon did them no harm but that even a small amount on their perches made them accumulate enough to cause sickness.

DDT, which has little or no effect on birds, continues to be used in deep forest areas away from streams.

Foresters estimate that more than 6,000,000 acres of budworm-infested spruce and fir in northern and central New Brunswick have been saved for commercial purposes by annual spraying since 1952.

Ship Aground

PERTH, Australia (Reuters) — The 2,848-ton Greek ship Tanais ran aground early Monday on a reef five miles off the West Australian coast, 45 miles north of here. Sixteen members of the crew were taken off the vessel.

Japanese Fair Gains Approval

PARIS (Reuters) — The Bureau of International Exhibitions Monday authorized Japan to hold a world fair in Osaka in 1970. A spokesman for the bureau said the decision was taken as no other country had asked to stage a world fair in 1970. The next world fair will be in Montreal in 1967.

Telescope Job Awarded

OTTAWA (CP) — The first contract for work on the Queen Elizabeth Observatory in British Columbia has been awarded to Corning Glass Works of Corning, N.Y., the mines department announced Monday.

The contract, said to be slightly in excess of $1,000,000, is for the fused quartz reflector, heart of the 150-inch telescope that is expected to be ready for 1972.

ROAD SURVEY

The $9,671,000 observatory project was announced last fall during the Queen's visit but actual work to date has been restricted to surveying a road to the top of the 6,500-foot peak overlooking the Okanagan Valley.

Scientists at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain are already engaged in planning and design of the giant mirror, and two opticians have been taken on staff.

Polishing the mirror will take three opticians between four and five years.

A spokesman at the observatory said as yet no site had been chosen for a building which will house the reflector while it is being polished.

The optical polishing shop will have to have a special 85-foot tower to enable opticians to make tests. The spokesman said a decision on the site of the optical shop will be made "in the next few months."

The observatory's chief optician, Roy Dancey, has just returned from Tucson, Ariz., where a polishing operation similar to the Canadian operation is being carried out.

What's the use of advertising?

well, it's helping Jackie to walk again

Jackie will walk again because of the generosity of many people he's never met—people who have never met him. Yet these people knew of and answered the need for funds to teach Jackie and children like him to walk again. They knew because of advertising.

Advertising has so many faces, so many uses. There's the commercial face of advertising, that sells products, thus promoting economic growth, producing jobs, and raising the standard of living.

Then there's the humanitarian face of advertising. This advertising raises funds for medical aid and research. Teaches traffic safety. Finds homes for orphaned children. Fills blood banks. Does hundreds of widely diversified jobs that benefit all of society. This advertising can put a smile back in a child's eyes . . . can save a life . . . can comfort a lonely man.

Social service agencies, religious organizations, medical centres, all know of what great use advertising is. Because without advertising, these institutions would find it very difficult to function. To carry out their work, to benefit all of us, they need public support. And they get that support through advertising.

Think about it next time you pick up your daily newspaper. Think about the many faces of advertising. And if you ever wonder what the use of advertising is, think of Jackie. Advertising is helping him to walk again.

Garden Notes

Climbers, Ramblers

By M. V. CHESNUT

It doesn't seem to be generally realized — at least among novice gardeners—that climbing roses and ramblers are two entirely different critters, with different habits of growth, requiring entirely different techniques in pruning.

Climbers bear blooms as large as those of the hybrid teas, borne singly or in small clusters, and are pruned lightly, usually in early spring, being trained to form a permanent network of shoots to cover the supporting trellis or wall. Ramblers bear small flowers in dense clusters and have a habit of growth similar to raspberries, making long, whippy canes originating from low down near the base, and again like raspberries, these canes bear only one crop of blossoms, and are then cut away, usually in early fall, to make room for the new young canes which grew up this summer and which will bear flowers next year.

* * *

Pruning away the old flowered-out canes of ramblers as soon as flowering has finished permits the sun and air to get at the new young canes. This hardens and ripens their wood, rendering them frost-resistant, and initiates the flowers which are to decorate the walls and trelliswork next summer. The pruning is a simple business—you cut away the old canes and tie in the new ones.

There are occasions when it isn't practicable to tie in the new canes right away. Perhaps the old canes are still blooming their heads off and we are reluctant to cut short the display. Or it could be that the trellis is due for a coat of paint this fall.

* * *

In such cases, the new young canes should be separated from the old and tied loosely together so they won't become bruised or damaged through whipping around in the wind. One good idea is to drive in a stout, tallish stake out in front of the trellis and lash the bundle of new canes to it until such time as they can be spaced out and fastened into place on the trellis.

It is important to make sure none of the canes are allowed to trail their tips on the ground. Like logans and blackberries, these rambler rose tips will root themselves, which tends to make the growth soft and susceptible to winter injury. While such tip-rooting is an excellent way to propagate all the cane fruits, a rambler rose grown from a rooted tip is seldom much good.

If you want more rambler roses, the way to get them is to take cuttings. The best slips are about 12 inches long, taken from the base of a flowering shoot. Detach the cutting at its base, taking a "heel" of old wood from the parent cane with it. Trim the ragged edges of this heel and cut off and discard the soft growing tip of the selected shoot.

These will usually root themselves in the open air without any assistance, although even with these easy slips I prefer to moisten the heel and dip it in Rootone or Seradix rooting powder. The ideal rooting medium for rambler roses is a shaded bed of sandy loam soil with a little peat moss dug in.

* * *

After inserting the cuttings to a depth of about four inches, firm well by treading with the feet around each one, then give them a thorough watering, finishing up by sprinkling a one-inch layer of dry sand or soil over the surface of the bed.

It is amazing how this "mulch" of loose, dry soil or sand conserves moisture below and encourages rapid rooting. I used this method on two dozen slips of pinks in such a cutting bed a few weeks ago, and all of them have rooted and are growing strongly.

JACK SMITH Paints Himself Out of Room

Bright Idea Misfires

A can of paint can change a man's life. People are always painting themselves into a corner. I have painted myself out of a room.

We decided to paint the bedroom an oyster white to reflect more light. Since our younger son took over the den as his own room some years ago, I've been using one end of the bedroom as a den.

It was always a compromise at best; a struggle to maintain an illusion of male inner sanctum against a creeping tide of femininity from the other end of the room. When she came up with the lavender bedspread, I almost left—but there was no place to go.

* * *

The walls, though, were a kind of light cork color, which gave the whole room a masculine cast. But it was always dark. The walls absorbed all the light.

"I'm going blind," I told her at last. "We've got to paint."

Oyster white was the result.

"It's going to look like an operating room," I said, "but at least I'll be able to read.

We ran out of paint while there was still an unpainted patch on the ceiling the size of a car blanket. It was Sunday. Our local hardware store was closed. But I couldn't stand that unpainted patch. We drove to a store that was open on Sunday.

* * *

We got the paint and were about to leave when she saw the light fixture.

"Just a minute," she said.

Any man who waits when his wife says, "just a minute," as they are about to leave a store is out of his mind.

The light was the size and shape of a volley ball — an opaque white, suspended on an ivory gold chain. A fine gold chain was draped over the top of the light ball, and an ivory gold spike, like the spike on a First World War German helmet, stuck down from the bottom.

* * *

"Isn't it charming?" she asked.

"It looks to me," I said "like something salvaged from a road show of The Great Waltz."

"It would give the room a whole new character," she said.

"Yes," I agreed.

While the salesman and I were taking the fixture down from the display rack, she came up with what appeared to be a miniature handlebar covered with ornate maple leaves in ivory gold.

"What d'you think of these?" she asked.

"What are they?"

"Drawer pulls," she said. "We can put them on the chest in that bedroom. To match the new light. I can antique it."

"You can what it?"

"Antique it. I'll antique the chest an ivory gold."

"Antique. Is that a verb?"

"You buy one of those kits. Five dollars or something."

What a world we live in. For $5 you can buy a kit to make a verb out of antique.

* * *

The painting is done. The new light is up. It has a sort of comic elegance. She is antiquing the chest. I am expected to install the new pulls. The plan now is for a purple rug.

"I mean really purple," she said. 'With a lot of blue in it."

I have moved my desk into the living room, where it awaits further disposition.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Marlene Dietrich 63

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Marlene Dietrich, who was credited by a London newspaper with being 63 years old, and we should all look like her at 63, was asked why she works so hard—she has spent all summer on a gruelling concert tour. "I do it for the money," she replied. Now why can't all actresses be as honest?

* * *

The Russian are spending the equivalent of $5,000,000 on their own version of War and Peace, which Paramount made almost 10 years ago with Audrey Hepburn as Natasha and Mel Ferrer as Prince Andre. The Russians have the advantage of making the Tolstoy story where it actually was set. Director King Vidor had to make do with sets near Rome. The first two parts, shown at the recent Moscow film festival, took two years. There will be another year for the third. I did not care too much for the Paramount version. I look forward to seeing what the Russians will do with the great classic.

* * *

Aldo Ray is making a mountain of money in real estate. The gravel-voiced actor took his $350,000 profit from a deal at Cucamonga (it really does exist) and plowed it right back into Lake Arrowhead property. Aldo is currently starring in What Did You Do in the War Daddy? Sold real estate, of course.

* * *

Golden-voiced Ronald Reagan will run for Republican governor of California in 1966.

Deborah Kerr joins Natalie Wood and Robert Redford in This Property is Condemned . . . And Janet Margolin who was so good under Frank Perry's direction of David and Lisa, is the best thing in Marlon Brando's Moritori.

James B. Harris, the producer and director of The Bedford Incident (stars Sidney Poitier and Richard Widmark), doesn't know whether to be prouder of this fine film or of the newest collaboration of his parents, Joseph and Sylvia Harris, who are responsible for the upcoming Broadway musical play, Sweet Charity, which stars Gwen Verdon.

Warren Beatty's Mickey One movie was in trouble with the civic-minded people of Chicago who wish to lose the gangster image with which it is still associated outside of the United States. There was more trouble because a Polish landlady in the film was depicted in a bad light. Some changes were made to satisfy everyone and to give a better image of everyone at the Venice film festival.

* * *

Talking of festivals, they are still talking about Joan Crawford's appearance at the Taormina film festival in Italy. At the end of the showing of her film, I Saw What You Did, the fireworks display culminated in a huge barge with the burning message, "Welcome Joan Crawford" with the tag line of the soft-drink company for which she never goes anywhere without promoting. She was provided with 10 bodyguards. Why, even Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton didn't get that.

Glynis Johns and writer husband Elliot Arnold bought their first house, a Beverly Hills mansion. Glynis is sitting happily on the residuals of her TV show.

ART BUCHWALD, Lobby Correspondent

Ladybird Arm-Twister

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. — There has been a lot of talk about President Lyndon Johnson's arm twisting when it comes to Congress, but very little has been said about Mrs. Johnson's persuasive powers with that same body.

Mrs. Johnson is very interested in legislation that has to do with beautifying America and she came all the way to Jackson Hole to dramatize the cause.

The bill she is seeking is now being considered by Congress and a spokesman for Mrs. Johnson said that the First Lady called several Congressmen to "thank" them for their help.

* * *

I haven't been privy to any of these conversations, but I would guess they may have gone something like this...

"Hello, Congressman Jones, this is Lady Bird Johnson calling."

"Oh, how do you do, Mrs. Johnson."

"Ah just called to thank you for everything you've done to help get H.R. 8701 through Congress."

"Yes, yes, well, uh" (aside to his secretary): "Find out what the heck H.R. 8701 is all about") "I'm certainly glad to oblige, Mrs. Johnson."

* * *

"Ah told Lyndon, just this morning at breakfast, that Congressman Jones could be counted on our side, not only to get it out of committee, but to a vote."

"What did the president say, Mrs. Johnson?"

"He said, 'Congressman Jones has never let us down before, so there is no reason on this good green earth why he'd let us down now.'"

(Congressman to secretary, "Did you ever find out what the bill is?") "All of us up here on the Hill are for you, Mrs. Johnson. I was just telling Betty this morning at breakfast how interested we were in your legislation."

"Ah spoke to Betty at lunch. She told me she was sure that you would be able to work something out that would be satisfactory to all the women of America."

"Betty said that?"

"Yes, she said that she was surprised you hadn't done anything about the bill before now and she planned to discuss it with you tonight."

"Well, you know, Mrs. Johnson, it's fortunate you called at this moment because I was just going over the bill with my staff." (Aside to secretary, "Look in the other files. The bill's got to be somewhere.")

* * *

"Lyndon said you would probably get to it today or tomorrow and he suggested Ah wait until you get it out of committee before Ah thanked you, but Ah told him, 'Ah knew you were going to do the right thing and Ah wanted to thank you in advance.'"

"That's awfully nice of you, Mrs. Johnson."

"Lyndon said you've got that dam you want so badly on your mind that you might have forgotten about mah little old bill, but Ah said Ah was sure Congressman Jones would put mah bill before his dam."

"The president's right, Mrs. Johnson. Without your bill, my dam would have no meaning at all."

* * *

"Well, thanks so much, Congressman Jones. You and Betty must come over sometime and have a meal with us."

Tourist Dots Yellow

Spotless—So Complain

Anyone who thinks Saanich is skimping on the yellow highway spots used to guide tourists to attractions within the municipality, should complain to the public works committee, says Reeve Hugh Curtis.

Mr. Curtis was commenting on criticism by tourist facility operators who said the spots are harder to follow in Saanich because they are 60 feet apart, compared with 20 feet in other Greater Victoria municipalities.

The reeve also said claims of official indifference to tourism are, "... not as valid now as they were. I think we have been making progress in our awareness of the value of the tourist dollar.

"Of course, Saanich is quite different from the city, in that we do not have large hotels or some of the other major centres of tourist interest as yet," he added.

1,600 Take Shots For Typhoid

COALDALE, Alta. (CP)—Health officials said a typhoid outbreak was nipped in the bud during the weekend with the immunizing of about 1,600 persons.

The risk of contracting the disease in the area is about one in a thousand, said a public health official.

About 400 persons were turned away from immunization clinics because doctors felt they did not require typhoid shots.

The flash immunization program was set up after a 16-year-old boy and an eight-year-old girl were found to have typhoid Friday. They were progressing well Monday.

Authorities suspect untreated irrigation water at a beet farm as the source of the disease. They are looking for all the beet workers employed on the farm during August.

Coaldale is 10 miles north of Lethbridge.

Sharp Eyesight Saved Adenauer From U.S. Shell

BONN (AP) — Konrad Adenauer once narrowly escaped being hit by an American artillery shell because—he says—he saw it coming.

The incident near the end of the Second World War is told by the former West German chancellor, 89, in the first instalment of his long-awaited memoirs, published Monday by 14 West German newspapers.

★ ★ ★

The first 4,000-word chapter printed today covers the time from Adenauer's imprisonment by the Nazi Gestapo in 1944 to his reappointment as Cologne mayor under the Allied military government.

His narrow escape from American artillery fire came after the Nazis had released him. He relates that his Rhoendorf house — overlooking the Rhine—was caught between the German and American fronts.

★ ★ ★

"Twelve American shells fell into my garden, including three which hit the front of my house and caused substantial damage while the rear of the house came under German artillery fire."

He was in his garden watching American troop movements on the opposite side of the Rhine River on a Sunday morning, he wrote.

★ ★ ★

"Suddenly, I saw at a distance of 300 metres (a little over 300 yards) a shell flying toward me. I threw myself to the ground immediately. . . . The shell that I had seen exploded at a point 12 metres (40 feet) from me. Like all American shells it had a great detonating power and its fragments swept above me."

Steeplejack Stuck Up

COENNE, Denmark (UPI) — A steeplejack climbed to the top of an 80-foot chimney Sunday—and was rescued by a helicopter four hours later because he dared not climb down again.

The steeplejack's job was to prepare the demolition of the chimney, an old structure on the Danish island of Bornholm. But when he got to the top, he saw the chimney crack under him and felt it sway ominously.

Afraid the structure might collapse if he climbed down, the constructor called for help. The longest ladder on the island was only 50 feet, so an air force helicopter came, and took him down.

B.C. Tel communication systems help guard our continent against surprise attacks

To detect the approach of and defend against missiles, rockets or planes entering the territorial atmosphere of North America is the role of NORAD—North American Air Defence Command—with its Combat Operations Centre at Colorado Springs.

Jointly controlled by the United States and Canada for defence against surprise nuclear attack, this complex nerve centre demonstrates vividly how B.C. Tel and a continent-wide network of telecommunications systems is meeting the challenge of today's "Cold War" conditions.

B.C. Tel's variety of the very latest developments in the communications systems are playing a key role in perhaps the most important of all public services—defence of North America against destruction. These electronic marvels provide the connecting links for data transmission devices between radar sites and strategically located computer centres.

Such dramatic advances for military purposes are even now expanding our everyday communications. Long distance calling, radio-telephone coverage, TWX and other special data services are but a few.

Mining Experts See Faults In Own Industry

The Canadian mining industry was given a verbal knuckle-rapping by a B.C. educator Monday night.

E. C. Roper, principal of the B.C. Institute of Technology in Burnaby, said many industries have grasped the opportunity to enhance their training facilities through the technical-vocational act of 1960.

★ ★ ★

"But not the mining industry. Yet the urgent need is obvious," he told a panel discussion at the 22nd annual conference of provincial mines ministers, at the Empress Hotel.

He said frantic plans are being constructed to import foreigners to fill the need for skilled workers.

"This despite the fact that some 200,000 young Canadians must find employment every year for the next 10 years if the goals of the Canadian Economic Council are to be met," he said.

"At present less than 10 per cent of the operating mining properties in Canada are accredited to qualify as apprenticeship training operations," he said.

Earlier, Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company president William S. Kirkpatrick told delegates the Canadian mining industry must adapt itself to the needs and wishes of other countries if it is to maintain its prosperity.

Canada cannot withhold export of raw materials to developing nations which are creating their own secondary industries, he said.

"I agree that we should endeavor to export our mineral resources at the highest possible stage of manufacture, but other countries are just as anxious to employ their people as we," said Mr. Kirkpatrick.

★ ★ ★

He reported that Cominco is sharing in building a zinc smelter in India, is supplying concentrates for a joint lead smelter in Japan, and is participating in exploration in several other countries.

Prof. P. M. Dranchuk of the University of Alberta said in an interview that drudgery is driving bright young men away from careers in mining.

★ ★ ★

Canada needs to produce more technicians to do the routine chores and let engineers get on with creative work, in the opinion of the professor.

157 Wives, but Not Mom

Old Ali Loved 'em All

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ali Zuhurian, 67, has had 157 wives in 51 years.

And Monday he paid a tribute to spouses that will anger their moms: "A wife can double her husband's life—provided there is no mother-in-law."

The evening newspaper Etelaat says that sprightly Ali has had a mere 20 official wives—but 137 contract wives.

Under Muslem tradition a man can have four official wives at one time and an unlimited number under contract.

Ali listed his conquests:

Fifty wives came from Khorrassan (near the Russian border), 30 from Azarbaijan (on the border), 29 from Rasht (Caspian Sea), 25 from Dameghan, 20 from Baluchistan and Tehran and three Arabs.

His verdict: "Khorrassan wives are jealous and intolerant—but spouses from Rasht are kind and devoted."

NDP Leader Predicts Two Parties

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—T. C. Douglas, leader of the New Democratic Party, said Monday night that Canada will eventually see a return of the two-party system of government.

He made the prediction following a non-political speech to

Oil Workers

Strike Launched

VANCOUVER (CP)—Oil workers in British Columbia employed by British-American Oil Company marketing divisions Monday night rejected a settlement offer and prepared to strike today.

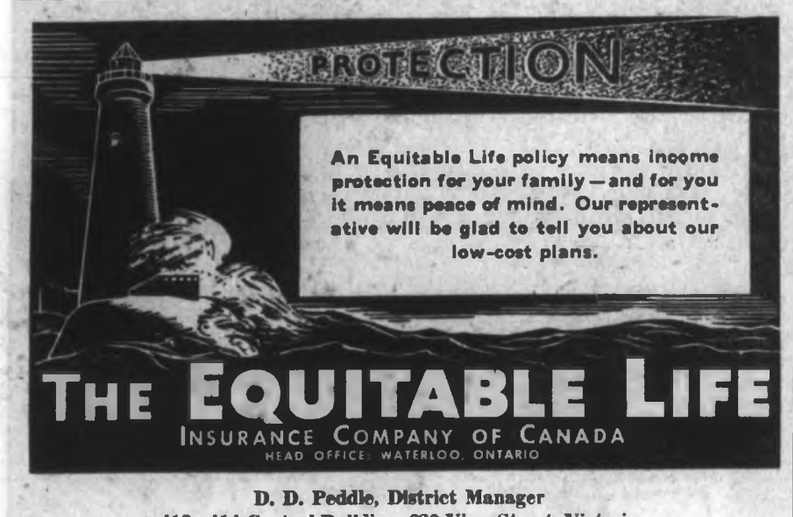

The walkout would be part of a nation-wide strike against BA by the Oil Workers International Union.

The strike would involve truck drivers and warehouse workers at oil and gasoline storage depots in the Vancouver area and in Prince Rupert, Kitimat, Terrace, Smithers, Prince George, Quesnel, Vernon, Kelowna, Hope, Agassiz, Nanaimo and Victoria.

An additional 80 workers at the BA refinery at interior Kamloops were set to strike Wednesday, said a union spokesman.

BA's large refinery in this area would not be affected because its workers are not represented by the union.

Workers rejected a company offer of 35 cents an hour more over 30 months.

Competition Short-Lived

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Alberto Bauchman has run a pastry shop—The Little White Shop—for 30 years.

Several months ago Bauchman noticed a similar shop opened seven blocks away. Always with an eye on competition, Bauchman sampled the new shop's pastry and found it very good. In fact, just as good as his own.

Then Bauchman recognized the head man at the new shop as one of his workers, Roberto Flores Rengigo. Bauchman returned to his shop, took stock and called police.

Last week Flores was convicted and sent to jail for opening a pastry shop with tarts, creams and pies stolen from The Little White Shop.

Modify Living Things, Control Evolution

Creation of Life New Goal?

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) A scientific leader has proposed that the artificial creation of life itself be set as "a national goal."

* * *

A rush of knowledge is putting within sight the ability to modify living things and to control evolution, and ultimately to create new or existing forms of life, perhaps new "human" life, said Dr. Charles C. Price, president of the American Chemical Society.

* * *

"The job can be done—it is merely a matter of time and money," and great effort, he told a general session of the society's national meeting, amplifying his views in an interview.

He said a first result—coming about in perhaps 10 to 20 years — could be ability to achieve "more efficient production of plants and animals, or even species doing things never done before." Or to improve human characteristics.

"I can't imagine that the ability to synthesize (create) new life will not happen within a century or so," he added.

* * *

Dr. Price suggested the search for such knowledge be organized as a national goal, not unlike the U.S. space program.

The other choice is to let such knowledge and vast powers "come about haphazardly," he said.

But setting it as a national goal—or even possibly as an international goal—"would allow time and opportunity to consider the critical questions of who then might control" life and evolution and for what purposes.

Dr. Price said he outlined his ideas by letters in June to scientific leaders in some government agencies — the Atomic Energy Commission, National Institutes of Health, and National Aeronautics and Space Administration — "who are doing some component work in the bio-sciences" or life sciences.

* * *

"They were much interested. In general, the reaction was that the idea should first be considered carefully by the scientific community before being brought to the government."

* * *

"Success could lead to modified plants and algae for the synthesis of foods, fibers and antibiotics, to improved growth properties of plants and animals, or even to improved characteristics for man himself."

Federal Project

Colwood Sea Lab To Go Up

By BILL STAVDAL

A $2,250,000 oceanographic institute will likely be started in Esquimalt harbor within a year, federal mines and technical surveys minister J. Watson MacNaught announced Monday.

Tenders for a $3,500,000 hydrographic vessel to be based at the institute have already been called, said the minister in Victoria, and another hydrographic-oceanographic ship will be built later.

SITE TOURED

Mr. MacNaught, appointed to his position only two months ago, made the announcement after touring the future site in Colwood, on the west side of Esquimalt Harbor. He was accompanied by David Groos, Victoria's Liberal MP.

The institute will have a staff of 180 to 200 people, said William E. van Steenburgh, deputy minister of mines and technical surveys. An oceanographic group with a staff of 20 now located at Departure Bay in Nanaimo will be moved south and incorporated in the new station.

START IN YEAR

"Within a year, if we get the money, we can start building, said Mr. van Steenburgh.

He estimated that the institute will open in 2½ to three years.

The deputy minister said it will operate in conjunction with the Pacific Naval laboratory, which now conducts research into marine sound transmission for the navy.

COAST GUARD

The institute will also incorporate a hydrographic station now located in the Inner Harbor of Victoria.

A coast guard station will be based at the institute.

"We expect the contracts for a tide-and-current vessel for the West Coast will be let very soon," said Mr. van Steenburgh. It will be about 270 feet long, he added.

The $3,500,000 hydrographic

Juvenile Ruling Upheld

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Appeal Court ruled Monday that juveniles charged with breaking provincial traffic laws must be tried in juvenile court.

The ruling upholds a Supreme Court decision that quashed a lower-court speeding conviction against a Prince George youth.

The Supreme Court had ruled that the youth, who was 17 at the time, should have been tried in juvenile court under the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act.

Indian Troops Beaten Back By Pakistanis

RAWALPINDI (Reuters) — Indian troops backed by planes, tanks and artillery made several efforts Monday to advance on the hard-fought Sialkot battlefront but Pakistani forces beat them back, a Pakistani government communique claimed.

The communique said the Indians suffered heavy casualties in the sector which they invaded from beyond the Kashmir border last week.

BIGGEST OF WAR

The battle around the town of Sialkot—just south of the 1949 United Nations ceasefire line in the disputed border state of Kashmir—is regarded here as the biggest action of the war. But Pakistani authorities declined to give any fighting details beyond the communique.

"We can say no more than that it is a heavy engagement," an official spokesman said.

MAJOR FORCE

The Pakistanis faced what they estimated to be 50,000 Indian troops, including a full armored division, in the battle.

Experts here have said the outcome of the war could hinge on the Sialkot action because of the heavy loss of tanks and armored equipment to both sides.

Meanwhile, it was announced that Iranian Premier Abbas Hoveida and Turkish Foreign Minister Hassan Isik will fly to Rawalpindi together today to confer with President Mohammed Ayub Khan on military aid.

OFFERS SUPPORT

All three countries are linked in the western-sponsored central treaty organization, and Iran and Turkey have offered support and aid to Pakistan.

Premier Suat Hayri of Turkey announced Saturday that his country would send $5,000,000 worth of Turkish-made arms and ammunition to Pakistan under their existing trade agreement.

U Thant

UN Mission To Kashmir Needs Help

NEW DELHI (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant's mission to end the fighting between India and Pakistan appeared stymied Monday night and there were signs he would seek help from world powers.

Reports of victories in the field hardened India's stand on its terms for a ceasefire.

Pakistan made similar claims of victory on the western front around Lahore and Sialkot in Pakistan. It showed no willingness to compromise.

SEES RUSSIAN

After meeting here Monday with India's Foreign Minister Swaran Singh, Thant met privately with the Soviet charge d'affaires, Alexei A. Rodionov.

A UN spokesman said Thant and the Russian discussed the possibility of Thant's return to UN headquarters in New York by way of Moscow. While UN officials said this would be only a stop to change planes, there were reports Thant wanted to see Soviet Premier Kosygin.

NEW APPEAL

A short time after Thant met with the Soviet envoy, word reached New Delhi of a new Soviet appeal for an end to the fighting. A Soviet statement carried by the news agency Tass said the Soviet government is seriously alarmed by the hostilities and expressed fear that it might involve the entire world.

The Soviet statement appeared to be aimed at China, which supports Pakistan and once again has raised fears of a renewal of the 1962 border conflict between India and China.

'STAY OUT'

In Washington, U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk advised China to "stay out" of the India-Pakistan conflict.

"I think that there are those who feel that China is fishing in these troubled waters," Rusk told reporters.

"I think the Soviet attitude has been helpful so far," he added.

Indian officials privately acknowledged that if anything could force an end to the conflict it would be pressure by the Soviet Union and other powers, especially the United States and Britain.

BIG CONTRIBUTIONS

The United States has contributed more than $6,000,000,000 to India's economic development since 1951 and the Soviet Union has poured in more than $1,000,000,000. The U.S. feeds a great portion of India's population and

Long Reign

Norway Rejects Labor

OSLO (AP)—The long-established socialist government, architect of Norway's welfare state, conceded defeat early today in the two-day parliamentary elections.

Premier Einar Gerhardsen, whose Labor party has ruled for 30 years, except for three weeks in 1963, announced his government had fallen several hours after the polls closed.

SENSATION

"We will get quite another political constellation and a situation with the Labor party in opposition," Gerhardsen said in a broadcast.

Gerhardsen's defeat created a sensation in traditionally socialist-minded Scandinavia. Political observers predicted the assumption of power by a middle-of-the-road coalition of the four opposition parties, although the socialists remain Norway's largest single party.

UPSURGE

The socialists fell on an upsurge of right- and left-wing sentiment among Norway's 2,400,000 voters. Incomplete returns indicated they may have lost as many as four seats, more than enough to tumble them from power.

The biggest gains were racked up by the Conservative party, which held 29 seats in the old Parliament, although it was not certain whether it would be able to name the premier in a new coalition.

Other members of the anti-socialist coalition are the Liberals, who held 14 seats in the old Parliament, the Christian People's party, 15, and the Centre party (Agrarians), 16.

'Ready to Fight For 1,000 Years'

RAWALPINDI (Reuters) — Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto said Monday night Pakistan is prepared to fight for 1,000 years "to free' Kashmir.

He told correspondents the fighting with India would continue until Pakistan's three-point plan concerning the disputed state is accepted.

Pakistan's plans call for the complete withdrawal of both Indian and Pakistani troops from Kashmir and a plebiscite within three months to determine the area's future.

An Afro-Asian United Nations force would patrol Kashmir during the interim period.

"If India rejects the plan, the conflict will continue," Bhutto said.

NOT NEGOTIABLE

"Our three-point plan is not negotiable," he said. "We know we are a small nation but if need be we will continue to fight to free Kashmir for 1,000 years."

He added: "Our position is that there must be a freely-conducted plebiscite within Kashmir to allow the inhabitants to choose whether the area shall be part of Pakistan or of India."

Meanwhile, in New Delhi, India said Monday Pakistan's proposals for a settlement of the Kashmir dispute are a deliberate attempt to wreck United Nations Secretary-General U Thant's peace mission.

TERMS LISTED

Pakistan's peace terms, announced last Sunday and repeated Monday, call for a complete withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani forces from Kashmir, the stationing of an Afro-Asian security force in the area and a plebiscite in three months.

Half-Cent Refunded To Railway

An error of half a cent has been corrected by the provincial cabinet, and Canadian National Railways is happy again.

The railway recently bought 173,074 gallons of diesel fuel and paid a tax of one cent a gallon called for by a Colored Gasoline Tax Act.

Then a CNR accountant discovered that the railway should only have paid half a cent a gallon, under the Fuel Oil Tax Act.

It took an order-in-council to refund the CNR's $865.37.

Betsy Toll

Dead? No One Knows!

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Ships, planes and divers searched the murky Mississippi River for a missing cargo of poisonous chlorine gas upriver at Baton Rouge Monday as the New Orleans coroner's office laid out cots in a makeshift morgue to handle a mounting hurricane death toll.

Officials urged Baton Rouge's 160,000 inhabitants to stay calm but the Louisiana State capital was tense as the hunt was pursued for the barge, one of many believed swamped by hurricane Betsy last Friday.

Dr. Nicholas Chetta, the coroner here, said bodies of hurri-

Indians Protest Integration Phone Queen for Support

LEBRET, Sask. (CP) — Eight Grade 12 students began a "sit-in" Monday determined to remain in the Indian residential school here until they are assured they and future students will be able to take Grade 12 at the school.

* * *

They want to finish their high school education at an all-Indian school despite a ruling by the Indian affairs department that they attend integrated high schools.

The students sat in the lounge of the school here Monday night drinking coffee and munching sandwiches supplied by a resident. They said they would stay in the school until they were allowed to register.

Rev. Leonard Cherron, school principal, said he was ordered by the Indian affairs department not to register them.

"We don't object to being integrated but we don't want to be forced into it overnight," one student said.

The department is closing the school gradually, phasing-out a grade each year beginning with Grade 12. It is the only school in Saskatchewan with an entirely Indian population in Grades one to 11.

* * *

A committee of the protesting students has asked Mr. Pearson and Senator A. H. McDonald of Regina to intervene. A phone call has been placed to Queen Elizabeth on the matter, a spokesman said.

MP on Kashmir

Stop Fighting And We'll Help

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian delegate to the 54th inter-parliamentary conference appealed to India and Pakistan Monday to stop fighting each other and get on with the mutual battle against poverty, ignorance and disease.

"We of the affluent world stand ready to help our Indian and Pakistan friends to fight these enemies—but not to kill men and women," said New Democratic Party MP Colin Cameron.

Mr. Cameron, who has represented the British Columbia riding of Nanaimo-Cowichan-the Islands almost continuously since 1953, intervened in a conference debate on economic development with a strong plea to both donors and recipients to live up to the responsibilities of international development assistance efforts.

British MP Warns: — Not Enough Food

Share Wealth or Face Another World War

OTTAWA (UPI)—Delegates from 61 countries were told at the 54th inter-parliamentary conference Monday to "stop using the United Nations as a witch doctor's incantation."

* * *

Sir Cyril Osborne, British economist, exporter and Conservative Member of Parliament, in what he termed "a practical speech," blasted the delegates for leaning on the UN to solve problems, while insisting on retaining control of their destinies.

He named three points necessary to stave off a third world war: birth control, equitable distribution of the world's wealth, and admission of Red China to the UN.

* * *

"We must share our wealth or all go down in a bloody third world war," he said later in an interview. "The next world war will be over food."

Osborne thought his 10-minute address before the world gathering of politicians probably fell on deaf ears. "I've attended these conferences for 15 years; I've said the same thing for 15 years."

* * *

But he felt the western world "will take the action that is necessary" when starvation hits the "have-not" nations "on a massive scale."

Osborne's action evolves around a worldwide abandonment of national interests.

It means:

● A halt to the "terrifying" world population growth rate. He estimated a five-fold increase in food production will be needed to feed the projected world population of 7,000,000,000 at the end of the century. By the year 2035 "there won't be enough to eat."

● A correction of the "maldistribution" of the world's wealth, implemented by "staggering sacrifices" by the rich nations.

* * *

He noted the poor nations are the world's prime source of raw materials, and said the rich nations should be required to pay "three to four times more" for such raw materials.

As well the rich nations must co-operate among themselves to be in a stronger position to help the poor nations.

* * *

"This may be unpopular," he said introducing the third proposal—admission of Communist China to the UN. But there will be no solution to world economic and political problems, he said, unless China

Crash Kills Alberni Man On Caravan

COURTENAY — Death travelled with the happy 18-car publicity caravan from Alberni to Courtenay, Sunday.

Few of the 80 caravan members were aware during the final section of the trip that an accident had killed caravan member Bogart B. Bradley, 59, Faber Road, Alberni.

Two other occupants of his Land Rover were in hospital: Stan Glazier with a fractured right arm and Harold Warren with shock and lacerations.

The jeep pulled out from its central position in the line-up and fell to the back, and was out of sight of the others when the accident occurred.

Just as the group sat down to the lavish dinner prepared at Courtenay, Mayor Les Hammer of Port Alberni was informed of the accident.

The mayor informed Mrs. Edna Souther, president of the Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce, and Mayor Fred Bishop of Alberni.

The three kept silent until the festivities were over.

Mayor Hammer then broke the news to the Alberni Valley group, and with other leaders of the cavalcade rushed away to visit the police, the accident site and Cumberland hospital where Mr. Warren and Mr. Glazier were receiving emergency treatment.

Ran Gas Station

Mr. Bradley, known as Brad to hundreds of Valley residents, operated Tyee Service, adjoining the Barclay Hotel at Third and Redford.

He was a millwright at the plywood plant before opening the service station eight years ago, and had lived in the Valley for 30 years.

The death occurred when Mr. Bradley's vehicle was in collision with a half-ton truck driven by Austin Littler, 23, of Courtenay.

The accident happened at 1:05 p.m. at the intersection of Comox Logging and Courtenay-Cumberland roads.

"Courtenay or Bust" was the theme of the trip, made to promote the proposed road between the Alberni Valley and Cumberland, to link the two valleys with the Comox-Powell River and the Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert ferry systems, and complete a circle route.

The road has been surveyed, walked over and travelled by motor vehicles on several occasions. The Sunday motorcade experienced no difficulty in making the trip, and arrived at the Comox Logging gates at 12:30 p.m.

They were met by Charles Pearce, president of the Courtenay-Comox Chamber; Robert McKellar, president, Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and Dan Campbell, minister of municipal affairs.

'If Worst Comes'

The cavalcade then proceeded to the Native Son's Hall in Courtenay where they were guests at a luncheon. Master of ceremonies Charles Pearce, in introducing the minister said, "if the worst comes to the worst we'll start to build the road ourselves."

The minister said, "I accept the offer, as I am a firm believer in the free enterprise system."

Mr. Campbell told the groups from both Alberni and Comox Valleys, as well as Powell River, that the two valleys must marry.

He said two principles govern the building of highways, need and economic feasibility. He assured those present that despite a popular myth, the minister of highways does not take out a ouigee board and multiply the population of Pakistan with the population of Kelowna and compare this with the square root of something else, to determine when a road will be built.

More than 3,000 cars have already made bookings on the new Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert ferry to go into operation early next year.

This system would be part of the circle tour idea, and would provide greater incentive for the tourist to come north of Nanaimo. Already double the number have travelled to the north Island as made the trip last year.

The minister told the Alberni representatives their area will not become the forgotten land.

Link by 1967

Present expectations will see the start of the Cumberland-Alberni road link by 1967.

The proposed road has now reached a priority stage, he hinted.

The chambers of commerce came in for some advice from the minister when he told them they had a greater role to play than just promoting road and ferry links.

He said they should be ahead of these events by having adequate services ready for the tourist.

Chairman of the Cumberland Village Commission told the guests that the first survey of the road had taken place 30 years ago.

Guests were treated to samples of Alberni breadboards made in the shape of fish to advertise two of the valley industries.

IWA Told:

Weekly Wages Give Advantage

International Woodworkers of America official Jack Moore, former Alberni Valley unionist, has told the Vancouver IWA convention it should consider changing from hourly wages to weekly or monthly salaries.

Mr. Moore said the change would benefit union workers because hourly rates would not have to be raised so sharply when working hours are reduced.

"Working hours will be reduced, as surely as night follows day," said Mr. Moore.

TWO HOURS OFF

He also suggested an employee be entitled to two hours off for every hour of overtime he works, instead of being paid for overtime.

Duncan IWA official Weldon Jubenville said new machines and technological advances should result in higher pay for increased worker responsibility.

He said a vigorous fight will be necesary for increased wages and improved working conditions, and recommended unionists:

"Go to the polls and elect people who will not allow anti-labor legislation to be written onto the statute books."

Drama Study Starts Soon

CAMPBELL RIVER — Miss Paddy Campbell of Vancouver will conduct classes in drama for students, teachers and adults for the next two weeks in Campbell River.

Classes will be held daily Monday to Friday at the Elm Street School Sept. 13 to 24.

Campaign Budget Doubled By Nanaimo NDP Group

NANAIMO — New Democratic Party members in the Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands constituency have increased their budget for the coming federal election campaign by 100 per cent.

In the 1963 campaign $2,500 was spent to elect Colin Cameron as NDP member.

The decision was made on the weekend at the first meeting of the current campaign at the home of Mrs. Joyce Nash, Cedar, campaign manager for Mr. Cameron.

The increase is almost entirely due to the acceptance of a commitment to raise $2,500 as the riding's share of provincial and national budgets.

Plans were made to raise the money as soon as possible so that there would be no hold-up in national campaign plans.

Policeman Bags Fur Rug

Const. Frank Parker shot a fur rug for himself Sunday. He killed this 100-pound female cougar in a Harewood garden. He found the cat up a tall tree, after being called to the scene by worried residents. The cougar was killed by one bullet from a British .303.—(Les Englefield)

Bus Cuts Sought In Port

PORT ALBERNI — Tyee Bus Company, which runs the city's transit service, will ask the Public Utilities Commission for permission to cut all bus service after 7 p.m.

If the commission approves, after Oct. 4 all trips from 7 p.m. to the present 11 p.m. deadline would be cut.

Last service on Ian Avenue will be 5:45., last run on River Road will be 6:15.

COUNCIL INFORMED

Notice of intention to make the request was conveyed to council here Monday night.

Council will go to the people with a transit referendum Oct. 19.

The ballot will ask whether the public wishes the company to continue to operate the transit system, and whether there should be some form of subsidy to the company.

But Ald. Howard McLean said after the meeting even if the company gets a subsidy, it would not mean the night-time service would be restored.

ASK FOR WORK

Also at the meeting, Turner Brothers, contractors for the new Credit Union building at Fourth and Angus, asked for some city work.

They requested work on sidewalks, paving, curbs, gutters, and a lane between Fourth and Fifth.

Council agreed the work is needed, and will share with the Credit Union the cost of some parts of the program.

Nanaimo

Big Bylaws Up for Vote

NANAIMO — Residents will vote on two bylaws Oct. 7, a $1,230,000 capital improvement bylaw, to be spent over a five year period, and the granting of a 15-year bus franchise to Nanaimo Transit Ltd.

Almost half of the money raised from the capital improvement bylaw, $608,000, would be spent on badly needed street improvement including construction, paving, storm drain, water main and sewer installation.

Another $250,000 is for a new firehall on Fitzwilliam Street, plus aerial fire fighting equipment.

RECREATION JOBS

Recreation would receive $175,900 for a recreation complex at Bowen Park, new floor and pipes at the Civic Arena, and development of the inner area at Grandview Bowl.

Other items included in the money bylaw include $102,500 for improved facilities at the public works yard; $78,400 for an extension to the police office and magistrate's court; $25,200 for renewal of underground wiring for downtown ornamental street lighting; $5,000 for construction of a caretaker's building at the cemetery; and $4,600 for installation of automatic signals at railway crossings.

BUS FRANCHISE

The bus franchise bylaw, if passed, would give the council power to borrow up to $55,000 for the purchase of equipment.

This money will be repaid over a ten year period by the bus company.

Calling for approval of the bylaws, Ald. Jack Parker said, "construction costs have increased by up to 25 per cent over the past five years and all signs indicate that these will continue to increase."

Indian Decision 'Slap in Face' – Duncan Mayor

DUNCAN—City council here says it has been "slapped in the face" by Cowichan Indian band, and Indian agent Ron Sampson.

The band has refused to sell to the city two parcels of land near the new provincial courthouse, one piece for Underwood Street extension, the other for a parking lot.

But, said a letter from the Indian agent, the band council has offered to lease the land.

City council roundly condemned the Indian action. One alderman said it showed a "lack of direction."

Mr. Sampson's letter said, speaking of an Indian band council meeting, "I noticed an over-all concern for the gradual loss of small parcels of land from the reserve.

"In recent years there have been several such losses, including land for highway and street purposes, and school land."

He said the Indians feel they should hold their land for future generations.

Mr. Sampson pointed out the Indians now rent some land to the city for parking. The city is renting parking land at $4,000 a year, and a sewage lagoon for $3,500.

Mayor Jack Dobson referred to the communication as a "slap in the face," and said he did not understand the letter.

"This is not the first time this has happened," said the mayor, "we don't want to take anything away from the Indians."

Ald. Hamish Mutter said rental is "wrong in principle." Ald. Robert Mason said council "has been pussy-footing long enough."

Election Tactics Mapped by NDP

CUMBERLAND — Tom Barnett, member of the last parliament and candidate in the Nov. 8 federal election, told a Comox-Alberni riding meeting Sunday "There is more experience in the New Democrat parliamentary group than in the discredited Liberal cabinet."

Because of the election call made by the Prime Minister, the meeting was devoted to discussion of campaign tactics for the re-election of Mr. Barnett.

B.C. leader Robert Strachan said people welcome government intervention in their affairs in times of crisis.

'PEOPLE WILL ACCEPT'

"We know the people of Canada will accept government participation in almost every section of our society," he said.

Mr. Strachan said when an industry is in trouble, or when there is a financial problem or labor problem, the public wants government action.

Only one other candidate in Comox-Alberni, independent J. Alex McKenzie, has been declared in the election.

Federal Liberal, Progressive Conservative, and Social Credit spokesmen are getting ready to nominate.

At the NDP meeting:

Mr. Barnett paid tribute to the work of former MP's for Comox-Alberni while claiming "It is from our group that the other parties are getting their ideas."

Contraband Sought

Private automobiles leaving Vancouver Island via Swartz Bay and Gulf Island ferry terminal are being checked for contraband potatoes and plants, a department of agriculture official said Monday.

The ferry check is a further tightening of the quarantine placed on southern Vancouver Island by the department to halt the spread of the golden nematode.

It is illegal to move potatoes or plants with soil, according to plant protection officer R. J. Mayers.

He said permits can be obtained from the plant protection office to move plants which have been grown in an approved sterile medium.

Alberni Valley Vote

Voters Not Interested

Disappointment Follows Centre, Pool Rejection

PORT ALBERNI—Two of those most disappointed by the failure of two joint projects in voting here Saturday were the president and secretary of the Alberni Branch of the Old Age Pensioners Association.

* * *

Speaking of the death of a joint project to build a senior citizen's centre, which passed in Alberni but failed to get 60 per cent approval in Port Alberni, president Mrs. Dee Damery commented:

"We had so hoped it would be passed. I don't know why people didn't back us up.

"I hate to think it, but perhaps wages are so good and work is so steady many residents can't imagine what it is like for older people to get along on $70 a month."

Mrs. Kathleen Pickles, secretary, said she had been told by one man that he ignored the activity centre and pool because he "wasn't interested".

"I told him he was a marvel", said Mrs. Pickles tartly, "he's the only person I know who isn't going to get older."

It's becoming more and more difficult for the local old age pensioner group to push for a building with so many of their group now reaching late seventies and early eighties, the president pointed out.

Five projects were covered on the three ballots, and only one, that covering the firehall, police station and city works yard, passed.

Mayor Les Hammer of Port Alberni pointed out the new works yard will permit much more economical and efficient operation of this aspect of city business.

* * *

Until the two cities become one, Alberni will share use of the new works yard with Port Alberni, contributing a portion of the cost of operation.

This joint use will permit mass purchasing, a money-saving equipment pool, and much more efficient operation than the two present works yards.

The new police headquarters will provide for one major control centre for the valley and down the canal, and in addition to police protection will have the magistrate's court and disaster headquarters in the same building.

* * *

Replacement of the present inadequate firehall with larger, better equipped quarters will permit the eventual operation of a small full-time force in conjunction with the volunteers who carry the heavy load at present, Mayor Hammer said.

Alberni Mayor Fred Bishop let the provincial government know immediately that the exclusive Alberni bylaw covering flood control and Johnston Road reconstruction had been approved by ratepayers.

He said "I hope work can begin soon, so some progress can be made before winter. But the decision on starting date is up to the two senior governments."

Toronto Thought Likely For John D's Kick-Off

OTTAWA (UPI) — Conservative headquarters will announce Wednesday or Thursday where and when Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker will officially launch the party's Nov. 8 election campaign.

Behind-the-scenes organizers are now torn between Ontario and the west as the kickoff points with Ontario and Toronto the most likely.

Toronto is being favored because it is the province where the Conservatives need gains and also because assurances have been received from Premier John Robarts that he and his provincial election machinery will be behind the federal Conservatives, sources said here Monday.

The weekend organization meeting of the Conservatives was jubilant when it learned of Robart's support, sources said.

KEY ROLE

The closed weekend meeting discussed the itinerary of Diefenbaker, Conservative campaign policy, and organizational structure.

Senator Allister Grosart, 50-year-old former national director of the party, will play a key role once again in the election organization. Grosart was given much of the credit for the Conservative wins of the 1957-58 campaigns.

ON HUSTINGS

Richard Thrasher, present party national director, will leave late this week to run in Essex South, a riding he represented from 1957-62.

The party is also losing national president Dalton Camp and Diefenbaker executive assistant B. T. Richardson to the hustings. Both have already begun campaigns in Toronto ridings.

Remaining party organizers now are trying to determine who will replace these men during the campaign.

Residence Qualification at UVIC

Some Students May Vote

By GUY STANLEY

Only out-of-town students attending University of Victoria for the first time may be affected by the technicality in the Canada elections act barring students from voting in the coming federal election.

Ray Bryant, electoral returning officer for Victoria, said that it was "up to the student" if he wanted to claim Victoria as his place of residence on the basis of having lived here while attending University of Victoria last year.

LOCAL DECISION

"No instructions regarding the enumeration of students have been issued by the Victoria returning office," Mr. Bryant said.

"It's not up to us, It's up to the enumerators to decide whether a student is a resident."

The Canada Elections Act requires university students studying away from their home constituencies to be registered at the away-from-home institution by the date of issue of the election writs before they can claim the university town as their ordinary residence and thus be enumerated there.

Election writs came down Wednesday, before registration had begun at Victoria. The students who cannot return home may be disfranchised.

OTHER SECTION

But by claiming normal residence in Victoria, the students would come under another section of the act.

For other than students, the act requires a person to be "ordinarily resident for 12 months preceding the issuance of writs" to be eligible for enumeration, according to Mr. Bryant.

"But there are a great many exceptions.

"We have issued special instructions to enumerators covering every one of these exceptions except students.

"However, I would say that students who claimed ordinary residence in another town would be out of luck in getting on the lists here," said Mr. Bryant.

University of Victoria student council president Paul Williamson, himself an out-of-towner who feels he may be affected by the act, commented, "I'm going to advise students to have their names put on the list."

INTERPRETATION

"As far as I'm concerned, if students are at university they will be here for half a year and can be considered as residents. But that's just a personal interpretation."

"Copies of the voters' list will be drawn up and mailed to every voter after enumeration is completed," said Mr. Bryant.

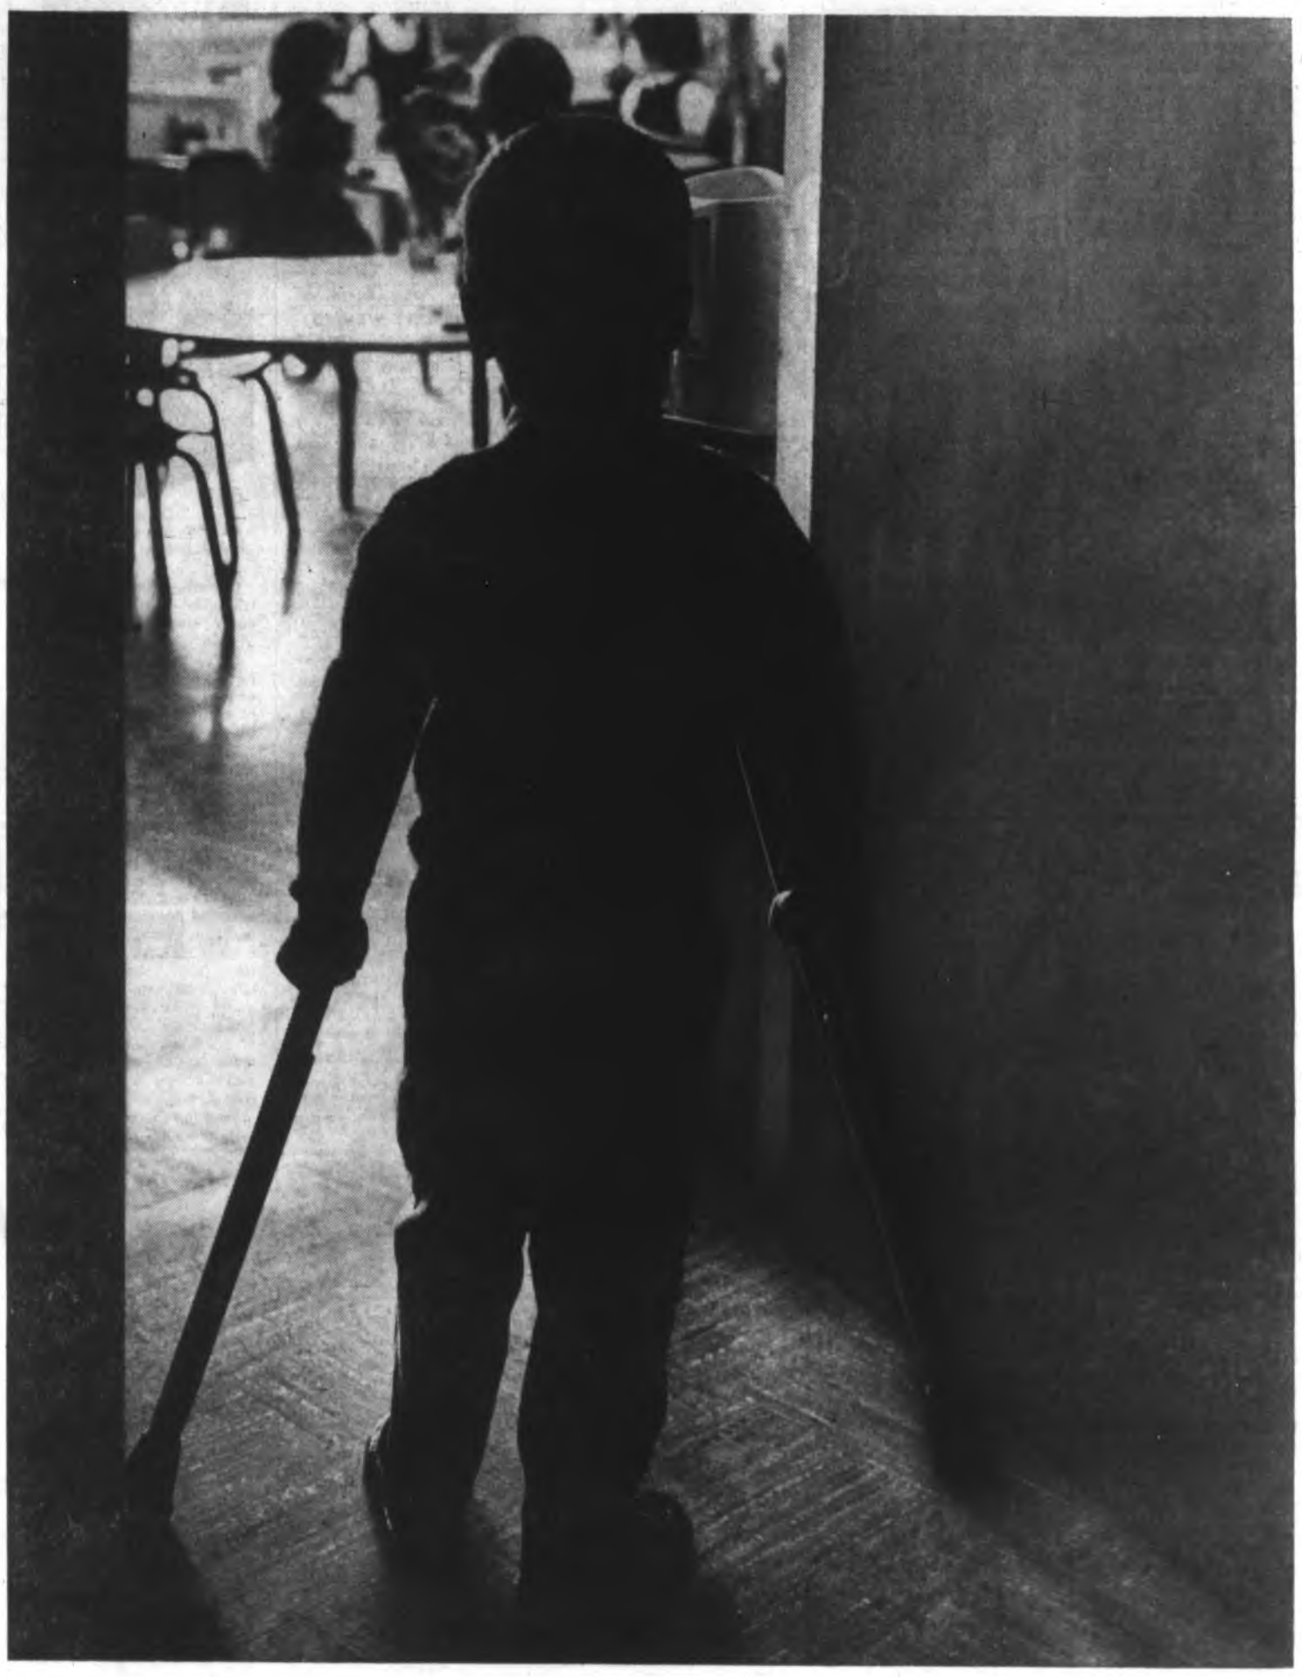

"Any dissatisfactions come up before the revisions officer."

"Should an eligible student find his name not on the list or an ineligible one be included, it can be changed at revisions," he said.

Enumeration will take place from Sept. 20 to 25. The revisions officer will hear complaints from Oct. 21 to 23.

Nelson Castonguay, the chief electoral officer, said Monday he will not comment on a statement by University of B.C. students claiming they have found a legal loophole to permit thousands more to vote until he receives their representations.

He was commenting on a statement by Peter Braun, vice-president of the UBC students, who said students who have placed a deposit with the university during the summer months to reserve accommodation may meet the residence requirements of the Canada Elections Act.

Forest Test

Birdlife Survives Chemical Spraying

FREDERICTON (CP)—Preliminary indications are that this year's aerial spraying of New Brunswick forests with the chemical phosphamidon has had no ill effects on birdlife.

The chemical was introduced in 1963 along salmon streams after DDT was found to have caused a high mortality rate among young salmon.

It proved effective against the spruce budworm and didn't harm the fish but did kill birds in 1963 and again last year.

LOW CONCENTRATION

This year phosphamidon was sprayed in lower concentrations and, in conjunction with a penetrating agent, Invadine JFC, produced faster absorption by foliage so that the birds were exposed to the chemical for a shorter time.

"At low dosages the budworm spray will not harm the birds," says Dr. C. D. Fowlie, head of the biology department at Toronto's York University who led a research team studying the effects of the chemical.

He found that direct spraying of the birds with phosphamidon did them no harm but that even a small amount on their perches made them accumulate enough to cause sickness.

DDT, which has little or no effect on birds, continues to be used in deep forest areas away from streams.

Foresters estimate that more than 6,000,000 acres of budworm-infested spruce and fir in northern and central New Brunswick have been saved for commercial purposes by annual spraying since 1952.

Japanese Fair Gains Approval

PARIS (Reuters) — The Bureau of International Exhibitions Monday authorized Japan to hold a world fair in Osaka in 1970. A spokesman for the bureau said the decision was taken as no other country had asked to stage a world fair in 1970. The next world fair will be in Montreal in 1967.

Telescope Job Awarded

OTTAWA (CP) — The first contract for work on the Queen Elizabeth Observatory in British Columbia has been awarded to Corning Glass Works of Corning, N.Y., the mines department announced Monday.

The contract, said to be slightly in excess of $1,000,000, is for the fused quartz reflector, heart of the 150-inch telescope that is expected to be ready for 1972.

ROAD SURVEY

The $9,671,000 observatory project was announced last fall during the Queen's visit but actual work to date has been restricted to surveying a road to the top of the 6,500-foot peak overlooking the Okanagan Valley.

Scientists at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain are already engaged in planning and design of the giant mirror, and two opticians have been taken on staff.

Polishing the mirror will take three opticians between four and five years.

A spokesman at the observatory said as yet no site had been chosen for a building which will house the reflector while it is being polished.

The optical polishing shop will have to have a special 85-foot tower to enable opticians to make tests. The spokesman said a decision on the site of the optical shop will be made "in the next few months."

The observatory's chief optician, Roy Dancey, has just returned from Tucson, Ariz., where a polishing operation similar to the Canadian operation is being carried out.

What's the use of advertising?

well, it's helping Jackie to walk again

Jackie will walk again because of the generosity of many people he's never met—people who have never met him. Yet these people knew of and answered the need for funds to teach Jackie and children like him to walk again. They knew because of advertising.

Advertising has so many faces, so many uses. There's the commercial face of advertising, that sells products, thus promoting economic growth, producing jobs, and raising the standard of living.

Then there's the humanitarian face of advertising. This advertising raises funds for medical aid and research. Teaches traffic safety. Finds homes for orphaned children. Fills blood banks. Does hundreds of widely diversified jobs that benefit all of society. This advertising can put a smile back in a child's eyes . . . can save a life . . . can comfort a lonely man.

Social service agencies, religious organizations, medical centres, all know of what great use advertising is. Because without advertising, these institutions would find it very difficult to function. To carry out their work, to benefit all of us, they need public support. And they get that support through advertising.

Think about it next time you pick up your daily newspaper. Think about the many faces of advertising. And if you ever wonder what the use of advertising is, think of Jackie. Advertising is helping him to walk again.

Mr. Montgomery took home the first prize, and Mr. Bawa was awarded fourth prize, but all six drivers of the local company who took part were in the top half of a total of 107 entrants.

For the first time one company took two top prizes, and for the first time Island commercial drivers were winners in this difficult competition.

Alberni Valley

Mop-Up Follows Fair

PORT ALBERNI — Every year the Alberni Fall Fair winds up with someone celebrating the winning of a fine new car, but this year two major prizes had two families reeling.

Albert Francoeur, his wife and four youngsters, of Cherry Creek Road, are looking forward to happy motoring in the 1965 car Mr. Francoeur won Saturday night.

Charles and Bonnie Clarke of 510 Burde Street plan to use their $1,000 bill as the down payment on a home for themselves and their two children.

Fair officials estimated a further 15 per cent increase in attendance this year over 1964's record breaking gate.

Rowdiness and vandalism was almost nil this year with one sticky exception.

Sunday afternoon, as club and fair board members laboured at their clean-up, boys broke the lock on the Kinette's popcorn booth, and poured the contents of orange drink containers into the popcorn machines.

Horse Show

Bonnie Richmond and Elaine Tetrault carried off top honors at the Alberni District Fall Fair horse show, Saturday.

Rosette ribbon for the most points in the show, senior division, went to Bonnie Richmond on Satu, with 20 points, closely followed by Elaine Tetrault, on Sabre, with 19 points.

Elaine Tetrault also won the junior rosette, with 10 points, followed by Shirley Campbell, with 5 points.

The McCulloch Trophy for best-groomed horse and rider went to Miss Richmond on Satu.

Frances Rorwick of Victoria, and formerly of the Alberni Valley, looked forward to competition with her old riding companions, but in her first competition, the barrel race, her horse Indian Summer slipped and suffered a sprain which left them out of action for the balance of the day.

In the lead, walk, trot and canter, Jenny Brock was the winner, and the small miss delighted viewers as she expertly handled her pony Keewahtona, outdoing older competitors.

Best weanling colt or filly, for the Rogers Beauty Salon Trophy, was Chiquita, owned by Alvin Joy, with Carole Walton's Copper Candy second.

Best yearling colt, filly or gelding was Chantara, owned by Mike Mihaychun, with Prince, owned by Walter Kyle, coming second.

Bob Owens of Oyster River was judge of the day-long show, with Hartley Haynes acting as ring master.

Modify Living Things, Control Evolution

Creation of Life New Goal?

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) A scientific leader has proposed that the artificial creation of life itself be set as "a national goal."

★ ★ ★

A rush of knowledge is putting within sight the ability to modify living things and to control evolution, and ultimately to create new or existing forms of life, perhaps new "human" life, said Dr. Charles C. Price, president of the American Chemical Society.

★ ★ ★

"The job can be done—it is merely a matter of time and money," and great effort, he told a general session of the society's national meeting, amplifying his views in an interview.

He said a first result—coming about in perhaps 10 to 20 years — could be ability to achieve "more efficient production of plants and animals, or even species doing things never done before." Or to improve human characteristics.

"I can't imagine that the ability to synthesize (create) new life will not happen within a century or so," he added.

★ ★ ★

Dr. Price suggested the search for such knowledge be organized as a national goal, not unlike the U.S. space program.

The other choice is to let such knowledge and vast powers "come about haphazardly," he said.

But setting it as a national goal—or even possibly as an international goal—"would allow time and opportunity to consider the critical questions of who then might control" life and evolution and for what purposes.

Dr. Price said he outlined his ideas by letters in June to scientific leaders in some government agencies — the Atomic Energy Commission, National Institutes of Health, and National Aeronautics and Space Administration — "who are doing some component work in the bio-sciences" or life sciences.

★ ★ ★

"They were much interested. In general, the reaction was that the idea should first be considered carefully by the scientific community before being brought to the government.

★ ★ ★

"Success could lead to modified plants and algae for the synthesis of foods, fibers and antibiotics, to improved growth properties of plants and animals, or even to improved characteristics for man himself."

SEA LAB PLANNED IN AREA

By BILL STAVDAL

A $2,250,000 oceanographic institute will likely be started in Esquimalt harbor within a year, federal mines and technical surveys minister J. Watson MacNaught announced Monday.

Tenders for a $3,500,000 hydrographic vessel to be based at the institute have already been called, said the minister in Victoria, and another hydrographic-oceanographic ship will be built later.

SITE TOURED

Mr. MacNaught, appointed to his position only two months ago, made the announcement after touring the future site in Colwood, on the west side of Esquimalt Harbor. He was accompanied by David Groos, Victoria's Liberal MP.

The institute will have a staff of 180 to 200 people, said William E. van Steenburgh, deputy minister of mines and technical surveys. An oceanographic group with a staff of 20 now located at Departure Bay in Nanaimo will be moved south and incorporated in the new station.

START IN YEAR

"Within a year, if we get the money, we can start building, said Mr. van Steenburgh.

He estimated that the institute will open in 2½ to three years.

The deputy minister said it will operate in conjunction with the Pacific Naval laboratory, which now conducts research into marine sound transmission for the navy.

COAST GUARD

The institute will also incorporate a hydrographic station now located in the Inner Harbor of Victoria.

A coast guard station will be based at the institute.

"We expect the contracts for a tide-and-current vessel for the West Coast will be let very soon," said Mr. van Steenburgh. It will be about 270 feet long, he added.

The $3,500,000 hydrographic

Indian Troops Beaten Back By Pakistanis

RAWALPINDI (Reuters)—Indian troops backed by planes, tanks and artillery made several efforts Monday to advance on the hard-fought Sialkot battlefront but Pakistani forces beat them back, a Pakistani government communique claimed.

The communique said the Indians suffered heavy casualties in the sector which they invaded from beyond the Kashmir border last week.

BIGGEST OF WAR

The battle around the town of Sialkot—just south of the 1949 United Nations ceasefire line in the disputed border state of Kashmir—is regarded here as the biggest action of the war. But Pakistani authorities declined to give any fighting details beyond the communique.

"We can say no more than that it is a heavy engagement," an official spokesman said.

MAJOR FORCE

The Pakistanis faced what they estimated to be 50,000 Indian troops, including a full armored division, in the battle.

Experts here have said the outcome of the war could hinge on the Sialkot action because of the heavy loss of tanks and armored equipment to both sides.

Meanwhile, it was announced that Iranian Premier Abbas Hoveida and Turkish Foreign Minister Hassan Isik will fly to Rawalpindi together today to confer with President Mohammed Ayub Khan on military aid.

OFFERS SUPPORT

All three countries are linked in the western-sponsored central treaty organization, and Iran and Turkey have offered support and aid to Pakistan.

Premier Suat Hayri of Turkey announced Saturday that his country would send $5,000,000 worth of Turkish-made arms and ammunition to Pakistan under their existing trade agreement.

Long Reign

Norway Rejects Labor

OSLO (AP)—The long-established socialist government, architect of Norway's welfare state, conceded defeat early today in the two-day parliamentary elections.

Premier Einar Gerhardsen, whose Labor party has ruled for 30 years, except for three weeks in 1963, announced his government had fallen several hours after the polls closed.

SENSATION

"We will get quite another political constellation and a situation with the Labor party in opposition," Gerhardsen said in a broadcast.

Gerhardsen's defeat created a sensation in traditionally socialist-minded Scandinavia. Political observers predicted the assumption of power by a middle-of-the-road coalition of the four opposition parties, although the socialists remain Norway's largest single party.

UPSURGE

The socialists fell on an upsurge of right- and left-wing sentiment among Norway's 2,400,000 voters. Incomplete returns indicated they may have lost as many as four seats, more than enough to tumble them from power.

The biggest gains were racked up by the Conservative party, which held 29 seats in the old Parliament, although it was not certain whether it would be able to name the premier in a new coalition.

Other members of the anti-socialist coalition are the Liberals, who held 14 seats in the old Parliament, the Christian People's party, 15, and the Centre party (Agrarians), 16.

UN Mission To Kashmir Needs Help

NEW DELHI (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant's mission to end the fighting between India and Pakistan appeared stymied Monday night and there were signs he would seek help from world powers.

Reports of victories in the field hardened India's stand on its terms for a ceasefire.

Pakistan made similar claims of victory on the western front around Lahore and Sialkot in Pakistan. It showed no willingness to compromise.

SEES RUSSIAN

After meeting here Monday with India's Foreign Minister Swaran Singh, Thant met privately with the Soviet charge d'affaires, Alexei A. Rodionov.

A UN spokesman said Thant and the Russian discussed the possibility of Thant's return to UN headquarters in New York by way of Moscow. While UN officials said this would be only a stop to change planes, there were reports Thant wanted to see Soviet Premier Kosygin.

NEW APPEAL

A short time after Thant met with the Soviet envoy, word reached New Delhi of a new Soviet appeal for an end to the fighting. A Soviet statement carried by the news agency Tass said the Soviet government is seriously alarmed by the hostilities and expressed fear that it might involve the entire world.

The Soviet statement appeared to be aimed at China, which supports Pakistan and once again has raised fears of a renewal of the 1962 border conflict between India and China.

'STAY OUT'

In Washington, U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk advised China to "stay out" of the India-Pakistan conflict.

"I think that there are those who feel that China is fishing in these troubled waters," Rusk told reporters.

"I think the Soviet attitude has been helpful so far," he added.

Indian officials privately acknowledged that if anything could force an end to the conflict it would be pressure by the Soviet Union and other powers, especially the United States and Britain.

BIG CONTRIBUTIONS

The United States has contributed more than $6,000,000,000 to India's economic development since 1951 and the Soviet Union has poured in more than $1,000,000,000. The U.S. feeds a great portion of India's population and

'Ready to Fight For 1,000 Years'

RAWALPINDI (Reuters) — Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto said Monday night Pakistan is prepared to fight for 1,000 years "to free" Kashmir.

He told correspondents the fighting with India would continue until Pakistan's three-point plan concerning the disputed state is accepted.

Pakistan's plans call for the complete withdrawal of both Indian and Pakistani troops from Kashmir and a plebiscite within three months to determine the area's future.

An Afro-Asian United Nations force would patrol Kashmir during the interim period.

"If India rejects the plan, the conflict will continue," Bhutto said.

NOT NEGOTIABLE

"Our three-point plan is not negotiable," he said. "We know we are a small nation but if need be we will continue to fight to free Kashmir for 1,000 years."

He added: "Our position is that there must be a freely-conducted plebiscite within Kashmir to allow the inhabitants to choose whether the area shall be part of Pakistan or of India."

Meanwhile, in New Delhi, India said Monday Pakistan's proposals for a settlement of the Kashmir dispute are a deliberate attempt to wreck United Nations Secretary-General U Thant's peace mission.

TERMS LISTED

Pakistan's peace terms, announced last Sunday and repeated Monday, call for a complete withdrawal of Indian and Pakistani forces from Kashmir, the stationing of an Afro-Asian security force in the area and a plebiscite in three months.

Half-Cent Refunded To Railway

An error of half a cent has been corrected by the provincial cabinet, and Canadian National Railways is happy again.

The railway recently bought 173,074 gallons of diesel fuel and paid a tax of one cent a gallon called for by a Colored Gasoline Tax Act.

Then a CNR accountant discovered that the railway should only have paid half a cent a gallon, under the Fuel Oil Tax Act.

It took an order-in-council to refund the CNR's $865.37.

Dead? No One Knows!

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Ships, planes and divers searched the murky Mississippi River for a missing cargo of poisonous chlorine gas upriver at Baton Rouge Monday as the New Orleans coroner's office laid out cots in a makeshift morgue to handle a mounting hurricane death toll.

Officials urged Baton Rouge's 160,000 inhabitants to stay calm but the Louisiana State capital was tense as the hunt was pursued for the barge, one of many believed swamped by hurricane Betsy last Friday.

Dr. Nicholas Chetta, the coroner here, said bodies of hurri-

Juvenile Ruling Upheld

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Appeal Court ruled Monday that juveniles charged with breaking provincial traffic laws must be tried in juvenile court.

The ruling upholds a Supreme Court decision that quashed a lower-court speeding conviction against a Prince George youth.

The Supreme Court had ruled that the youth, who was 17 at the time, should have been tried in juvenile court under the federal Juvenile Delinquents Act.

Indians Protest Integration Phone Queen for Support

LEBRET, Sask. (CP) — Eight Grade 12 students began a "sit-in" Monday determined to remain in the Indian residential school here until they are assured they and future students will be able to take Grade 12 at the school.

★ ★ ★

They want to finish their high school education at an all-Indian school despite a ruling by the Indian affairs department that they attend integrated high schools.

The students sat in the lounge of the school here Monday night drinking coffee and munching sandwiches supplied by a resident. They said they would stay in the school until they were allowed to register.

Rev. Leonard Cherron, school principal, said he was ordered by the Indian affairs department not to register them.

"We don't object to being integrated but we don't want to be forced into it overnight," one student said.

The department is closing the school gradually, phasing-out a grade each year beginning with Grade 12. It is the only school in Saskatchewan with an entirely Indian population in Grades one to 11.

★ ★ ★

A committee of the protesting students has asked Mr. Pearson and Senator A. H. McDonald of Regina to intervene. A phone call has been placed to Queen Elizabeth on the matter, a spokesman said.

Stop Fighting And We'll Help

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian delegate to the 54th inter-parliamentary conference appealed to India and Pakistan Monday to stop fighting each other and get on with the mutual battle against poverty, ignorance and disease.

"We of the affluent world stand ready to help our Indian and Pakistan friends to fight these enemies—but not to kill men and women," said New Democratic Party MP Colin Cameron.

Mr. Cameron, who has represented the British Columbia riding of Nanaimo-Cowichan-the Islands almost continuously since 1953, intervened in a conference debate on economic development with a strong plea to both donors and recipients to live up to the responsibilities of international development assistance efforts.

British MP Warns: Not Enough Food

Share Wealth or Face Another World War

OTTAWA (UPI)—Delegates from 61 countries were told at the 54th inter-parliamentary conference Monday to "stop using the United Nations as a witch doctor's incantation."

★ ★ ★

Sir Cyril Osborne, British economist, exporter and Conservative Member of Parliament, in what he termed "a practical speech," blasted the delegates for leaning on the UN to solve problems, while insisting on retaining control of their destinies.

He named three points necessary to stave off a third world war: birth control, equitable distribution of the world's wealth, and admission of Red China to the UN.

★ ★ ★

"We must share our wealth or all go down in a bloody third world war," he said, later in an interview. "The next world war will be over food."

Osborne thought his 30-minute address before the world gathering of politicians probably fell on deaf ears. "I've attended these conferences for 15 years; I've said the same thing for 15 years."

★ ★ ★

But he felt the western world "will take the action that is necessary" when starvation hits the "have-not" nations "on a massive scale."

Osborne's action evolves around a worldwide abandonment of national interests.

It means:

● A halt to the "terrifying" world population growth rate. He estimated a five-fold increase in food production will be needed to feed the projected world population of 7,000,000,000 at the end of the century. By the year 2035 "there won't be enough to eat."

● A correction of the "maldistribution" of the world's wealth, implemented by "staggering sacrifices" by the rich nations.

★ ★ ★

He noted the poor nations are the world's prime source of raw materials, and said the rich nations should be required to pay "three to four times more" for such raw materials.

As well the rich nations must co-operate among themselves to be in a stronger position to help the poor nations.

★ ★ ★

"This may be unpopular," he said introducing the third proposal—admission of Communist China to the UN. But there will be no solution to world economic and political problems, he said, unless China
